SECRET 6 HEADS TO FACE GRAND JURORS TODAY

Randolph and Jamie Get Subpoenas.

Robert Isham Randolph, head of the Secret Six, and Alexander Jamie, former prohibition agent who is now co-director of the Secret Six, were served with subpoenas last night calling for their appearance this morning before the grand jury. They are summoned to substantiate the charges they made yesterday in an election statement, to the effect that an unidentified investigator obtained a file of records from the state's attorney's office by paying a bribe of $100.

R. I. RANDOLPH.

Mrs. Shirley Kub, former police stool pigeon and now chief assistant to Jamie, was also sought by the subpoena servers, but she could not be found. The subpoena for her was given to Jamie when his own subpoena was served on him last evening at his home, 9804 South Winchester avenue, and he promised to have her on hand for questioning by the grand jury this morning. Detectives continued their search for Mrs. Kub, however. They said they would ask a capias for her arrest if she does not appear.

Randolph Served at Airport.

Randolph was served with his subpoena as he alighted from a plane at the Chicago airport on his return from Kansas City where he made a speech on Chicago crime conditions. Detectives Arnold Bloom and William Brady handed the summons to Randolph as he stepped from the plane. They said he appeared surprised.

The grand jury inquiry was ordered by State's Attorney Swanson when the Randolph-Jamie-Kub charges were made public during the afternoon. Mr. Swanson placed his acting first assistant, William A. Rittenhouse, in charge of the investigation. Mr. Rittenhouse is a veteran of 20 years' service under both Democratic and Republican prosecutors.

Demands Quick Prosecution.

"If any one has any evidence of corruption on the part of any employé of this office, I want that employé indicted and prosecuted at once," Mr. Swanson told Rittenhouse.

The file involved in the bribery charge was made up chiefly of a copy of a statement in an arson murder case, the prosecutor said. The statement was taken by the city fire attorney's office and a copy was turned over to the state's attorney's office. The original, Mr. Swanson pointed out, is in the hands of the fire attorney, a Democratic appointee. The statement previously had been made public in a Felony court hearing, he said.

Assails the Secret Six.

In a reply to the Randolph-Jamie-Kub charges, State's Attorney Swanson charged that the Secret Six has lost its effectiveness as a crime fighting unit. He declared it has degenerated into a "front" for political organizations and said this was shown by its action in getting alleged evidence of bribery and then suppressing it for months, until the eve of election.

Mr. Swanson said he had recently discovered that a business partner of Randolph and two organizations with which the Secret Six leader is connected, had appeared at the same time on the pay rolls of the sanitary district during the whoopee era when the district was under control of Timothy J. Crowe, former Democratic leader.

Hits District Connections.

"It is because of his fear of the knowledge the state's attorney now has that Randolph is so vehement in his charges against me in his efforts to intimidate and discredit my administration," Mr. Swanson said. "There is good reason why Randolph wants my office filled by another sanitary district pay roller, the Democratic candidate for state's attorney.

"I have the records of payments made by the sanitary district to the Randolph-Parkins company, of which Randolph is a principal member, totaling $1,000 a month plus expenses. Perhaps Mr. Randolph can explain why his partner, L. K. Sherman, was also on the pay roll for $1,000 a month and expenses. In addition, the

ROOSEVELT AIDS HEAR KICKS ON NEWARK SPEECH

Davis and Baker Are Substituted.

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The Democratic national committee today took steps gently to ease a lid on ex-Gov. Alfred E. Smith's campaign speechmaking so far as broadcasting is concerned. However, his speech tomorrow night in Boston will be broadcast.

Mr. Smith's speech in Newark Monday night in behalf of the Democratic ticket did not go so well in points south and west and the national committee conducting the Roosevelt-Garner campaign was in something like a panic today.

Radio time that the national committee had reserved on national hookups for ex-Gov. Smith's scheduled speeches in Buffalo and Brooklyn has been canceled. John W. Davis and Newton D. Baker have been substituted for Mr. Smith.

Protest "Bigotry" Talk.

It became known during the day that many letters and telegrams have been received at national headquarters from Democrats in the south and west, protesting against Mr. Smith's revival of the religious bigotry issue from the 1928 campaign in his Newark speech.

These messages urged that "Al" be kept off national radio hookups during the remainder of the campaign, else a wave set in against Roosevelt and Garner in the rural regions of the west and south. Yet the ex-governor will speak over a national hookup from Boston tomorrow night.

Time Switched Today.

The national committee a week ago notified the Columbia Broadcasting system, which will broadcast tomorrow night's speech, also to hold radio time for Mr. Smith's Buffalo speech on Saturday night, according to Columbia representatives. But on Tuesday afternoon, after the Newark speech by Smith, the committee switched this time to Mr. Davis, Democratic candidate for president in 1924, who will speak for the Roosevelt-Garner candidacy Saturday night in Ithaca.

The national committee had also notified the Columbia Broadcasting company to "hold" radio time for Mr. Smith in Brooklyn on Nov. 1, and substituted Mr. Baker, former secretary of war, as the speaker at that time and place at the same time it substituted Mr. Davis for Saturday night's address. This fact is learned from the Columbia company.

Mr. Smith, it is understood, expressed resentment at the change of plans and his representatives announced that they had arranged independently a state wide hookup of seven radio stations to broadcast his Buffalo speech.

In State Committee's Hands.

At Democratic national committee headquarters, after news of the radio changes became known, no one in authority would admit that anything out of the ordinary had happened. An official of the radio division said that arrangement to broadcast the Davis speech had been made some time ago but that the committee had learned only recently the time that Mr. Davis would deliver it. The radio division also asserted that the national committee never had authority to make arrangements for Mr. Smith in Buffalo anyhow as it was to be a speech for Col. Herbert H. Lehmen's gubernatorial candidacy and therefore the arrangements were in the hands of the state committee.

On behalf of the state committee it was said that it was never planned to put Mr. Smith on the Columbia chain from Buffalo as the speech was to be on state affairs and did not call for a national hookup.

This, along with assertions that the reaction to the Smith speech in Newark had been favorable to Roosevelt, was the "official" attitude of the Roosevelt leaders. James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, stuck to his statement of Tuesday that it was "a great speech."

"Might" Have Hurt Some.

Privately, however, several Democratic leaders admitted the Newark speech, "might" have hurt Roosevelt in some sections, but they contended that Governor Roosevelt was so strong in those sections that the reaction would not be dangerous. On the other hand, they insisted, the speech would help Mr. Roosevelt in sections where he needed strength.

At the offices of the Columbia Broadcasting system, it was explained that the Democratic National committee's radio division a week ago ordered

THE DAY WE TAKE OUR BEARINGS

NONE CAN RECALL GRAIN PRICES AS LOW AS YESTERDAY'S

Grain prices throughout the world yesterday dropped to new levels. On the Chicago Board of Trade December wheat fell to 44¼ cents per bushel, the lowest point in the memory of living men. December oats at 14¾ cents per bushel and December rye at 28 cents per bushel likewise declined to levels never before recorded by the Board of Trade. Prices for grain were lower even than in the panic days of 1896.

Cash sales of new corn in the middle west were at prices which, after deducting for freight and husking costs, left nothing for the farmer. In Chicago best bids for corn were only 21 to 22½ cents.

In Calgary, Alberta, corn was selling for less than sawdust and was being used for fuel. Corn is reported used for fuel in a number of middle western states. In Iowa farmers were reported as getting as little as 7 or 8 cents a bushel for corn.

REVEALS PLOT TO OUST CAROL AND RESTORE REGENCY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The present upheaval in Rumanian politics was created by the machinations of the exiled Prince Babu Stirbey, King Carol's lifelong enemy and once the secret force behind the Liberal cabinet which, through Dowager Queen Marie, controlled the regency, according to a dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph today.

The dispatch said the prince, who went into exile on Carol's restoration and is now reputedly in Switzerland, plotted for the return of both the uncrowned Princess Helen, divorced wife of Carol, and Carol's brother, Prince Nicholas. He intended, it was said, to overthrow the dynasty and recreate the regency under Marie for the former boy king, Michael, son of Carol and Helen.

Tells Police He Saw Man Being Taken for a Ride

Edward J. Taaffe of 1718 East 85th place reported to the Grand Crossing police this morning that he saw what he believed was a man being taken for a ride. Taaffe was driving in 75th street, he said, when at St. Lawrence avenue a man about 52 years old leaped out of another automobile just ahead. Three men chased and caught the man, he said, and dragged him back to the car. The victim appeared terror stricken, Taaffe said. Sergt. Edward Nealon ordered an investigation. Taaffe furnished police with the license number of the suspicious car.

Chaplin Wins; Sons Kept Out of Film Jobs

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin won again today in his legal argument against the desire of his former wife, Lita Grey Chaplin, to place their two small sons in motion pictures.

Her petition for the right to enter into a contract on behalf of the boys, Charles Spencer Chaplin Jr., 7, and Sydney Earl Chaplin, 6, was denied after the comedian had testified "Picture making is not so healthful as it was in the old days of the open studio."

It was Mrs. Chaplin's second unsuccessful attempt in open court to obtain court approval of the contract. Superior Judge H. Parker Wood last Sept. 15 granted Chaplin's petition to modify a custody agreement entered into Aug. 19, 1927, at the time the Chaplins were divorced. The judge ruled the children should not be placed in films without the consent of both parents.

Wife Explains Motive.

Both Chaplin and Mrs. Chaplin were in court today, but the children were not present. Mrs. Chaplin was asked why she wished to have the children enter into the film contract.

"To try and erase the wrong impression that many people have of me," she replied. "I have been in vaudeville for four years for the same purpose."

Chaplin testified he believed it would damage the children's future physchologically for them to enter screen careers at such early ages.

The ruling was given by Superior Judge Charles S. Crail.

Chaplin pointed out that he had established a $200,00 trust fund to care for his sons, and said he objected to "their exploitation in motion pictures."

Mrs. Chaplin explained that the contract with the Fox Film company called for the payment of $10,000 to each of the boys.

Father Best Judge.

"I believe Mr. Chaplin to be one of the greatest actors on the screen," said Judge Crail. "On the other hand, I take it that Mrs. Chaplin had little success in motion pictures. It would seem to me that Charles Chaplin would be better able to judge what exploitation in pictures means."

When the judge decided the case, Chaplin leaped to his feet with a beaming smile, exclaiming to his attorneys, "It's glorious, glorious, glorious."

DARBY DAY IS FOUND GUILTY OF MAIL FRAUD

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Darby Day and Jerome B. McCutchan were convicted by a federal district court here tonight of conspiracy to use the mails to defraud in connection with the organization of the Chicago Fidelity and Casualty company and the taking over by it of several other insurance companies. Sentence was deferred until Nov. 4.

Day, once prominent Chicago insurance executive, and McCutchan, former St. Louis insurance company organizer, were specifically charged with misrepresenting the value of first mortgage bonds on southeast Missouri lands which were mailed to the Missouri insurance department as a guarantee fund. These bonds, the government alleged, enabled them to obtain permits to do business in other states.

The government alleged Day and McCutchan, through "traw men" obtained notes and deeds of trust with a face value of $1,400,000 in making up the assets of the casualty company, representing that they were secured on southeast Missouri land worth twice that amount.

Hoover Plans 15 Speeches on Two Trips

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Speech writing had first place on the White House working schedule today as President Hoover strove to complete the fifteen or twenty short talks and addresses he is slated to deliver during the two major campaign trips he will make over the week-end.

The arrangements now provide for presidential rear platform addresses in a dozen cities while the President is going to and from Indianapolis to deliver an address in the Indiana capital Friday night. On Monday the President will make talks at seven cities while en route to New York to make his major bid of the campaign for the votes of the states along the eastern seaboard.

Will Stop at Newark.

The White House today added Philadelphia to the list of cities where the President will speak on his invasion of the east. As the schedule now reads, Mr. Hoover will speak for twenty minutes in Philadelphia, leaving the train to carry his appeal for votes to the citizens of Pennsylvania. At 4:45 the same afternoon the President will arrive at Newark, N. J., for an hour's campaign. Special attention has been given by the President to the speech he will deliver in the city where Al Smith was given such a noisy reception last Monday night.

Following his return to Washington Tuesday, the President is scheduled to plunge at once into the task of preparing the speeches which he will use as ammunition in making a final dramatic bid for the highly important electoral votes of the middle west.

Concentrates on Midwest.

In this connection it was said that the President certainly will make two speeches and probably three in the central states during the first week of November. From the day he decided to go to the country personally to make his appeal for reelection the President has devoted virtually his whole attention to the doubtful states of the farm belt on the theory that these states must be won if his fight for another four year term is to be successful.

The trip to Indianapolis will mark the fourth time that the President has spoken in the central states in the space of a little more than three weeks. The address at Indianapolis, Republican officials said today, is to be a smashing attack against the policies and programs advanced by the Democrats, especially by Gov. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Climax in Last Week.

It was said today that the Des Moines, Cleveland, Detroit, and Indianapolis presentations of the President's case for reelection will be capped the final week of the campaign by one major address in which President Hoover will sum up the whole campaign, deliver a final attack on his Democratic opponent and close with an appeal that the voters of the nation return the Republicans to power.

The President's speaking engagements, as formally announced up to date, seem to make a sensational last minute presidential campaign tour to the Pacific coast physically impossible.

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—An assailant who injured two persons by dropping a baby carriage and a brick into an open air political meeting sponsored by supporters of Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia was hunted by police today. Isaac Hazen, 42, suffered a possible skull fracture when the carriage hit him. A brick fractured the shoulder of Mary Saylor, 29.

Bird Migration Large; Predict Cold Winter Ahead

KINGSVILLE, Ont., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Officials of the Jack Miner bird sanctuary never have seen such a large migration of birds as is going on this fall, and on the strength of it they look forward to a cold winter. About 200 geese arrived today from their winter nesting grounds in the Hudson Bay en route to their winter quarters in southern United States.

LAW INSTRUCTS MAYOR TO CUT WATER SUPPLY

Resolution Sets Up Emergency Board.

Seek School Pay Loan

Three local governments took steps yesterday to improve their financial affairs:

1. The city council, by unanimous vote, directed the mayor to deprive tax strikers of water service and other municipal privileges.

2. The county board announced a pay day for county workers next week. (Details on page 2.)

3. The school board studied a plan to negotiate loans for the payment of back salaries. (Details on page 2.)

The city council took drastic action yesterday against tax strikers in a resolution which, among other things, empowers the department of public works to turn off the water in large income bearing properties whose owners have refused to pay their taxes. The council also set up a Chicago emergency commission to carry out the terms of the resolution.

While this was going on, Hayden N. Bell, county tax attorney, prepared to go into the County court today and seek judgments against three downtown skyscrapers which owe $1,233,337 in taxes. None of the building owners in question has paid a cent of taxes since the 1928 levy.

Adopts It Unanimously.

The city's indictment of the tax strike and the outline of its methods for dealing with the participants were set forth in a resolution prepared by Assistant Corporation Counsel Leon Hornstein at the direction of Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the council finance committee. The council adopted the resolution unanimously and practically without debate at the special meeting called for that purpose.

The resolution authorizes Mayor Cermak, within ten days, to appoint as many members as he sees fit to the Chicago emergency commission, at least one of whose members shall be thoroughly conversant with real estate values in the city. Mayor Cermak said that he would execute the council mandate shortly.

Seeks End of Tax Strike.

The emergency commission is empowered "to take all such steps deemed advisable as will bring to an immediate end the present tax strike on the part of large property owners, well able financially to pay their taxes but refusing to do so." By large taxpayers, the resolution states, the council refers to those taxpayers whose unpaid bills exceed $10,000. The city controller has estimated that 60 per cent of the $200,000,000 in unpaid taxes in Cook county is owed by this class of taxpayer.

Commissioner of Public Works Sprague is empowered by the resolution to refuse water service to any large property owner who, in the judgment of the Chicago emergency commission, is able to pay his taxes but has refused to do so.

May Revoke Permits.

Further powers for dealing with such tax strikers are invested in Mayor Cermak. He is requested at any time ten days after the passage of the resolution "to revoke in his discretion all permits heretofore granted for switch tracks, canopies, electric signs, use of public property upon, over or under public streets and sidewalks, no parking privileges, and other special privileges of any character," granted to taxpayers who have financial ability to pay their taxes but have refused to do so and are delinquent to the extent of $10,000 or more.

Another section provides that no city department shall in the future issue a permit for any of the special privileges listed above to any large taxpayer until he shall have presented a receipt for taxes. Exception is made of cases in which the applicant shows that he is financially unable to pay.

In another section Corporation Counsel Sexton is directed "to cooperate with the county attorney in the matter of requiring receivers and other valuable income earning property upon which court proceedings have been instituted to pay up delinquent taxes at once, wherever the property is earning an income sufficient to do so."

The resolution recommends further that all cases in the County court involving objections to the 1928, 1929, or 1930 taxes, which objections have been adjudicated in the Bistor and Cisar cases, be carried to judgment and orders for tax sales obtained at once.

The action of County Attorney Bell yesterday was in accord with this final recommendation. It was considered significant that the first three properties on which he will seek judgments are represented by lawyers who prosecuted the Bistor and Cisar suits. Mr. Bell has charged repeatedly that these lawyers are the motivating force behind the tax strike, because of their hope of collecting large fees on a contingent basis if they are able to exact compromise tax settlements from the county.

First Case on Trial Today.

The first case set for trial before County Judge Jarecki today is that of the Riverside Plaza corporation, owners of the Pure Oil building, Wacker drive and Wabash avenue. The attorney in the case is Morris Schaeffer, who represented the plaintiffs in the Cisar case along with Attorney Roy D. Keehn.

This building has paid none of its taxes for 1928, 1929, or 1930. It owes $134,164 for 1928; $160,215 for 1929, and $175,536 for 1930, a total of $469,965.

Attorney Schaeffer is also the representative of the State-Lake building, at the southwest corner of that intersection. This building is listed in the tax objection suit as the property of the Marshall Field estate. A representative of the estate said last night that the property is held under lease b ythe State-Lake Building corporation, which is required by the lease to pay the taxes. The Field estate is not participating in the tax strike, the spokesman added.

Pays Portion of Taxes.

In 1928 this building paid a portion of its taxes and objected to the remainder, $46,994. It made no payment for 1929 or 1930, owing a total of $250,660 for those years, or a grand total of $297,675 for the three years.

The third property against which judgment will be asked is at the northwest corner of State and Randolph streets, owned by the State and Randolph Building corporation. Carroll and Schaeffer were attorneys for the building in 1928, when it objected to its whole tax bill, $110,747, for that year. Objections to the 1929 and 1930 taxes were entered through the Real Estate Taxpayers' association, largest of the groups charged with fomenting the tax strike, and the association's attorneys, Watkins, Ten Hoor and Gilbert, represent it in these objections.

The building owes a total of $465,745 in taxes.

Another Blow at Strikers.

Another blast against the tax strikers was delivered yesterday by the Cook county board. Appearing before that body, Attorney Bell was asked if it would be possible to restrain the tax strikers in an equity action from their efforts to continue to litigate matters which have already been passed upon by high courts. Mr. Bell replied that such an action would be up to the attorney general as the representative of the people. The board has already petitioned Attorney General Carlstrom to take such action.

"Is it ethical for lawyers to take a case as many of them have done and to urge people not to pay their taxes?" asked Commissioner Grace Fleming.

"It's ethical as long as they don't commit common barratry," replied Mr. Bell. [The statutes define that crime as "wickedly and willfully exciting and stirring up quarrels between the people of this state, with a view to promote strife and contention."]

Evidence of Barratry.

"We know," continued Mr. Bell, "that with two billion dollars of assessed valuations under objection in the County court that barratry must have been practiced by most of the attorneys in these cases. We can't prove it, but we all know it.

"Now in the Pratt cases (brought by the Association of Real Estate Tax Payers, which pays John M. Pratt $20,000 a year as its secretary and radio propagandist) they were on the air asking people not to pay taxes. Now they are before the Supreme court on charges of illegal practice of law. I understand also that the state's attorney's office has joined with John R. Snively, chairman of the committee on unlawful practice of the State Bar association, to investigate charges of criminal conspiracy against that outfit."

COUNTY WORKERS ASSURED A PAY DAY NEXT WEEK

Board Razzes Prof. Fisher's Offer of Aid.

County employés will get half a month's pay on next Monday or Tuesday. That announcement was the most concrete result of a two hour discussion of their financial and pay roll troubles yesterday by the county commissioners. The back salary installment will be for the first half of June.

The discussion ranged from denouncement of tax strikers to comedy. It reached the latter stage when the suggestion that Prof. Irving Fisher, noted Yale economist, be invited to solve the county's fiscal program was greeted by one of the county commissioners with a resounding "raspberry."

"Prof. Fisher," Commissioner Grace Fleming informed her associates, "has called Commissioner Kelly on the telephone. Mr. Fisher has heard of the tangled tax situation in Cook county, and out of the generosity of his heart he has offered to come here and help us find a solution of our problems merely for his expenses."

"What Is Prof. Fisher?"

"What are his expenses?" demanded Commissioner William Busse. "Is he an amateur athlete?"

"Prof. Fisher is not an extortionist," retorted Mrs. Fleming. "He is a humanitarian and a scientist."

It was at this point that Commissioner Charles Weber gave vent to "the bird," for which he received a glare from Mrs. Fleming.

"We've got plenty good enough economists in Cook county," said President Emmett Wheelan. "Our only problem is to make these big tax strikers come in and pay. It's not the small people who are trying to put the county in bankruptcy."

"The thing we want to know, and the thing the county employés want to know," said Commissioner Peter M. Kelly, "is when they're going to have another pay day."

Deputy County Controller O'Connor then disclosed that he had sold $196,000 worth of county corporate bonds and highway fund tax warrants to the Chicago Surface Lines. This, with a $40,000 fee collection from the state and an advance by County Treasurer McDonough of anticipated fee collections in his office, will make up a $500,000 payment next week to 2,500 county employés and 1,600 mothers on the widows' pension rolls.

Kelly Plan Impractical.

At this point Hayden N. Bell, attorney for the board, gave an opinion that legal difficulties would make impracticable Commissioner Kelly's proposal to give county employés salary assignment slips for their unpaid wages, which they could use for purchases of necessities. Mr. O'Connor President Wheelan and Commissioner Maurice Kavanagh, chairman of the finance committee, suggested the issuance of tax warrants in place of the Kelly scrip. A committee was appointed to interview county employés as to which plan they prefer.

Another committee was appointed to ask the Reconstruction Finance corporation to lend the county money on its tax warrants, or if the loan cannot be made direct, to ask Chicago banks to take the warrants and negotiate the loan with the R. F. C. This was in accordance with a resolution by Commissioner Walter J. La Buy. A similar proposal on behalf of city and school employés was turned down several months ago by both the R. F. C. and the banks.

A third committee was appointed to act on a suggestion of Edward J. McCabe, secretary to Treasurer McDonough. This was that the county draft a judgment note on its payrolls from June 15 to Aug. 15, for $8,000,000, and seek to sell it to the banks. County Treasurer George F. Harding was successful in doing this in 1927, Mr. McCabe said.

ALDERMEN CONSIDER REQUEST TO PERMIT PARADE OF JOBLESS

The city council yesterday referred to its committee on unemployment the request of organizations of the unemployed to hold a parade. he committee will hold a public hearing in the council chambers tomorrow afternoon, which will be attended by public officials, represented by relief organizatin of relief organization and of the unployed by representatives of the United park of the United Front of the Unemployed, composed of several organizations, some of which are reported to be controlled by communists.

Those who appeared before the council were Raymond Sanford, member of the advisory committee of the Chicago workers' committee on unemployment; Karl Borders, University of Chicago lecturer and chairman of the executive committee of the workers' committee; and Warren Lamson of the United Front.

They said the parade would be a protest against the 50 per cent reduction in orders for perishable groceries put into effect this month by relief agencies at the request of the state relief commission because of lack of funds. The unemployed representatives have also protested to the relief commission against the practice of giving out ration boxes of food instead of allowing the unemployed to buy their food at stores for themselves. It was explained that the ration box issue was adopted because it is more economical and gives the relief organizations the benefit of wholesale prices on food.

CITY NEAR END OF TAX WOES, SZYMCZAK SAYS

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—M. S. Szymczak, city controller of Chicago, predicted today that within two months that city would have its tax muddle straightened out and its financial affairs restored to a point at which its obligations would again have an A1 rating in the municipal bond market. Within 90 days, he added, about 90 per cent of the "tax strikers" would have paid their back levies.

Mr. Szmyczak said the opinion prevailed in some quarters that owners of small homes were the tax objectors. The real story, he said, however, "appears to be based upon the idea held by certain lawyers that the financial distress because of nonpayment of 1928 and 1929 taxes would be a fine opportunity to secure large fees for tax reductions. It has been estimated that these lawyers expected to get 10 million dollars in fees in case of success."

Those responsible for the "tax muddle," he said, mainly are among property owners whose tax bills amount to $2,500 to $10,000 a year or more.

"The talk that the owner of a small home has been hard hit due to taxes is all a fallacy," he declaired. "The small taxpayer has been paying his taxes regularly."

Stolen Auto Hits Street Car; Capture Three Boys

One alleged auto thief was injured and his two pals were caught when they drove a stolen automobile into a Kedzie avenue street car at Jackson boulevard this morning in an effort to escape from Detectives Edward Fiala and Fred Wright of the Fillmore street station. The injured youth is Albert Tenuto, 18 years old, of 3239 Flournoy street. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital. His companions are Jack Luna, 18 years old, of 3831 Harrison street, and Ernest Trombetta, 16 years old, of 803 South Albany avenue. Luna and Trombetta admitted, police said, that they had stolen the car in which the accident occurred.

PROPOSES PLAN TO MEET SCHOOL PAY PROBLEM

Taylor Would Issue Tax Warrants to Teachers.

School Trustee Orville J. Taylor at a board meeting yesterday suggested the appointment of a trustee to hold school board tax warrants, who would have powers forbidden the board itself by law in negotiating loans on the warrants as security, as a way out of the school system's pay roll difficulties.

Under the law the board of education may not post its tax warrants as collateral for loans. Neither may it sell the warrants at less than their face value. Trustee Taylor's plan, by evading these restrictions through appointment of a trustee, would, it is hoped, overcome some of the present reluctance of banks toward purchases of school board warrants.

Proposed as Pay Plan.

He proposed that the board issue 1932 tax warrants to teachers and other employés in payment of back salaries. The employés, in the same transaction, would turn them back to a trustee, possibly a school board employé. The trustee would seek loans up to 50 or 60 per cent of the warrants from banks, the proceeds of which would be paid over to the employés.

The interest on the tax warrants would cover the interest on the bank loans. The school employés would have to wait until the warrants were redeemed through tax payments for the balance of their money.

Two advantages were claimed for the plan. First, it would give school employés part of their back pay without waiting for tax collections. Second, it would give banks, reluctant to pay the full face value of tax warrants through direct purchase from the board at a time when the same warrants are selling at a heavy discount in the open market, a means of lending whatever they considered a safe percentage of the value of the warrants.

Board Passes Resolution.

Trustee Taylor made his suggestion in the form of a resolution which was passed by the board. The resolution provided that a committee consisting of President Lewis E. Myers, Thomas V. Sullivan, attorney for the board; Supt. William J. Bogan, and Business Manager Howard P. Savage call a meeting to discuss the plan.

To this meeting would be invited representatives of the teachers and of school labor unions, bankers, and members of the citizens' committee on public expenditures. President Myers said that he would summon the meeting within a few days.

Deny School Closing Petition.

The school trustees yesterday denied a petition of 600 teachers to close the schools in order to force the payment of taxes. Mrs. W. S. Heffernan, a trustee, passed her vote following a heated debate with her colleagues.

Trustee James A. Hemingway proposed that the petition be placed on file. Trustee Taylor said that the petitioners were entitled to "a yes or no" on the proposition and suggested that they be given a hearing.

"A hearing will only lend color to the agitation," said Trustee Joseph P. Savage. "I move that the petition be denied." The motion was passed with the votes of President Myers and Trustees Taylor, Hemingway, Savage, and Ernst Buehler.

DIES OF BULLET WOUND.

Lavina Sewell, 52 years old, 466 East 35th street, a Negress, died yesterday in the county hospital of a bullet wound received Tuesday following a quarrel with Helen Redmond, 4305 South Wabash avenue, another Negress.

INSULL COMPANY IN LONDON PLANS TO QUIT BUSINESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Samuel Insull Jr. spent most of today with his solicitors, Simmons & Simmons. Both client and lawyers refused to comment on any future plans of Insull senior, who is now in Greece, a fugitive from extradition to Chicago to stand trial on charges of larceny and embezzlement.

It was revealed, however, that the firm of Insull Son & Co., Ltd., merchants, in Threadneedle street, London, is being wound up, "according to plans of the company," as the secretary put it.

The secretary of the Dragon Trust corporation reiterated today that none of the Insull family at any time had anything to do with Dragon Trust. The secretary declared that numerous people, including a mysterious American woman, has been in to examine the books of Dragon Trust since the Insull affair started. He also declared that Slaughter & May, solicitors and agents, no longer act for Insull in any capacity whatsoever.

SWANSON ORDERS AIDS TO SPEED UP INSULL'S CASE

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday ordered his assistants to speed up preparation of the necessary depositions for the extradition of Samuel Insull from Athens, Greece, and Martin Insull from Orillia, Ontario, Canada. Because of the unwillingness of some of the former employés of the Insulls to aid the work has been slowed up. It was announced, however, that the task may be finished today.

Swanson denied rumors circulated yesterday to the effect that he was on any Insull preferred list. He repeated statements he made at the outset of the Insull investigation that he was a stockholder in one of the Insull enterprises, but in a legitimate manner.

"At the time it was announced that a public subscription was to be offered for Corporation Securities I purchased 200 shares through a regular brokerage office and at the regular price," he said. "I still have that stock and have taken my loss."

Pair Shoot Black Fox on the Far South Side

Allen G. Kollmann, 2214 123d street, Blue Island, and Ottomar A. Hilliger of Tinley Park, shot a black fox yesterday at 16th street and Crawford avenue. Several foxes have been seen in the neighborhood in the last two years and hunters expressed the belief that the animals had followed the banks of the drainage canal to the district.

HORNER TELLS 1,200 TEACHERS HOW HE STANDS

Small Absent; Alderman Nelson Talks for Him.

Twelve hundred public school teachers packed the Adelphi theater yesterday to hear the views of Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor, and his Republican opponent on six questions affecting the schools, teachers' salaries and teachers' pensions. Judge Horner appeared in person while Len Small, his opponent, sent a proxy, Ald. Oscar F. Nelson.

At the outset of his speech, Judge Horner scored Small's persistent refusal to face him on any public platform and assured his audience that while Small had pleaded a previous engagement, he was at that moment sitting in his Morrison hotel headquarters awaiting a report on the meeting. Small sympathizers in the audience immediately began to hiss.

"Be fair," the judge urged. "Remember that this statement is the statement of an honest man, whose record in public office is the best evidence of his integrity. I have had many invitations to appear before such civic minded groups as yours and each time have been advised that my opponent is busy somewhere else."

Judge Answers Questions.

The hissing changed to cheering. The candidate then picked up the letter which brought him to the meeting and began answering the questions, as prepared by Charles B. Stillman, president of the joint conference of principals and teachers, sponsors of the meeting.

"You ask if I will use my influence in behalf of the state distributive fund and protect it against assaults," the judge began. "My answer is that while I propose to reduce taxes by elimination of waste and extravagance, I pledge that there will be no cut in educational or welfare work. As soon as state finances allow, I want a substantial increase in the fund.

"Will I use my best efforts to secure back pay for the teachers? I trust the teachers will have been paid before I take office, and this is an earnest wish. If they remain unpaid and state legislation can remedy the evils which have brought about nonpayment, I pledge all my efforts to find a remedy; and you have this pledge from me direct.

For Revision of Tax System.

"With reference to your third and fourth questions, I agree that revision of our revenue system is essential to secure adequate revenue for education. I have pledged that immediately on taking office I will call upon a commission of tax experts and economists to devise an equitable system to spread taxes equitably upon all forms of wealth. Moreover, I favor a law compelling tax objectors to pay at least a reasonable portion of their assessed tax before they may be allowed to contest their assessments in court.

"On questions five and six, I pledge my utmost influence to safeguard teachers' salaries and pensions and strengthen the civil service in every branch. The dead men on the state pay rolls are going back to the cemeteries whence they came when I take office. There will be no bossism. My only boss is my conscience."

Nelson Speaks for Small.

On behalf of Len Small, Ald. Nelson asserted that during Small's eight years as governor appropriations for the state university were increased 210 per cent; appropriations for education of crippled children, 1,000 per cent, and appropriations for the educational fund, 420 per cent.

"On my own behalf," the alderman said, "I charge that there is a national conspiracy afoot to attack the public schools in the name of economy, and I charge this conspiracy was born in Chicago. Among the conspirators are Fred Sargent, D. F. Kelly, Ernest R. Graham and other gentlemen who are cracking the whip over the city council, county board, school board, and sanitary district in making their budgets.

"If the press were serving the public, the publishers wouldn't be printing editorials and headlines on the question but would take a position that finances should be forthcoming. No Chicago newspaper is supporting Len Small and no newspaper controls him."

NOTES OF THE CAMPAIGN

Senator Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota, in a statement of support for President Hoover at headquarters, said: "Hoover has faced, fought, and mastered the critical events of the last few months."

Harold L. Ickes, chairman of the western committee of the National Progressive league [Roosevelt], put out a sheet twitting Senator William E. Borah of Idaho. "It's a curious coincidence," he said, "that the same day on which the Beerless Knight, Senator Borah, tut-tuts Al Smith on beer, wheat hits the lowest price on record."

Charles C. Younggreen, advertising executive, who has been president of the International Advertising association and the Advertising Federation of America, in a statement made public from G. O. P. headquarters, gave six reasons why Hoover should be reelected. One of them is: "Because the economic balance is still so delicately adjusted that we will feel safer if it is continued under the present wise control until the steel yard can be more firmly geared to the pivot."

Straw votes taken in the Lincoln High school and the junior high school, Niles Center, show President Hoover and Vice President Curtis leading Gov. Roosevelt and Speaker Garner, both among the faculty members and students. Judge Horner led Len Small and Lieut. Gov. Sterling was ahead of Thomas F. Donovan, his Democratic opponent.

The Slovak-American Citizens' League of Illinois has announced its indorsement of Judge Horner for governor and other Democratic candidates, "because we feel they are able and willing to serve all the people of the commonwealth equally."

The Better Government association gave out a statement opposing the reelection of State's Attorney Swanson and recommending his opponent, State Senator Courtney.

The national, state, and county issues will be discussed and debated Monday night at a meeting in Mandel hall of the University of Chicago. Maj. E. B. Tolman will speak for the Democrats on national issues, Silas Strawn for the Republicans, and Roy E. Burt for the Socialists. Judge Horner and Len Small will talk on state issues. State's Attorney Swanson, Senator Courtney, and William Cunnea, Socialist candidate for state's attorney, will discuss the county issues.

State Senator Harry G. Wright, Republican candidate for state auditor, will speak at a meeting given under the auspices of Chicago temple, No. 128, Knights of Khorassan, at 16 East Ontario street, on Saturday night.

Republican headquarters last night announced the result of a presidential poll conducted among students of the University of Chicago by the Daily Maroon, student newspaper. President Hoover led with 1,391 votes. Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate, came next with 763. Gov. Roosevelt trailed them with 604 and William Z. Foster, the communist, was last, polling 124 votes.

Republican headquarters announced that Theodore Roosevelt, governor general of the Philippine Islands, will make a radio speech from Manila today at 5 p. m. Chicago time.

2 ENLISTED MEN HELD FOR THEFT OF ARMY PAPERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Oct. 26.—Army officials today held two enlisted men charged with stealing confidential documents and with attempting to dispose of the papers to a man whom they believed represented a foreign power.

An army operative posing as a foreign agent obtained the documents from the soldiers by paying them $100 in marked money after "negotiating" with them in a cottage they had rented at Waikiki a week ago. Their arrests followed.

The men, whose names were withheld, were suspected when official documents and maps disappeared from the document rooms.

HOOVER DODGING CHICAGO SPEECH, HORNER ASSERTS

Judge Attends Rally in Home District.

Speaking last night in his old home neighborhood on the south side, Judge Henry Horner, Democratic nominee for governor, declared that President Hoover had declined to come to Chicago and speak because if he did he would "have to sit on the same platform with Len Small."

A large audience heard the speech in the Trianon ballroom at 62d street and Cottage Grove avenue. Judge Horner urged the voters to support the 20 million dollar relief bond issue, approved for the benefit of the unemployed by the legislature last winter.

Igoe on Platform.

On the platform with him were William H. Dieterich, candidate for the senate; Thomas Courtney, nominee for state's attorney, and Michael L. Igoe, who opposed Judge Horner in the primaries. Igoe said that no candidate in Illinois had ever made so fine an impression on the voters as Judge Horner.

"It is hard to realize," the judge began, "that it is now more than six months since I appeared before an audience in this, my own, senatorial district. It is good to be home again.

"But while I have not been among neighbors I assure you I have been among friends. From downstate Illinois where I have been campaigning for so many weeks I bring you the message that the people of the 101 counties outside of Cook are just as determined that there shall be a change in our government and an end to the conditions that have led to depression as are the people of this county."

These downstaters sent a message in the form of a challenge, said the judge, a challenge to make as good a showing in Cook county on election day as will be made downstate for the Democratic ticket.

He suggested that the voters of his district reply with this sort of message: "You have been fair with us and we want to be fair with you. We will show you that our interests as Illinoisans are the same by giving the $20,000,000 relief measure in which you as well as ourselves are interested an even greater majority than we will give the candidates whom you have so greatly honored."

History of Bond Issue.

"Let me tell you the history of that bond issue," the judge continued. "You will remember that after the money which had been raised by voluntary subscription to care for the unemployed and their families had been exhausted and after the federal government had refused aid to Illinois, it was necessary to obtain funds in some way. The state legislature was appealed to and was asked to authorize a bond issue with the understanding the bonds would be paid for out of the gasoline tax, each county reimbursing the state for the amount expended in unemployment relief within the boundaries of the county.

"There was considerable opposition to the measure, downstate representatives and senators pointing out that once the bonds were issued the counties would be reluctant to reimburse the state, and as the bond issue had to be approved by popular vote it could easily be defeated at the polls. They pointed out that Cook county, casting half the vote of the state, could alone defeat the bond issue, and that the $20,000,000 would then have to be raised by direct taxation.

Support Is Pledged.

"To meet this argument it was necessary for the representatives of Cook county—my friend, Mr. Igoe among them—to pledge the support of Cook county for the bond issue proposition.

"You will see by this recital that we in Cook county are in honor bound to vote to approve the bond issue at the coming election. Most of the money that was realized through the measure was spent in Cook county. In justice to the rest of the state, as well as Cook county, I urge you all to support the bond issue."

U. S. Must Strengthen Navy if Pact Fails, Hoover Says

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—President Hoover today announced that the United States will be compelled to build up the American navy to the full strength permitted by the London naval treaty, if current negotiations for effecting further reductions in world armaments fail.

The President's statement, made in the form of a message to the nation on the occasion of the celebration of Navy Day, was immediately interpreted in diplomatic circles as a warning to European nations that this nation will begin pouring millions of dollars into new naval armaments if the Geneva disarmament conference breaks up without an agreement.

"If these efforts finally fail," said the President, referring to current negotiations for arms limitation, "we shall be compelled by reason of the disturbed condition prevailing throughout the world and the necessity of protecting American commerce, to build our navy to the full strength provided in the London agreement, equal to that of the most powerful in the world."

Cost Nearly a Billion.

The cost of building the American fleet up to the tonnage limits of the London treaty would run between 750 million and a billion dollars if spread over a ten year period. The latest official statistics put out by the navy department show that the United States would have to build 287,230 tons of new warships during the next four years if the treaty limits were attained by Dec. 31 1936, when the London treaty expires.

If the date when parity was attained was extended beyond that date additional ships would have to be added to the program as replacements. The 287,230 ton figure represents tonnage to be built in addition to vessels now under construction and appropriated for. The United States at present rates below both Great Britain and Japan in auxiliary warship tonnage.

The President's statement was put out in advance of navy day, which will be celebrated tomorrow in every section of the country where ships or navy men are stationed. Secretary of the Navy Adams and Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, will make addresses from Washington.

National Defense Paramount.

"I take the occasion of Navy day," said the President, "to remind the nation that the national defense is the first and most solemn obligation placed upon the federal government by the constitution. Our people have ever been lovers of peace and they have consistently pursued a policy designed to preserve national rights by peaceful negotiation wherever possible rather than by resort to arms.

"This administration has spared no reasonable effort to bring about an agreement of all nations upon a reduction of arms, upon the ratios agreed upon at the London naval conference. Our patience in these negotiations has never for a moment jeopardized the safety of the United States. These efforts are making progress."

Ceremony Here

Chicago will observe Navy Day today at the naval reserve armory at the foot of Randolph street and at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station on the north shore. At the foot of Randolph street the U. S. S. Wilmette, training ship for Illinois naval reserves, will be dressed up and open to public inspection all day. The armory also will be open, according to Capt. Edward A. Evers.

The Great Lakes Naval Training Station will be open from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m., and Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius said the public was invited to inspect the grounds and to watch a program of air maneuvers, a dress parade and a sham battle in the afternoon. Special exhibits have been prepared at the aviation mechanics' school, the seaplane hangar and at the armory.

The aerial show will include formation flying, gunnery and tactics performed by a squadron of naval reserve planes. The dress parade will be participated in by the entire sailor personnel of the station. Special rates have been offered by the Chicago and North Western railroad.

Proclamations by Gov. Emmerson and Mayor Cermak call on the city and state to observe the day, which is also the birthday anniversary of President Roosevelt, who built up the naval forces.

SENATOR LEWIS CALLS ON PEOPLE TO ELECT HORNER

Lauds Roosevelt and Hits Hoover and Small.

United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis urged the election of the Democratic national and state tickets in a long statement issued last night, taking the same opportunity to attack the Hoover administration, Len Small, and Senator Hiram Bingham's taunting of the Democrats in his "beer" speech at the Coliseum Tuesday night.

Although he had intended to take the stump for Gov. Roosevelt and Judge Horner in downstate Illinois—a desire he made known last week when he returned from Europe—Senator Lewis' health will not permit this, he feared. He had an experience yesterday which demonstrated with what care he must watch his physical condition.

Suffers Minor Collapse.

The senator was lunching at a restaurant in the Wrigley building in the early afternoon when he suffered a minor collapse. He was guided to an elevator and taken to the Arts club on the second floor of the building, where he rested half an hour before feeling well enough to be taken to his home, the Ambassador hotel, for complete relaxation. Although not regarding the seizure as serious, Senator Lewis felt it was a sufficient caution to look after his health.

There were, however, characteristic Lewis "punches" in his political recommendations last night. "We cannot forget," he said in recalling the Small administration, "that only lately we saw the bonds of the great state of Illinois tendered to the commercial marts of America only to be declined and discredited. The reasons given were that the officials could not be trusted and that the conduct of affairs in Illinois did not authorize a faith or justify a confidence.

"The question for the voters now is, 'Are we to turn the state over to the same sources which brought upon her the only discredit she has ever had to bear—the dishonor and disgrace which she has had to face with shame and bear with bowed head?'"

Lauds Horner's Record.

The happy alternative, said the senator, is found in the candidacy of Judge Horner, "an official whose past career in public office has left him such a clean reputation that no opponent has assumed to intimate a suggestion of impropriety in any action through all his years of service."

"In Judge Horner," continued Senator Lewis, "we present a fitting character to take charge of the state house and begin a cleansing process that the various departments call for and the restoring of the confidence of all citizens in their state."

Similar encomiums were issued for the rest of the state candidates.

The senator attacked President Hoover for permitting the large expenditures on Hoover dam and for taking credit for relief measures passed "by the Democrats and independents in congress."

Of Gov. Roosevelt, he said: "His private life and official conduct make him the ideal man for the honor he seeks, and the Democratic party offers him as an assurance and security to the citizenry of America."

Assails Bingham's Claims.

Correcting Senator Bingham, Senator Lewis said that Mr. Bingham had misrepresented the facts of his two resolutions which he said Lewis voted against.

"The first resolution was merely a request that the different states of the Union suggest some way in which they could join the federal government in doing something, but it specifically avoided any statement for repeal of the 18th amendment. It was that resolution I ridiculed as cowardly and a trick, stating that I was for repeal and sending the question of intoxicants back to the states.

"The second resolution was offered as an amendment to the President's home bank bill for the purpose of blocking the bill. Mr. Bingham knew that he could get no votes upon such an inappropriate amendment. Both the resolutinns referred to were beaten by Republicans as well as Democrats. They are regarded as insincere and as offering no opportunity for beer or repeal. That is why I voted against them."

JANE ADDAMS WILL VOTE FOR HORNER ON HIS RECORD AS JUDGE

BY JANE ADDAMS.
(Noted social worker.)

I am grateful for the opportunity to vote for Henry Horner for governor of Illinois.

I have known him for a long time as judge of the Probate court where many immigrant women and children came before him in the moment of their most dire need. He always discharged his official duties with great ability as well as with understanding and sympathy.

Judge Horner protected the wards of his court from those trying to profit from their unhappiness and bewilderment, not only by apprehending the evil doer but by eliciting that essential good will from the community which is the great American safeguard.

We would be most fortunate if the administration of the troubled affairs of the state of Illinois should fall into Judge Horner's skilled hands.

Dante's statement that the wise man is he who has learned of life, is most certainly applicable to Judge Horner.

ARGENTINA FAILS TO FIND KIDNAPED SON OF RANCHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 26.—Despite the most formidable campaign in Argentine police history, all efforts to locate the kidnaped Abel Ayerza, young son of a wealthy rancher, or to identify his captors, so far have failed.

The whereabouts of Santiago Hueyo, son of the Argentine finance minister, who was released by the kidnapers and who is reported to be carrying the ransom demanded to them, is also a mystery.

It was learned today that the Ayerza family withdrew 120,000 pesos [about $30,000] from their bank, presumably to pay their son's ransom.

G. O. P. REPORTS NEW GAINS FOR HOOVER IN WEST

Points to Change Shown in Polls of Voters.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

As viewed by Republican national headquarters, the "swing to Hoover" movement has now placed the President on an almost equal footing with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the middle west and Rocky mountain states, with prospects that the drive of the next twelve days will land them in the Republican column on Nov. 8.

G. O. P. leaders at the Palmer house headquarters yesterday spent considerable time studying various straw votes. Their analysis led them to declare that since Hoover made his opening speech at Des Moines and the real fighting began, a great turn of sentiment has taken place in the agricultural regions, as well as in the industrial centers. Party chiefs declared that in one poll being made under auspices which are against Hoover the straw votes collected and tabulated in recent days show a marked turn to Hoover.

See Hoover Near Victory.

In this poll Republican headquarters declared the new straw votes of the last few days, since the fighting became intense, indicate that Hoover is leading in states with 256 electoral votes out of the 531 votes in the electoral college. They found cheer in pointing out that this is within ten of the 266 votes necessary to elect him.

As to the middle west, the claims of the Republican chiefs now run about as follows:

They maintain that Kansas and Iowa are "safe for Hoover," that Indiana will fall into the bag after the President's speech at Indianapolis, that Michigan, since the Detroit speech, is rapidly heading toward its normal place in the Republican ranks, and that Wisconsin is getting more Hooverish due to the Republican drive in the industrial areas, especially along the Lake Michigan shore and down the Fox River valley.

The speech of Al Smith Monday night dragging up the "bigotry" charges of 1928 is said to have had an effect in the rural middle west helpful to Hoover.

Call Illinois Doubtful.

Illinois, they concede, is doubtful—the Democrats are claiming it by half a million to a million majority—while Minnesota, which is in a bad way from the Republican angle, is now declared by the Republican leaders to show signs of growing Hoover strength. In Nebraska the Democrats have been reporting tremendous anti-Hoover sentiment in old Republican counties as reported by Republican workers themselves, but the Palmer house G. O. P. headquarters hold that the state is veering toward the President.

Out in the Rockies, Colorado and Wyoming, they forecast, are lining up for Hoover especially on account of the sugar beet industry. Some of the more optimistic cheer leaders yesterday even put in a claim for Oklahoma, on the theory that Al Smith's speech has stirred up the old religious issue and is "costing Roosevelt votes."

Reports on Iowa Vary.

All this is from the Republican point of view. Iowa reports yesterday varied. In southwestern and northwestern Iowa farmers who a few weeks ago were said to be overwhelmingly against Hoover, are now reported to be almost evenly divided, according to some of the returning scouts. Many farmers, however, are writing that this is too optimistic a picture, and that this year the veteran observers are unable to get a real line on the size of the "grouch" vote which represents the tendency in years of depression to vote "to get the ins out."

The G. O. P. headquarters theory is that the arguments which have sunk in deepest are the warning given in industrial centers that industry would be set back and recovery retarded by a Republican defeat, and the argument that those in jobs have a stake in voting to protect their jobs, while those out of jobs have an interest in voting to aid recovery which will produce jobs.

In the farming regions the Hoover illustration of the Rio Grande cattle is reported at headquarters to have sunk in deep.

"The price," said President Hoover at Des Moines, "is $2.50 per 100 pounds on the south bank of the Rio Grande. It is $4.50 on the north bank—and only the tariff wall between."

PLANS SESSION OF "FORGOTTEN WOMAN OF '32"

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Elizabeth Tilton, chairman of the women's committee for education against alcohol today announced "a convention of the forgotten woman in the 1932 election" to be held simultaneously with the convening of congress.

She defined "the forgotten woman of 1932" as "the dry woman," and said the purpose of the coming convention was to make her "the long-remembered woman of 1924 and 1926."

The plan of action, she said, was the formation in each state of "law preservation parties," to vote for dry candidates if the opportunity is given, or if not "to set up candidates of their own, and keep on setting them up, till the forgotten woman holds the balance of power."

CURTAIL RADIO BROADCASTS OF AL SMITH TALKS

Davis and Baker Get His Air Time.

time for Smith in Boston tomorrow night, Buffalo Saturday night and Brooklyn the night of Nov. 1, all national hookups, and authorized the radio company to issue public releases.

On Tuesday afternoon, the day after Mr. Smith's address in Newark, the radio company's representative continued, contracts were received from the National committee showing that Mr. Davis at Ithaca had been substituted for Mr. Smith at Buffalo Saturday night and Mr. Baker for Mr. Smith at Brooklyn on Nov. 1.

Stations Are Retained.

The radio company denied a report published in an evening newspaper that the National committee had stricken off the receiving list for the Boston speech radio stations in three middle west cities—Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Louisville, Ky. It was said that these three cities would be among those to receive tomorrow night's speech, just as originally planned.

Mr. Smith will depart tomorrow morning on his trip to Boston. He is expected to make brief remarks at Providence in the afternoon. His Boston speech will begin at 8:30 p. m.

Reports from Boston that Mayor James M. Curley had refused to speak from the same platform as Mr. Smith, and had been summoned to New York by Mr. Farley, were denied at National headquarters and by Mr. Curley himself. It was announced that "everything was all right in Boston" and that Mayor Curley would address the meeting.

Both Parties See Reaction.

Both Democrats and Republican organizations continued today to feel the accumulated backfire of that single blast by Smith in Newark.

It has thrown a new and wholly unexpected factor into the presidential race. A whirl of developments followed in the wake of Mr. Smith's embittered denouncement of President Hoover and he Republicans as the party of bigotry and hypocrisy.

Led by Senator Borah of Idaho, the drys have seized upon Smith's speech as a possible excuse for returning to the Hoover camp. That was seen today as the outstanding political development growing out of the Newark speech. Apparently it is even more pronounced than the religious reaction.

Mr. Borah on Tuesday mentioned that Smith in his Newark address subordinated all other questions to the one demand: "Give us beer; give us something to drink."

"What a magnificent political creed," Mr. Borah remarked, adding that it was one of the most effective speeches yet made in this campaign in behalf of Mr. Hoover.

Upsets Campaign Strategy.

What influence nationally Senator Borah's denunciation of Smith's speech might have was agreed to be debatable, but the fact that he is pointing the way for the drys who still look to him for leadership was declared to be unquestionably bad for Roosevelt.

The Democrats have been trying to play down the prohibition issue to calm the drys and now Smith in one hour upsets the water wagon, at the same time projecting the 1928 religious issue into the thick of the campaign.

Reports from Ohio today were that Smith's speech had been damaging to Roosevelt in that state, as it had started a dry bolt to Hoover.

Gov. Roosevelt was silent on the Al Smith development when he returned home today from his western and southern tour, but it is known that he is fully cognizant of the situation which has arisen. He is said to have felt the unfavorable reaction and, of course, is powerless at this time to do anything about it.

Churchmen of all denominations were of one mind today in voicing their regrets and protests over reviving the unfortunate religious conflict of four years ago. Catholics have been as prompt as Methodists in making that point clear to the Democratic managers.

Thomas Sees Aid for Hoover.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—With the assertion that if Alfred E. Smith delivered two more speeches for Gov. Roosevelt "then Hoover is sure to be reelected," Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate for President, began a 48 hour invasion of Philadelphia and its vicinity today.

From Ancient Ur

A fragment of brick used in the Temple of the Moon God in Ur, ancient city of the Chaldeans, was presented to Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Century of Progress yesterday by the Common Brick Manufacturers Association of America. William Schlake, president of the association, made the presentation.

The temple was built during the reign of King Kurigalzu of Babylon about 1400 B. C. and the brick bears his seal. The stone had been given to the association by the Pennsylania Mesapotamian archaeological expedition. The brick will be placed along with other historic bricks in a panel of a house for the exposition.

SMITH AND BECK ON SAME STAND AT A WET RALLY

Forget Party Lines to Praise Women.

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Alfred E. Smith struck out tonight at the direct primary and the method of ratifying constitutional amendments and suggested a "quick way" of amending the Volstead act.

The former New York governor spoke at a testimonial dinner for Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, head of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

United States Representative James M. Beck, Republican, of Pennsylvania, speaking on the same program, suggested three methods of bringing back light wines and beer and advocated marked changes in the method of ratifying constitutional amendments.

Mrs. Sabin paid tribute to Smith and Beck as men who "have jeopardized their standing in their parties, to which they have given their most devoted and statesmanlike service," because of what she called "their convictions."

Smith Kidded by Expert.

Beck brought applause and laughter when he declared:

"If you will pardon a jocose reference, I would say that the governor's [Smith's] recent speech in Newark greatly amused me as a loyal Republican.

"It reminded me of an incident in the life of Theodore Roosevelt. He had been invited to deliver the oration at the dedication of a statue in Indianapolis to Gen. Lawton. He took occasion to devote his entire speech to a stern admonition to Wall street to behave itself, and he received from his attorney general, Philander C. Knox, the following letter:

"'Dear Mr. President: My hearty congratulations upon your speech at Indianapolis. Yours very truly, Philander C. Knox. P. S.: What did you say the name of the man was whose statue was dedicated?'"

"I have two weeks to explain that telegram," Mr. Smith replied.

Plan for Volstead Change.

In criticising ratification of amendments by legislatures Smith said the Wickersham report "speaks about the unfairness of ratification by state legislatures," and added:

"The legislatures of our states are not so constituted as to reflect popular will."

He suggested the Volstead act be amended by the addition of a section reading:

"Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to apply to malted liquors."

"And we will get beer and ale right away," he continued. "We don't have to pass upon the intoxicating quality of it. Just say the law doesn't apply to it."

The former governor paid a tribute to the late Wayne Wheeler, former head of the Anti-Saloon league, as a "smart one," "not only a brilliant man, but a showman, an actor."

Smith said Wheeler "wrote the Volstead act and Uncle Andy just introduced it."

He told of a conversation he had with Wheeler which, he said, ran as follows:

"I said to him, 'Why didn't you speak about alcoholic beverages in the 18th amendment? Why didn't you use the word alcohol?'

"He said, 'We were afraid we couldn't get it by congress.'

Drys in the Saddle.

"He grabbed me by the coat and shook me a little bit and he said:

"'Listen here, do you want to know the truth? We were in the saddle and we drove through. That is the answer.'"

Beck said congress could bring back light wines and beer by repealing the Volstead act, by amending it to raise the alcoholic content, or by "refusing to appropriate one dollar for enforcement of an unenforcible law.

"It only takes 200 brave men in the house of representatives," he added, "to cut off appropriations."

FIND SEVEN DAMP CANDIDATES ON DRY LEAGUE LIST

Letters Revealed by Women's Group.

Representatives of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform suggested yesterday that there were several "slips" in the recommendations of candidates for congress and the state legislature made by the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois on Tuesday.

They made public letters written to their organization by seven men on the Anti-Saloon league list, which, they said, removed those candidates from the dry list and placed some of them definitely in the wet column. These letters were in response to questionnaires on the prohibition question and every one of them was at least partly favorable to the cause of repeal.

It was surmised that the Anti-Saloon league indorsed some of these seven on their dry votes in the past without inquiring as to whether they had changed their position. It also was hinted that perhaps one or two candidates had tried to play both ends of the wet and dry political game.

Candidates Favor Change.

All of the candidates for congress whose letters were given out by the women's organization are Republicans, three of them being incumbents and the fourth a former congressman. Extracts from their letters follow:

CONGRESSMAN JOHN C. ALLEN, 14th district—"I stand by the Republican platform."

CONGRESSMAN B. M. CHIPERFIELD, 15th district—"I am standing by the position taken by President Hoover upon the prohibition question and will also support the platform of the Republican national convention."

CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM P. HOLADAY, 18th district—"If elected, I expect to vote for the resolution to repeal the 18th amendment, the same to be submitted to state conventions for ratification or rejection."

E. E. DENISON, former congressman, 25th district—"If it should not be possible to pass a resubmission resolution through congress in accordance with the views expressed by Mr. Hoover, I am willing to vote for a resolution for straight repeal."

Extracts from the letters of two candidates for the general assembly to the women's organization who were indorsed by the Anti-Saloon league read as follows:

REP. JOSEPH H. DAVIS, Democrat, 44th district.—"In my speeches that I am making nightly I am openly advocating the repeal of the 18th amendment and modification of the Volstead act. If the next congress enacts legislation to be submitted to the several states by which the people of the states may express themselves it shall be my pleasure to support a proposition for a prompt presentation of this matter to the people of Illinois."

C. J. VOGELSANG, Democratic nominee for state senate, 40th district.—"I am convinced that the people generally have become definitely convinced that prohibition is a failure. Such is my conviction and I certainly expect, if elected, to support such constructive and intelligent legislation as has for its purpose the elimination of the 18th amendment and the substitution of regulation by the several states."

Promises Vote for Repeal.

The third legislative candidate in connection with whom the Anti-Saloon league may have slipped, is Representative John R. Thompson, Republican, 48th district. He returned to the women's anti-prohibition organization the questionnaire sent to him with "Yes" written in reply to each of the two questions. The first asked if he would vote for repeal of the state search and seizure act. The second asked if he would work and vote for prompt presentation to the people of Illinois of congressional legislation if it is enacted at Washington.

Mrs. Leslie Wheeler and Mrs. William H. Mitchell, co-chairmen, and Mrs. George E. Brennan, chairman of the political action committee, conducted the correspondence.

LINE UP HOOSIER CANDIDATES FOR U.S. TAX ECONOMY

About half the regular party nominees for congress in Indiana have signed up for economy by answering affirmatively a questionnaire sent out by the National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures.

The questionnaire requested the nominees to state whether they favored cutting federal expenditures by at least $750,000,000, reducing expenses by consolidating bureaus, reducing pay of the employés, and putting away nonessential activities.

Wood and Durgan Reply.

In the Second district, which includes Porter, Jasper, Benton, and Newton counties in the northern end of the state, both the incumbent Republican, Will R. Wood, and his Democratic opponent, George Durgan, answered the questionnaire. In the First district, composed only of Lake county, the Republican nominee, O. A. Ahlgren, replied.

Congressman Wood, who is chairman of his party's national congressional committee, wrote:

"My record in the last two congresses sets forth the efforts put forth by me in my endeavor at reduction in all the propositions. Reduction should be made intelligently and paring had with the least possible detriment to good government."

Pledge Aid Toward Economy.

Mr. Durgan said that while he does not like to answer questionnaires, he has in all his addresses attacked the high expense of government.

Congressman S. B. Pettengill, Democrat, whose Third district embraces La Porte, St. Joseph, and Elkhart counties, wrote from South Bend.

"I stand upon the Democratic platform and the utterances of Gov. Roosevelt on this subject. I voted for economy on every important measure last winter."

Senator James E. Watson, Republican leader in the state, declared he was heartily in favor of the reduction of expenses and glad that such an organization as the N. O. R. P. E. had been formed and would support members of congress whose votes were given for economy.

FRIEND'S NOTE BALKS WIFE IN DIVORCE SUIT

Ernest Allice of Hurley, Wis., could not afford to come to Chicago to contest the divorce suit started by his wife, Elvira, 28 years old, of 711 Barry avenue. However, he managed to halt the proceedings yesterday by writing a letter to Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan saying he loved his wife and inclosing a letter which had been written to him by a friend of his wife, Miss Bernice Champion, 959 Edgecomb place.

The letter, which charged that Mrs. Allice was too friendly with a Chicago man, was produced by the judge in court yesterday when Mrs. Allice appeared to get her divorce decree by default. She admitted the acquaintanceship with the man but insisted that it was only a casual one.

"Well, anyway, I'm not going to give you your divorce today," the judge said. "I'm going to ask your husband to come here for another hearing and I'm going to investigate your story."

CALL ROOSEVELT REMARK SLUR ON SUPREME COURT

Protest His Allusion to Partisan Control.

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Republicans of first prominence joined today in an attack on Gov. Roosevelt for an interpolated reference made by him in his Baltimore speech to the Supreme court of the United States as being "controlled" by the Republican party.

James M. Beck, representative in congress from the First Pennsylvania district and former solicitor general of the United States, applied the term "demagogue" to Gov. Roosevelt in a caustic statement commenting on what the Democratic presidential nominee had said.

Another who joined in adverse comment was United States Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania.

Takes Protest to Coolidge.

Robert H. Mainzer, a lawyer, and a classmate of former President Calvin Coolidge at Amherst, in the rôle of an "indignant citizen" sent a telegram to the latter, a copy of which he forwarded to President Hoover.

He declared that Mr. Roosevelt's reference to the United States Supreme court had "aroused the most intense feeling against Roosevelt," and declared that he was acting on behalf of "various prominent citizens" in asking the former chief executive of the nation to challenge the statement publicly, and to demand by what right Mr. Roosevelt had been dragging the highest tribunal of the nation into partisan politics.

The opinion was expressed that echoes of the Roosevelt statement and the circumstances under which it was given to the public would be heard all through what remains of the presidential campaign.

The reference to the high court did not occur in the prepared text of Mr Roosevelt's Baltimore address, but was interpolated and heard over the radio by country-wide invisible audience in addition to the thousands that attended the meeting at which he spoke.

What Roosevelt Said.

What Mr. Roosevelt said was:

"After March 4, 1929, the Republican party was in complete control of all branches of the government—the legislative, with the senate and congress, and the executive departments, and I may add for full measure to make it complete, the United States Supreme court as well." The reference to the Supreme court was added by Mr. Roosevelt to the text of his address prepared in advance.

Congressman Beck was bitter in his comment.

"No statement was ever made by any public man since William J. Bryan, who attacked the Supreme court and was ignominiously defeated, that is more prejudicial to the integrity of the government in a very critical period of its existence than that of Gov. Roosevelt asserting that the Supreme court of the United States is in control of a political party," said Mr. Beck. "The court never has been controlled by any political party and it saps the foundation of our government to impute to the highest court of the land a statement that in spirit or actions it is partisan.

Record of Fair Dealing.

"As a former solicitor-general of the United States I can testify that the court is so far removed by its great traditions and by the life tenure of its members from any suspicion of partisanship that it has happened again and again that where public controversy had a political character the judges who were former Democrats supported the Republican side of the controversy and vice versa.

"Gov. Roosevelt's speeches have for some time led me to believe that he is a demagogue and now I am certain."

"I think that all lawyers will be shocked by the reference made by Roosevelt at Baltimore to the Supreme court," said Senator Reed. "A certain amount of falsehood is expected in every political campaign, but when a member of the bar makes a statement that the Supreme court is subject to partisan control and swayed by party politics he is telling a falsehood that might be dangerous."

Break Into Office

Burglars early yesterday entered the office of Frank Brown, diamond and fur broker on the fifth floor at 8 South Dearborn street, and carried away money and property valued at a total of $26,150.

Brown, who lives at 3161 Pine Grove avenue, listed among the losses twenty-four fur coats valued at $6,000; unset diamonds worth $10,000; rings and other jewelry worth $10,000 more, and $150 in money. He said that he was the representative here of several eastern jewelry and fur firms.

A scrubwoman discovered in the morning that the lock of the office door had been removed. The thieves had opened the safe in which the money and jewelry were kept. Brown said that no one except himself and a son associated with him in the business knew the combination.

'JOBS FIRST AND DECENT WAGES' IS SIMPSON PLEDGE

James Simpson Jr., Republican nominee for congress in the Tenth district, yesterday gave out a statement in which he said:

"My program is to support legislation which will open factories in the Tenth congressional district and put men back to work. I will work for a tariff high enough to keep out of this country the cheap products of foreign countries which would cut American workmen's wages.

"I do not want to see the standard of living of workmen in this district brought down to the peasant scale of living abroad where these cheap goods are made. An American workman can't live on five cents' worth of rice or a loaf of black bread a day.

"My Democratic opponent, Mr. Weber, says blankly he favors lowering the tariff. He doesn't say which tariff.

"I would like to ask Mr. Weber to state specifically which tariff schedule he proposes to lower.

"Will it be the leather tariff, Mr. Weber, which will make it necessary for the Waukegan tanneries to cut wages to meet the labor cost of countries where a dollar a day is high wages?

"While the question of first importance in this campaign is getting men back to work at decent wages, the prohibition question ranks next. From the first day of my primary campaign I pledged myself to seek repeal or amendment of the 18th amendment and a change in the Volstead law, and I said flatly I would fight the return of the saloon.

"My pledges are written and printed above my signature—and I keep my pledges. Jobs first; decent wages, second, and restoration to the people themselves of their right to say what they want—that is my program."

ROOSEVELT, BACK FROM TRIP, SEES EVERY STATE HIS

Approves Farley's Claim of Clean Sweep.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt returned to New York today, and following a modest welcome after his second long trip into the outlands of the nation, he said that he really believed he would carry all of the 48 of the states.

"Jim Farley is right when he refuses to concede a single state to the Republicans," the governor declared. "This last trip of mine, carrying me to the south, the middle west and the manufacturing east, has not only encouraged me, but it has confirmed my definite opinion, gathered on my first trip to the Pacific coast, that the tide has set many weeks ago toward the Democratic ticket.

Silent on Smith Speech.

"It is continuing to flow that way, and it will so continue until the polls close on Nov. 8."

Mr. Roosevelt refused to comment on the speech delivered by Al Smith at Newark on Monday night, in which Mr. Smith raised the religious issue, and he likewise declined to discuss the statement of Senator William E. Borah that the speech aided Hoover.

The governor left late this afternoon for Hyde Park, his home on the Hudson, where he was to have supper, and afterwards he departed for Albany, the state capital.

To Speak in Boston.

Tomorrow he will meet with the leaders of both houses of the legislature, and with Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, to determine whether a special session of the New York assembly must be held to meet the problem of unemployment during the coming winter.

Mr. Roosevelt announced that he has definitely decided to make a political address in Boston next Monday night, and that he will spend Monday and Tuesday in an effort to capture for himself the votes of the New England states.

NOTED SOCIETY PAIR IN RENO REVIVES GOSSIP

Reno, Nev., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Aksel Wichfield, former attaché of the Danish legation in Washington, and husband of the former Mabelle F. Swift, of Boston, member of the wealthy packing company family, has established residence at a hotel here, it was learned today.

His presence, coupled with that of Josephine "Fifi" Widener, Philadelphia heiress who is stopping at the same hotel, has revived rumors that linked them in romance last April when Wichfield visited her while she was obtaining a divorce from her second husband, Milton W. Holden.

"Fifi" Widener denied at that time that she planned to marry a third time.

OLD G. O. P. PAPER FOR CHANGE IN NATIONAL ADMINISTRATION

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The Springfield Republican today came out squarely for a change in national administration. It says:

"In 1912 our preference for Mr. Wilson for President did not require us to 'desert' Mr. Taft, whom the Republican had supported in 1908 and, so far as it could, during his administration, and so now the Republican is not 'deserting' Mr. Hoover, who, it believes, has practically exhausted his capacity to serve effectively the republic as its President.

"This fact is no more discreditable to Mr. Hoover than it was discreditable to Mr. Gladstone, after stormy years a prime minister to reach a time when he no longer could command the support essential to successful political leadership as first minister of the crown.

"To regain the political favor and strength among the people necessary to carry on a government at all successfully, Mr. Hoover needs a period of retirement from office, precisely as so great a political leader as Mr. Gladstone needed it repeatedly in his long public career."

CUTTING, ONCE HOOVER BACKER, FOR ROOSEVELT

Denver, Col., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Senator Bronson M. Cutting, Republican of New Mexico and supporter of President Hoover four years ago, tonight called upon "all who believe in the benefits of our civilization to vote, as I am going to vote, for Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Praising Roosevelt as an "idealist who has been able to put many of his ideals into practice," the speaker declared the Democratic presidential nominee "is his own master" and "makes his own decisions."

Senator Cutting, who recently resigned as Republican national committeeman of his state, addressed a mass meeting at the Denver auditorium under the auspices of the National Progressive League for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

He said "it is not pleasant to admit political errors," and no one supported Mr. Hoover more enthusiastically than he did in 1928, but that he was disappointed in the President's record of the last four years.

In the advance copy of his speech, he listed as the reasons for his disappointment, the cabinet selected by President Hoover, the President's judicial and diplomatic appointments, his attitude on the power issue, his treatment of the bonus army, his policies relative to existing economic conditions.

She represented herself as being from some western suburb and begged for car fare home.

CREDITS HOOVER WITH 3 YEARS OF WORLD PEACE AID

Stimson Tells Churchmen of America's Efforts.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—A monster crowd drawn to Syria mosque by the political aspects of the massmeeting, held under the auspices of the Methodists of the Pittsburgh area, greeted Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson tonight. He spoke on the "Work of the United States Government in Promoting Peace During the Last Three Years."

Expressing himself as "unshakably confident" that the elimination of battle in the settlement of disputes "is on the way among nations and will eventually arrive," Mr. Stimson narrated a long list of achievements which he claimed had been brought about through the wholehearted cooperation of the United States with other powerful governments.

Not Political Meeting.

While the secretary's talk dealt entirely with "world peace" the meeting had been preceded by widely printed reports of political intercession by Republican leaders of this city. It was charged by G. D. Harger, eastern spokesman for the Prohibition party, that the aid of the Rev. Dr. D. E. Cruea, Pittsburgh district superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, had been enlisted to bring out a large attendance of "drys." Nothing developed, however, during the evening to indicate that the politicians had gained a foothold in the audience, as politics and prohibition were not mentioned by the speakers.

In detailing events of the three years which had a bearing on "world peace," Secretary Stimson cited efforts made in the last decade to end wars. He declared "we have a right to take courage in the light of such events. For ourselves we believe that eventually the reign of peace will come.

Peace the Chief Motive.

"Ever since I assumed my present office," the secretary continued, "I have been working by the side of a President whose chief pre-occupation in the conduct of foreign relations has been to promote this great cause of peace.

"He believes, and I believe, that peace is for the interests of the United States not only on moral grounds but on material grounds. We feel that no nation in the world has been provided by Providence with such a secure position from which to promote the cause of good relations among the nations of the world or is so deeply interested from the aspect of both its moral and material welfare in the existence of peace.

"From our secure position in the new hemisphere surrounded only by friendly nations whose proximity has never given us cause for anxiety, we have an assured base from which the influence of America may be exerted without fear throughout the world towards establishment of better world relations."

Gives Federal Program.

Stimson then began a review of the five fold program of the administration for world peace. "In the first place," he said, "the maintenance of peace is fundamentally dependent upon cultivation of a common understanding among the nations. Hostility and enmity arise more commonly out of a failure to understand each other's aims or position than from almost any other cause."

To bring out such understanding, the speaker declared, was the purpose of Hoover's "good will visits" to Central and South American countries. And the same motive, he said, prompted Hoover to send him to Europe on three occasions.

MRS. ROOSEVELT SAYS ECONOMY MAY BE A HARMFUL THING

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, taking the stump upstate tonight for Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, Democratic nominee for governor of New York, defended the administrations of her husband and of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith against charges of extravagance.

Speaking of economy in government, Mrs. Roosevelt said:

"It is quite true to say that all governments are extravagant. Neither the Democrats nor the Republicans can quite truthfully say they have been as economical as possible."

"Economy," said Mrs. Roosevelt, "can be made to appear a very wonderful thing. And yet it can do a great deal of harm. Sometimes economy is done in a very strange way.

"For instance, the Republican legislature last year cut the state budget $21,000,000. Practically all of that came out of the appropriation for the department of public works. Eighty per cent of the money appropriated to the department of public works goes to pay for labor.

"That $21,000,000 cut meant that thousands of young engineers, draughtsmen and laborers were thrown out of work. The governor, the lieutenant governor, and the head of the department all told the legislature that this would happen. But it sounds well to cut $21,000,000 out of the budget, so they did it.

"Later on they were obliged to appropriate for public relief not only what they had cut out of the budget, but more. Now which would have been better—to pay that money out in salaries for labor on public works, or to pay it in unemployment relief? It wasn't economy at all, you see, because the money had to be spent anyway."

BANKER BATTLES EX-MARINE FOR STATE OFFICE

Martin Versus Brooks for Treasurership.

Running for the office of state treasurer, a post which has marked the middle of the ladder for many aspiring politicians, are C. Wayland Brooks of Chicago, Republican, one of the ace prosecuting attorneys of Cook county, and John C. Martin, Democrat, who has been a banker at Salem, "down in Egypt," for twenty-five years.

JOHN C. MARTIN.

Both won their party nominations from among a large field of candidates in the primaries last April and both have since made extensive campaign tours of the state. Brooks, known as "Curly," has a large following among the ex-service men because of his notable war record, and Martin has been a well known figure in Democratic circles for years. Both were born in Illinois.

Brooks a Former Marine.

"Curly" Brooks was born in Wyanet thirty-five years ago, the son of a Congregational minister. He attended grade schools in Dixon, Peoria, Kewanee, and Neponset, and high school in Wheaton. On graduation he matriculated at the University of Illinois, but left in the spring of 1917 to enlist in the marine corps.

In June, 1918, during the Belleau woods battle, he won recognition for bravery and was decorated by Gen. Pershing with the Distinguished Service Cross, and commissioned a second lieutenant. Later he won other decorations and was promoted to a first lieutenancy.

Lieut. Brooks was wounded severely at Soissons on July 19, 1918, and was removed to the states when his condition permitted, and taken to Great Lakes hospital. Upon his recovery, he aided in Liberty and Victory loan drives.

Graduate of Northwestern.

After the war ended "Curly" Brooks completed his law education, being graduated from Northwestern university law school, where he is now a lecturer on evidence. He was appointed an assistant state's attorney in 1926 and was retained on the staff by State's Attorney Swanson at the request of the bankers' association.

Mr. Brooks has handled a number of successful prosecutions, including bank embezzlers, the "bombing" trust, kidnapers, forgers, extortionists and murderers. Especially commended was the conviction he obtained against Leo Brothers, slayer of Alfred Lingle. All these cases were affirmed by the Illinois Supreme court.

Mr. Brooks has been prominently identified with the American Legion and the "40 and 8" and has served for three consecutive years as commander of Marine Post 273. He is married and has one son, Russell. The Brooks' home is at 1641 Fargo avenue.

Martin Born to Banking.

John C. Martin, the Democratic nominee, was born in Salem, educated there in the grammar and high schools, and was graduated from Illinois college at Jacksonville. His father and grandfather before him had been bankers, so Mr. Martin went back into the family bank—the Salem National—where he has remained, being at present its vice president and cashier. This institution and the other business concerns with which Mr. Martin is associated have all weathered the financial distress.

Until he resigned to accept the nomination for state treasurer last spring Mr. Martin had been a director of the Federal Reserve bank in St. Louis since 1922. During the war he was chairman of the various Liberty loan drives in Marion county.

Mr. Martin is 52 years old, is married, and has three children. In his campaign speeches the candidate has promised an honest, efficient administration, if elected, and has pledged himself to return to the state every dollar earned as interest on public funds.

Judge O'Connell, after hearing the girl's testimony, exonerated Benjamin Berris, 27 years old, 5424 Harper avenue, arrainged on the same charge.

Chapin Reports Business Continues to Show Gains

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Continued improvement in general business and employment conditions was reported today by Secretary of Commerce Roy D. Chapin, during a conference at the department.

ROY D. CHAPIN.

The continued gains, he intimated, might be considered unusually favorable in view of the fact that business usually is retarded during election years by the possibility of drastic changes in national policy.

"What influence the election is having on business I cannot say, because that is something nobody knows," the secretary stated. "But the general sentiment is that we are better than holding our own in the general business situation as compared with the same period of the two previous years.

Continuous Through 2 Months.

"The progress of the country's business since midsummer has been greater than seasonal," he declared, "and for the first time since the spring of 1930, the upward trend has been continuous throughout two months.

"From midsummer to the middle of the current month, the improvement in general business has amounted to about 7 per cent. Tremendous gains, in some instances largely seasonal, while in others only partly seasonal, have been scored.

"Nevertheless," the commerce head warned, "despite the very encouraging progress made in the last three months, commodity prices have recently shown signs of weakness, some lines of business have failed to display any rallying power, and 10 million persons are still without work. We still have far to go and difficult problems to solve. Our progress during the coming winter depends on maintaining the spirit of rising confidence now prevalent."

Depreciation in the value of foreign currencies, according to Mr. Chapin, has given rise to a comparatively new problem in the current economic situation.

New Situation Confronts U. S.

"We seem to be coming to another period in our history," he said, "when the entry of certain commodities into this country seriously affects the production of those commodities in the United States. This is due in large part to depreciated currencies in foreign nations. We are forced to meet such a situation by affording protection to our domestic producers."

TWO SIDES GIVEN OF BONUS NEEDS OF WAR VETERANS

Renew Pressure for Cash Upon President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—New pressure was brought upon President Hoover today by the Veterans of Foreign Wars not only for the immediate cash payment of the bonus but for the enactment of legislation granting pensions to widows and orphans of world war veterans and for the maintenance in full of nonservice connected disability allowances.

Meanwhile the other side of the veterans' picture was being presented in a radio talk by Maj. W. O. Clark, assistant administrator of veterans' affairs, who described how billions were already being poured out in veterans' benefits, with more billions to come.

The appeal of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was conveyed to the White House by Admiral Robert E. Coontz, retired, new commander of the organization.

In urging payment of the bonus, Admiral Coontz declared that it would directly benefit 10 million people and by increasing their purchasing power would help toward a general economic recovery.

He declared that some 70,000 widows and 105,000 orphans of world war veterans were drawing nothing from the government and that 80 per cent of them required help. He lauded the nonservice connected disability allowance.

Federal, Not State, Debt.

His position, he said, was that relief of the veterans and their dependents belonged to the federal government and not to the states and localities, whose relief burdens were heavy enough. In his radio talk Maj. Clark steered clear of recommendations one way or the other, but insisted that citizens "must regard with deep concern the possible future cost of veterans' relief." He called for a careful study of the whole field of veterans' legislation which would result in a system of benefits equitable to all classes of veterans, and in equal measure fair to the taxpaying public.

What he did emphasize was the tremendous cost of veterans' benefits and their potential increase to a still more staggering figure. He cited the following facts:

Exclusive of war risk insurance payments and allotments and bonus loans, some billions have already been expended on world war veterans.

Excluding insurance benefits and bonus loans, 771,000 living veterans are receiving world war monetary benefits and death benefits are being paid on account of 100,000 deceased veterans.

Including dependents receiving benefits, 1,600,000 persons, or better than one out of every 100 Americans, are drawing some form of monetary compensation at the rate of 45 millions a month.

Last August 30,000 new claims for world war benefits were filed.

Eleven millions a month is being paid in war risk insurance to 153,000 individuals, 76,000 of whom are already receiving compensation in some other form.

One hundred millions have been spent on hospitals which are caring for 44,000 persons; in addition 20,000 are in homes, 71,000 were treated as out patients last month, and there were 148,000 examinations for eligibility last month and more than two million last year.

Incompetents and minors under the care of the administration total 85,000. Wards of the administration require the preparation of 52,200 rations daily.

The pay roll of the veterans' administration includes 36,000 persons.

9 Billions Yet to Pay.

The next ten years, without any further liberalization of legislation, will mean expenditure of an additional 9 billions 130 millions for veterans.

Maj. Clark declared that between 600,000 and 800,000 veterans were out of work, but the question which congress must decide was whether the veterans should be singled out for special relief. He pointed out that they already had the right to free medical care.

Of the 14,000 admissions to free treatment in veterans' hospitals in August, he said, 85 per cent had no service connection and 80 per cent in veterans' hospitals today similarly had no service connected disability.

COOLIDGE DENIES HE WILL BE PRESIDENT OF N. Y. UNIVERSITY

Boston, Mass., Oct. 26.—(AP)—The Boston American today published a letter received from former President Coolidge in response to a telegram asking if he were to become the president of New York university. Mr. Coolidge wrote:

"I never heard of any proposal that I should be president of New York university until I received your wire.

"If you newspaper men would state each time that my name is proposed for some position that there is no foundation for the report you would always be right and it would save me no end of trouble and correspondence."

High Court Holds Curb Gasoline Pumps Illegal

Removal of approximately 1,500 gasoline pumps placed at curbs of Chicago streets will be necessary as a result of a decision of the Supreme Court invalidating a city ordinance licensing the pumps, Assistant Corporation Counsel Martin Foss said yesterday. The court held the pumps constitute unlawful encroachment on public streets, Mr. Foss said. Under the decision, he said, it is also possible for the city to remove thousands of sidewalk vending machines.

MILLS PICTURES RUIN OF DOLLAR BY DEMOCRATS

Undiluted Inflation if They Win, He Says.

Toledo, O., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Secretary Ogden L. Mills in a speech here tonight said the "road to ruin" lay with the Democratic party, while Republicans offered "the road to recovery."

"With election day less than two weeks away," said Mr. Mills, "the American people should understand the major threat which exists and which, because of its character and the tacit approval which the silence of the Democratic leaders conveys, must now be considered as a major issue in this campaign.

"Undiluted Inflation."

"Witnessing the fearful effects of deflation and recognizing the destruction wrought by panic the house Democrats turned to that age old method of quick relief direct, uncontrolled and undiluted inflation.

"Now I want you to realize that these were not idle legislative gestures; they represented a definite economic philosophy; they have never been repudiated, directly and specifically, by the Democratic candidate for the presidency. It is not unfair to assume, therefore, that, far from being dead, such a program is still very much alive.

"Wipe Out Savings."

"Let us now try to visualize what would happen if, through congressional action, congress should direct the treasury to pay any substantial part of the expenditures of the government through the use of the printing-press. The first and immediate effect would be a complete loss of confidence in the dollar."

Mills contended that it would wipe out the savings of large groups of the population; that salaried classes would be adversely affected promptly; industry would collapse and employment be lost.

"As sure as the sun will rise tomorrow, some such program will make its appearance in the next congress, should it be called together in March. If the Democratic candidate doesn't approve of this measure then he owes it to the country to say so," asserted Mr. Mills.

CIVIC LEADERS MAKE PLEAS FOR THE SHOWBOAT

Chicago People Need Its Gayety, They Say.

Various Chicagoans yesterday discussed the question of whether a showboat should be permitted to dock in the Chicago river. Mayor Cermak has vetoed a project to bring the showboat Dixiana here.

A showboat, some Chicagoans thought, would be a welcome diversion in these glum times. They thought the present generation, harassed by high taxes and unemployment, could perhaps find surcease from its troubles in this revival of an old American diversion.

Some of those interviewed said the people of today are inclined to regard their existence too seriously. Any reflection of the careless days of life on the Mississippi half a century ago, such as a showboat offers, they said, would offset the dour mood into which this generation is prone to fall.

Judge Favors Showboat.

One of the first to come forward with a request that a showboat be allowed to anchor in the Chicago river and present the melodramas of a former year was Superior Judge Joseph B. David, who will celebrate his 69th birthday today.

"I was a barker on a showboat when I was 16 years old," he said. "The people of Chicago cannot realize what they are missing if they have never viewed one of those stirring melodramas in which a showboat company specializes."

Just as enthusiastic was Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, a society woman and author:

"It would be gratifying to have the showboat here," she said. "It represents something that is really American. We have so much that isn't."

Whealan Backs Project.

Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, remarked that a showboat would give this generation an opportunity to see how the last generation amused itself.

"Let's have a showboat in Chicago by all means," said County Commissioner Daniel Ryan, who was an amateur actor in his youth. "We need something to take our minds off our troubles."

Charles H. Weber, a Democratic leader, was another who said he believed the showboat would afford a refreshing relief to its visitors from the troubles of today.

Some Office Holders Silent.

A number of other office holders were reluctant to express opinions because of the stand of Mayor Cermark, who has refused to permit the showboat to dock in the river. The mayor has opposed a permit for the showboat because twelve of the seventeen theaters in the loop are vacant.

Edwin Wapler, manager of the Great Lakes Showboat corporation, pointed out that the showboat will pay more than $1,500 for the privilege of stopping in the river. He said he was hopeful that the mayor would change his stand, and asserted that the showboat would not hurt the regular theater business in the loop.

Theater Managers' Views.

Several theater managers, among them John J. Garrity of the Grand Opera house, and Rollo Timponi of the Erlanger theater, also discussed the showboat question. Their general attitude was that the showboat play should be given in one of the houses now dark.

"I believe that the Theater Managers' association, of which I am a member and speak as such, appreciates Mayor Cermak's spirit in the matter," said Mr. Garrity. "Many of our theaters are now dark, but their taxes, license fees and other expenses go on just the same, throughout the year. I feel, and some of my associates also feel, that if the showboat attraction has merit, it should move into one of our theaters. Of course, it may be that such an attraction would not draw if given in a regular theater."

Mr. Timponi said that the merit of the showboat production would determine its competitive strength against legitimate attractions, and that he was not opposed to any enterprise which might mean employment to people.

3 U. S. STUDENTS HURT IN VIENNA POLITICAL FIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Oct. 26.—Three Americans were among 15 students injured in riots today at the University of Vienna. Nazis [National Socialists], among them many nonstudents, invaded the lecture halls at noon with sticks and clubs attacking Jews and men and women looking non-Germanic. Professors and university guards closed the halls and the belabored students fled to the streets and the protection of police who are not allowed within the grounds.

In the past week a man and a girl student from the United States, had been injured, and today American minister Gilchrist B. Stockton lodged his second protest with the foreign office. As a result Prof. Othonio Abel, rector, ordered the university closed for an indefinite period and issued a statement of apology and determination to "punish disturbers of academic peace severly."

COUPLE AND BABY KILLED AS TRAIN SMASHES AUTO

Guard Says Victims Ignored Warning.

(Picture on back page.)

Three members of one family were killed last evening when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Baltimore and Ohio freight train at 138th street and Indiana avenue, Dolton.

The victims were Edward C. Wright, 35 years old, 10545 Prairie avenue, Harvey; his wife, Evelyn, 30 years old, and their 2 year old son, Edward F. Wright.

Charges Signals Ignored.

Wright was driving south in Indiana avenue, and a watchman on guard at the crossing told Dolton police that he disregarded signals to halt as the train approached.

Two youths were seriously injured last night when their automobile struck a truck, loaded with several tons of meat, at Green Bay road and Belvidera street, west of Waukegan. They are Ronald Kiesberg, 23 years old, 447 South St. John's avenue, Highland Park, and Edward Wing, 21 years old, 233 Washington avenue, Highwood. The car caught fire after the collision. The truck overturned, but the driver, Walter Klein of Milwaukee, was only slightly injured.

Child Crushed to Death.

Violet Skinkis, 5 years old, 1803 West 46th street, was crushed to death yesterday when the sedan in which she was a passenger struck a safety island and overturned at Ashland avenue and 44th street. Her father, Andrew, and mother, Josephine, and a 4 year old sister, Anne, were unhurt. The safety island, only partially completed, was not visible in the early dusk, Skinkis told the police.

John Henry Knuckles, colored, 5 years old, 1228 West 14th street, broke away from his father and ran into the street in front of his home where he was hit by an automobile yesterday. The child died before he could be taken to a hospital. The driver was Leo J. Wantock, 1806 South 58th avenue, Cicero.

These five deaths and one other increased the Cook county automobile toll for the year to 928. The other victim:

William George, 63 years old, 854 East Pershing road. Died last night at Chicago Memorial hospital. He was struck Saturday at Pershing road and Ellis avenue.

DIVORCE OF NO. 3 SOUGHT BY NINA WILCOX PUTNAM

Fiction Writer and Ogle Agree to Separate.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Nina Wilcox Putnam, for many years a popular writer of fiction for American magazines, today filed a complaint for divorce against her third husband, Arthur James Ogle.

The couple were married at Yuma, Ariz., on Sept. 12, 1931. In the divorce action Mrs. Ogle charges that her husband struck her several times, that while intoxicated he was abusive to her in the presence of friends, and that he "neglected the ordinary courtesies."

However, a statement by the authoress expressed her esteem for Mr. Ogle.

"We have decided," she said, "to go our separate ways. I hold Mr. Ogle in high esteem, but it was a case of clashing of temperaments and it seemed that divorce represented the fairest and most satisfactory solution of our domestic problem."

At the time of the marriage Mrs. Putnam gave her age as 42. The bridegroom was then 31.

First Husband Died in 1918.

The first husband of the authoress was Robert F. Putnam, a New York publisher. He died in 1918 and she married, soon afterward, R. J. Sanderson of Boston.

In 1924 she was divorced in Rhode Island from Sanderson, but the courts later rescinded the action, on the ground that she was not a resident of the state. Two years later, at Palm Beach, Fla., she obtained a decree that stuck.

Her affairs that resulted in marriage brought her less publicity, however, than another that rang no wedding bells. Shortly after the divorce in Rhode Island was rescinded she was accused by a wife of trying to steal her husband, Ellsworth Bassett of Madison, Conn.

Romance with Clam Digger.

Bassett was a clam digger by occupation. He was 6 feet 4½ inches tall. He was also a house painter and he and Mrs. Putnam became acquainted when he was hired to freshen up the exterior of her cottage in Madison.

A short time later he gave up both house painting and clam digging to become Mrs. Putnam's chauffeur. In this capacity he accompanied her on a six weeks' tour of Canada. Following this, it was alleged, Clam Digger Bassett left the wife and two children he had and went to live at Mrs. Putnam's home. He accompanied her to Florida with the title of "business manager," but resigned the position soon afterward and went back home to Mrs. Bassett. The latter, in the meantime, had asserted Mrs. Putnam asked her to surrender her husband and was refused.

5 BANDITS SENTENCED 30 HOURS AFTER BANK ROBBERY AT RANSOM

Ottawa, Ill., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Speedy justice was meted out here today to five gunmen who yesterday held up and robbed the First National bank of Ransom.

The five bandits, William Jacobs, 23; Joseph Jesse, 23, and Frank Valone, 38, of Cicero; Alex Sorrento, 24, of Chicago Heights, and Charles Smith, 35, of Chicago, were sentenced to serve terms of from one year to life in prison 30 hours after the robbery by Judge Edgar Eldredge in the Circuit court this afternoon. All five had pleaded guilty to indictments charging them with robbery with a gun.

Jacobs was identified later as Donald McManimen of Chicago Heights, sought as a suspect in a robbery of a bank in Hartford City, Ind. He escaped arrest last week in a Chicago Heights restaurant by threatening Detective Nick May with two revolvers.

Sheriff E. J. Welter, who arrested the five men in Streator two hours after the robbery, expects to take them to the state prison at Joliet at once.

The October grand jury, which had been excused last week, was recalled today to investigate the charges against the men. The jury returned an indictment charging the five and Frank Rino of Chicago with robbery with a gun and Mr. and Mrs. De Martino of Streator with being accessories.

Rino denies he was connected with the crime. The five who are under sentence implicated Rino in their confessions.

GANDHI DICTATES OVER INDIA WITH CREED OF 'LOVE'

Wields a Strange Power Over Millions.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

POONA, India, Sept. 28.—[By mail.]—Mahatma Gandhi's dictatorship over Indian affairs was demonstrated anew by his recent "fast unto death," which ended on the sixth day after orthodox Hindu leaders, representatives of the depressed millions seeking a place in the new political sun rising over India, and the British government in Simla and London had capitulated to his terms.

MAHATMA GANDHI.

In one of the Gandhi propaganda books there is a drawing showing the baldheaded, spectacled, half naked leader of the Congress Independence party sitting in a prison cell, with an effort to indicate a mystical "soul force" rising from him and winging beyond the bars.

No Bars for Holy Man.

There was no cell and no bars for Gandhi. This correspondent visited him in prison at Yeravda, on the outskirts of Poona, as soon as his fast was broken. He was sitting up in bed having a massage. He was able to talk and his eyes had a gleam of friendly humor. The bed was under a mango tree, the dark green leaves hanging close to him and sheltering him perfectly from the sun.

There was a row of private cells, open rooms in fact, which were at the disposal of himself and friends if it rained. The place was walled in from the rest of the prison, where there are 3,116 convicts, many of them sentenced for civil disobedience acts which the congress party has sponsored. Gandhi, himself, was held because he would not promise to abandon this method of coercing the government—the bloodless revolution method.

As a matter of fact, Gandhi was better off in prison than outside, where his own people follow him about in such crowds that it is often uncomfortable for him. The Hindus are highly emotional, easily ruled by the crowd spirit, and they are convinced that this man is like a Christ or a Buddha.

Continues Campaign in Prison.

The governor of the prison permitted Gandhi's friends free access to him. His secretary, a convict, had only to send out word and the gates opened. His son, Davidas, was also running in and out and doing propaganda work for the cause. Gandhi has nothing in the way of property, still eight doctors were at his disposal. The cable was his, also secretarial work. Fruits and flowers were banked up in the garden cell.

The fast was managed with superb stagecraft. It's purpose was simplified in advance, and all parties notified just what it was about. It was not political, Gandhi said. He was acting purely as a religious man and because God had told him to do this thing.

Yet, it was the unerring political eye that had picked out a portion of the British government's communal award for the objective of his fast. This was with reference to the electoral status in the new constitution of the so-called depressed classes, or untouchables of Hindu religion. There are about 60,000,000 of them and the British, failing agreement among the Hindus, had awarded them a certain number of seats in a separate electorate.

British Feared to Let Him Die.

Gandhi took the ground that this made a statutory place forever for this people. His purpose was to save them and mold them in the Hindu fold, not permitting them to become separate and alien. Religion, and perhaps politics. No one can judge his intentions. His act had profound political consequences, as he well knew.

Victory was almost assured in advance. Gandhi dying in prison was a situation he knew that would arouse the whole of India and alarm the British. His death would let loose the terrorists, the extremists, who have been held in check by his campaign of peaceful coercion. It is called the way of love and is offered to the world as his substitute for war. He would lose his own life and the lives of a million of his followers if necessary, but not hurt a hair on a British head.

The time for the fast was set at 12 noon on Sept. 20 and it began promptly, staged with a group of women around the bedside singing and praying. A girl sang a song beginning with the line "O traveler, get up. Leave your bed because it is daybreak." As he sipped his last meal of hot water with soda, honey, and sweet lime fruits, Gandhi said this song would be his food throughout the journey.

Fasting an Art.

Fasting is an art with Gandhi. It is a method of purification, and described as an act of sacrifice and love. When people disagree with him, if the principle involved is great, he fasts out of love for them. That is the theory. It is not to be regarded as coercion, although this is its result.

From the moment the fast began the prison became the center of Indian eyes. It is far out in the country, in a quiet valley, but the road to it soon became dusty with all sorts of pilgrims. There were old naked fakirs in yellow turbans, Brahmin women from town in fine cars, little red marks on their foreheads to indicate caste; a few Europeans who have adopted the Gandhi cause and white costume; students and amateur politicians.

Across the fields slunk the outcasts from the villages, those for whom Gandhi is fighting. A European sergeant and a squad of native police, with long bamboo lathis, kept the crowd in order and after the fourth day barred the road half a mile from the prison to all loiterers and potential trouble makers.

Tension Spreads Through Nation.

Poona is well garrisoned, with two regiments of British troops, and there was never any danger of serious trouble here. But the tension mounted throughout the country daily and hourly as the carefully planned program reached its climax.

Gandhi was reported as reaching the "danger zone" about the time the leaders of the Hindus and the depressed classes were wrangling hardest over the terms of a new communal award in a nearby house. Haste was urgent, they were warned. They were driven into an agreement by which the depressed ones gained many seats at the expense of their high caste "suppressors," as Gandhi called them.

The British government could not force the Hindus to agree, but Gandhi did. He had avoided a similar opportunity at the round table conference in London, perhaps feeling that the time had not come for him to strike his real blow against caste oppression, which has disgraced India for centuries.

Temples Are Opened.

An emotional wave ran over the country and temples, that had been closed to the depressed, were opened and the castes and the outcasts worshiped together. This was only sporadic, however, and in some cases lapsed soon. The walls had not fallen flat. The soul force was not equivalent to the trumpet before Jericho. But daylight was shining in spots.

As the agreement among the Hindus was reached the technique of the fast became directed against the British premier. The force traveled across the 10,000 miles to London. It permeated Downing street and sent Ramsay MacDonald hurrying up from Chequers.

"Now is the time to raise hell," said young Davidas to this correspondent, as he refused me permission to see his father.

The doctors, carrying stethoscopes, came out looking solemn and talking about blood pressure and a crisis within 48 hours. Cables went to London from many parts of India. The urge was on. There was no time to think or reason. Gandhi must be saved.

Gandhi Says He's Joyful.

The little man sent out word that he was joyful and would be happy to die in the sacrifice. He was probably utterly sincere about this, so strange a contradiction is he, so touched with greatness and littleness at once.

As a final touch to the picture Dr. Rabindranath Tagore, the famous poet, came up from his village retreat to pay a spectacular call on his friend. Dressed in a long blue robe, flowers about his neck mingling with his long white hair, he looked the true patriarch and saint of India. Feebly, with bent head, he entered the iron gate under the crown of England and found himself at peace in the quiet garden. He sat down under the mango tree and prayed for Gandhi and recited little songs for him from his own beautiful Gitanjali.

For all the world knew, it was a deathbed scene, with Gandhi entering the temple of silence forever. The women who surrounded Gandhi were moved to awe, save one or two brisk exceptions who said there was no danger; that Gandhi knew what he was about. Evidently he did, for about this time London sent word that the main part of the agreement was acceptable.

Gandhi "Thinks About It."

Gandhi was able to look over the message and think about it. There were reservations in it, but these were not sufficient to force him to continue his fast. He has passed the first stage of weakness and was now at peace. The message brightened him at once. He came back to earth quickly. There were more prayers and songs.

It was the next day when visitors came to offer congratulations by the hundreds. They carried flowers and fruit. Gandhi was sipping orange juice and looking happy. His eyes were bright and keen behind the big glasses. His handclasp was warm and far from feeble, although not strong. He was able to dictate a long message to the press, for publicity is one of his main weapons, and he wants support in America, especially for this movement against the British government.

Gandhi's son and others around him express doubts as to the honest intentions of the government in granting home rule in any real degree. Gandhi has not expressed himself on that. His first goal achieved, the depressed classes held within the fold of his own religion, he will now turn to these other matters.

Week of Celebration.

A week of celebration was declared and all over India the work of bringing new tolerance toward the untouchables went on under Gandhi's leadership. Certainly there can be no democratic base of citizenship with this cancer at the heart of things. It forms the best talking card of those who say the Indians are not ready for independence. Gandhi shrewdly knows this and has begun to remove it—legally, at least. It may take as long to die out as feudalism in Europe.

Dr. Tagore called again on his friend and that evening held a great open air meeting at Poona City on the subject of untouchability. Planned first to be held in a theater, so many thousands came that it was moved out of doors near an old temple by the river. Here the old man was almost mobbed by his frenzied admirers. His voice could only be heard a few feet.

"From the beginning of history," he said, "there has continued the cleavage between classes, some favored by circumstances exploiting the weakness of others and building the stronghold of their own pride of superiority over the humiliation of a large section of the community.

Against True Spirit of Man.

"This is against the true spirit of man. We insult our own humanity by insulting man, where he is helpless or not of our own kin. In our determined effort to join Mr. Gandhi in his noble task of removing the burden of ages, the burden of disrespect upon the bent backs of those who have been stigmatized for the accident of their birth, a sin of wilful denial of sympathy to a large body of our countrymen, which is the birthright of all human beings, we are not only casting off the chains of India's moral enslavement, but indicating a path for all humanity. We are challenging victimization wherever and in whatever form it may exist."

He declared the appellation "Mahatma," which is a term used for the upanishads God, has been rightly applied to Gandhi. All over India the mango tree under which Gandhi sits is already becoming legendary and the leaves of its healing are being scattered through the villages.

Gandhi gives the impression of a great force. It is accentuated by his silence. It is fortified by the shrewd, practical turn of his acts and words. It is universal force running into a mould for today's conception. By comparison with Tagore, however, he is the practical politician, with a touch of the demagogue.

Like John Burroughs.

The old poet is more like the late John Burroughs, who sat under a tree in New England and accepted the essential kindness of the universe in the beauty of the natural world, ignoring the reality of evil.

There would seem no logical answer to this appeal of Gandhi and Tagore against the evil of untouchability. Yet the Hindu orthodox mind is capable of putting religious sanctions and customs ahead of the progress of the people as conceived in western terms. There are many classes to be penetrated beyond the educated class to which these men belong.

Close to the mango tree, which has been likened to Buddha's Bodhi tree, where he conversed with the shepherd in immortal sentences, are many temples of the Hindu godlings, where the people worship today. Images of bears emerging from rough stone—the elephant, the bull, the monkey. There are wayside shrines, as those of saints in Mexico, places of daily visitation for the poor. These are embraced in the high philosophy of Hinduism today.

Case Is Continued

Policeman Roy Sullivan, 33 years old, 4823 North Oakley avenue, was arraigned yesterday in the Felony court on a charge of assault to kill Andrew J. Gallagher, 2023 Lyndale avenue, a street car conductor. Sullivan got on a Broadway car while intoxicated Monday night and shot Gallagher after the conductor had forced him to pay a fare. Judge Samuel H. Trude continued the case until Nov. 29 to await the possible recovery of Gallagher. Physicians at the American hospital said that Gallagher, who was shot three times in the chest, has a chance to recover. Sullivan was released on $5,000 bond.

INDIAN BUSINESS MAN FINDS WORLD TRADE CONDITIONS BETTER

An upturn in world business conditions was reported yesterday by Nandlal Kilachand, one of the leading merchants of India, and his secretary, Trambakrai N. Munchi, who are visiting in Chicago. Mr. Kilachand, the senior partner of a concern of five brothers in Bombay, is an exporter of cotton, peanuts, and castor beans. The company has agents in European countries and the United States. Mr. Kilachand said that business is more brisk than for several years. He and his secretary were most impressed, they said, by the rush of American business methods.

"Our country is more simple," he said. "Here every one is in a hurry. We were greatly interested in Kinsley's story on Bombay in THE TRIBUNE this morning, as the papers in the United States carry so little news of India."

SPAIN ARRESTS LINDBERGH BABY KIDNAP SUSPECT

SEVILLE, Spain, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Acting on information from the American consulate, police today detained a man who gave his name as Jean Saul for questioning in connection with the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby.

They said he had admitted that he knew something about the kidnaping and the distribution of the $50,000 ransom paid for the child's return, but that he had refused to answer further questions until he could face the American police. The name Saul, police said, probably is an alias; nor were they certain of the man's nationality.

Sailors Give Tip.

He was apprehended after the American vice consul had received an anonymous note from two American sailors who said they had talked with Saul in a café here and that "he seemed to know entirely too much about the Lindbergh kidnaping."

The vice consul asked the police to investigate, and it was discovered that Saul's identification papers were not in order. He is to be sent to Madrid for further examination.

After attending a preliminary examination the vice consul announced that he had withdrawn from the case, leaving it entirely in the hands of the police, although he will forward a complete report to the embassy at Madrid.

Find Letter in Belongings.

Police said they had found an unfinished letter among Saul's belongings. It read:

"Dear Bill: I'm afraid I've talked too much, but I hope I haven't compromised myself. You know how I am when I am drinking."

Police also said Saul told them that friends in the French consulate at New York had helped him to obtain a French passport, which he burned when he entered Spain so that the friends would not be compromised. Tags on his baggage showed that he had been in Genoa, Nice, Toulouse, and Barcelona. Labels of New York clothing houses were on his suits.

EARLY ARRIVALS WIN SEATS AT COOKING SCHOOL

5,000 Fill Trianon for Second Session.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

The first thing on the second day program of THE TRIBUNE'S cooking school yesterday was a "seventh inning stretch." Necessity demanded it. For of the 5,000 and more women filling every cranny of the Trianon ballroom at 62d and Cottage Grove, hundreds had been holding down their seats since 10 o'clock in the morning, and scores had arrived outside the doors at 9.

The doors, scheduled to be opened at 11:30, were thrown open earlier to accommodate the crush, though 1 p. m. was the hour at which the activities were due to begin.

Things moved with a snap and a dash when they did start on time to the minute. In a trice, Carl Craven was at the microphone, waving the women to their feet for a rousing session of familiar songs. The swelling strains of "America" did everybody good, the song leader's voice booming out above all the hundreds of sopranos until the loud speakers quivered with its volume. "Sweet Adeline" followed, with plenty of close harmony.

Miss Paske Presented.

Then Miss Sophie Paske, tall and titian haired, was presented by Phil Maxwell as the possessor of the best feminine voice of the last TRIBUNE Music Festival competition. Her rich soprano was applauded to an encore in "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" and "My Hero," the old favorite from the "Chocolate Soldier."

Wendell Hall, the "redheaded music maker," veteran radio artist, bounced onto the stage thereafter, to set feet tapping and shoulders swaying as he plinkety-plunked his banjo and sang songs of the southland in an incredibly realistic dialect. The crowd would hardly let him leave.

Everybody upstairs and down was more than diverted a moment later, however, when a troop of youngsters from the Schultz dance studios, came out with chef's caps and aprons over their costumes, clattered onto the stage and presented an original number composed for the occasion.

"Hello, Everybody, Hello."

"Hello, everybody, hello," they chorused, and swung into the stanzas, with dance steps marking the rhythm.

"We're going to entertain at THE TRIBUNE cooking show,
We're going to prepare a tasty bill of fare.
A menu made just right,
To tempt your appetite.
"First a little butter, then a little spice,
Add a little sugar and everything that's nice.
Mix them all together with a step or two thrown in,
Submit to Mrs. Chitwood, then all of you begin."

They began mixing their "dish" of dance novelties with 7 year old Ruby Springer stepping off a tap dance as she skipped rope without ever a miss, heel and toe accenting the measures like a triphammer. Her audience paid tribute to her talent with a storm of applause. Tiny Mary Ellen Burback, something less than knee high, polished off the act with an acrobatic number.

New Dainties to Discuss.

Miss Mary Meade, TRIBUNE cooking editor who is collaborating with Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood in the cooking school curriculum, brought the throng back to things culinary with her presentation of that expert, who had an entire new list of dainties to discuss. Tuesday she had merely displayed her completed dishes. Yesterday she passed out servings which were quickly gobbled up by her pupils, who picked up many a hint as Mrs. Chitwood lectured and worked.

"How many women here have had failures with biscuits?" she challenged as she began. Hands by the score shot up all over the hall. Then she asked, "How many of you women have never had a failure with biscuits?"

One lone palm wiggled defiantly, down in front. Mrs. Chitwood was impressed. "One woman out of 5,000," she checked. "Congratulations!"

Crowd Applauds Biscuits.

The flaky, golden brown tinted tray of biscuits she presently rescued from the oven and exhibited had the look of an artist's masterpiece. The ballroom broke into spontaneous applause, having followed the mixing of the ingredients with rapt attention. To prove that they tasted as good as they looked, the "chef par excellence," as Mary Meade designated her, broke them apart, spread with honey and butter and passed them out to all who flocked up on the stage.

That from twelve to fifteen vegetables should be included to make a really perfect vegetable soup, and that beef stock is the best basis for it was another of Mrs. Chitwood's tips to the Chicago cooks.

Ham and Cauliflower.

Still another was a suggestion for the main serving at a luncheon called "ham and cauliflower bake." This is made by separating cooked cauliflower into flowerets and crumbling a dozen salted soda crackers over them in a buttered baking dish, in layers, with one cup of cooked chopped ham included. This is seasoned with salt and pepper, dotted with two tablespoons of butter, 1¼ cups of scalded milk poured over all, and the dish baked in a hot oven, 425 degrees, for 25 to 30 minutes. It serves six.

More than 100 generous baskets of groceries were awarded to winners of lucky numbers, and ten especially large baskets went to ten especially lucky women. Grand prizes for the south side cooking school will be awarded Friday.

Sally Joy Brown Attends.

Vocal solos by Miss Anita Hall, a popular soprano, and more dance novelties by the Schultz students closed the day's program, but not before Sally Joy Brown, TRIBUNE department head, had greeted the crowd and been welcomed by her readers in the audience.

At today's session at the same time and place, Tom Powers and Laura Straub, stars of "Another Language," now playing here, will utilize the stage and microphones. The Murray Browne Institute of Dancing will send up its most skilled performers. There will be vocal solos by Eleanor Sue Wimp, mezzo soprano, and by Miss Annette Thorn, south side winner at THE TRIBUNE Music Festival. Bobby Bloom will replace Cathryn Bennett as accompanist for the afternoon, with Edward Clissold leading the community singing.

Two armed men yesterday forced the automobile of John Kamys, 2253 West Chicago avenue, to the curb at Bryn Mawr avenue and Paulina street and took $900 from him. The money was to have been used for a pay roll of the Chicago Pharmacal company, 5547 Ravenswood avenue.

MUSSOLINI OPENS HUGE EXHIBIT OF FASCISM TODAY

Portrays Italian History Since World War.

ROME, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Workmen gave the last polishing touches today to the Fascist decennial exposition which Mussolini will inaugurate tomorrow.

The exposition palace on the Via Nazionale has been reconstructed to house the 15,000 different objects, relics, documents and displays charting the early days of Fascism and Mussolini.

The facade is now shadowed by four enormous columns in the form of fasces, or lictors' rods with axes, each 76 feet high. The ax-heads are 19 feet long. Concealed lamps and floodlights will illuminate the exterior.

Covers Eight Years of History.

The interior has been divided into eighteen halls which will embrace eight years of history, from Serajevo in 1914 to the march on Rome on Oct. 28, 1922. The exposition does not deal with the last ten years of Fascism in office. These will eventually be covered in a permanent exhibition of Fascism in a building planned for construction this year.

Visitors in the first hall will see the documents on the outbreak of the world war, the declaration of Italian neutrality, Mussolini's expulsion from the Socialist party and his foundation of the Milan newspaper, Popolo d'Italia.

Mussolini's Part in War.

Then they will go on to the period of Mussolini's campaign for Italy's intervention against Austria, then to the war. Mussolini's part in the struggle is chronicled by the manuscript of his Diario Di Guerra, and postcards and letters he wrote in the trenches.

One hall contains the documents of the victory. Another hall covers the period from the armistice to the foundation of the Fasci at in March, 1919. All the objects and furniture of Mussolini's first office in the Popolo D'Italia are here displayed. The fierce street battles between Fascists and Socialists and communists in 1920 and the railroad workers' strike which Facism broke are chronicled.

Two halls are devoted to the capture of Fiume by D'Annunzio and its annexation to Italy. The displays then center on the first national elections, at which Fascists were sent to the chamber of deputies.

The March on Rome.

There are accounts of the first Fascist congress at Rome and the meeting at Naples which decided the march on Rome. That march occupies two halls.

Two halls are filled with personal mementoes of Mussolini. In the center of the exposition is a hall devoted to the "Fascist Martyrs," that is, the Fascists slain in combat with Socialists, communists and other anti-Fascists. Some of these were killed in North and South America.

The exposition is completed by a library of 3,000 different volumes on Fascism written in a score of languages.

Duce Ends Northern Tour.

MILAN, Oct. 26.—(AP)—His four day tour of northern Italy ended, Premier Mussolini left tonight for Rome. He canceled an intended trip today to the city of Brescia, on the Lombardy plain east of here. He said he would go there Saturday to attend dedications on Sunday at his old home, the walled town of Forli, east of the Appennines.

Sig. Mussolini talked with many poor people and disabled war veterans on a whirlwind tour of new public works here. An aerial escort flew over each place where he stopped.

As another indication of Fascist reconciliation with the church, il duce, accompanied by Cardinal Schuster, archbishop of Milan, visited the Ambrosiana library, where Pope Pius was formerly librarian.

STREET PEDDLER FOUND DEAD.

Samuel Hallasey, 53 years old, a peddler of shoe strings, was found dead yesterday at the entrance to Lincoln park at Garfield avenue and Lincoln Park West. He had died of heart disease, police said.

ALCOHOL PEDDLER IS SHOT TO DEATH BY AUTO GUNMEN

Joseph Faranelli, 34 years old, an alcohol peddler and petty racketeer known to police as "Joe the Barber," was shot to death yesterday by gunmen in front of the Italian Americanization club, 1007 South Wood street, of which he was president.

Police laid the killing to a feud between alcohol gangs, the fifth such murder in recent weeks in and about Chicago. Faranelli, they were informed, had incurred the ire of the so-called "syndicate" by cutting prices on bootleg alcohol.

Mutuel tickets which were found in his pockets gave credence to another theory for the murder which police received. According to this report, Faranelli collected $500 in his neighborhood Monday to be bet on a horse running at Sportsman's Park. Instead of placing the bet, he pocketed the money, confident that the horse would lose. Instead, it won, and he was unable to pay off participants in the pool, police were told.

Faranelli lived at 1117 South Racine avenue and formerly conducted a barber shop next door to his home. He was arrested in 1930 on a charge of extortion.

The shooting yesterday was done from an automobile. Faranelli walked out of the club headquarters and was summoned over to the side of the car by one of the gunmen. As he approached, the gang fired five revolver bullets into his body, then sped away.

REVEAL HOW OLD ASSESSING BODY SALTED TAX ROLL

Millions in Fictitious Valuations Found.

How the old board of assessors salted personal property assessments to deceive taxpayers and local governments was revealed yesterday by Assesor J. L. Jacobs. In the town of Lake [comprising southwest Chicago] the assessor found the former régime had placed millions of dollars in assessments on the roll without a hope of collection.

In one instance the assessor found a company was given an assessed valuation of $16,651,500, which would rank it among the leading corporations of the city as that assessment figure would be taken to represent a full value of 40 million dollars. Appraisers for Jacobs put the assessed value of the personalty of the company, the Davis Industries, Inc., furniture manufacturers at 314 West 43d street, at $17,344.

Other Board Assessments.

A closed drug store was assessed by the old board at $129,500, a provision company at $561,000 instead of $1,660, its real assessed value. A closed cooperage was assessed at $220,000 and a finance company which should have been assessed at $740 was on the books at $462,950. The large assessments, which are 37 per cent of the full value, represented estimates by the board of assessors and were not made from schedules returned or from an inspection of the property, records revealed.

The board of assessors had assessed personal property in the town of Lake at $64,119,824 for 1930. The 1931 assessment of Jacobs is $68,254,864. In reality the 1930 assessment was far lower, Jacobs said. Exclusive of banks, the board's 1930 assessment was but $12,851,110, while the 1931 assessment, exclusive of banks, is $39,733,681.

The tactics of the old board were discovered by Assessor Jacobs when he found that, though he had received 86,139 tax schedules, compared to $14,363 received by the old board, his total was only $4,000,000 above the 1930 figure. He ordered an investigation of records, which revealed how the former assessment was made.

Tells of False Assessments.

"A former employé, under the old régime, told me that he had received orders to enter the false assessments," Jacobs said. "This employé said he was told such assessments would look good. He was also instructed to enter assessments against estates which had been closed for as long as 15 years, to swell the total.

"In addition to the boosted assessments we found through our search that the board of assessors had failed to enter proper assessments against a number of companies."

Assessor Jacobs is examining the board of assessors' appraisals in other city towns. Though this has not been completed, he said results show the practice was general.

JUDGE LYNCH IS PICKED TO HEAR NEW BAIN TRIAL

Judge Thomas J. Lynch of the Criminal court, was assigned yesterday to preside at the trial of John Bain, head of the 12 closed Bain banks, and three of his associates on charges of receiving deposits while the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank was insolvent. In a previous trial, on other charges growing out of the failure of the bank chain, John Bain was sentenced to one to five years in prison. Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court made the assignment for the new trial. He announced that Judge Lynch would rule on the request of Edward C. Barry, a former vice president of the bank, for the services of the public defender. Barry testified at a previous hearing that he was penniless and unable to hire an attorney.

The defendants, John Bain, his son, John H. Bain; his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, and Barry, all officials of the bank, entered pleas of not guilty when the case was called. Attorney John Roger, of the office of Attorney Harry Olson, former chief justice of the Municipal court, appeared in defense of the Bains and Fisher. He asked for a jury trial and suggested that Attorney Olson confer with Prosecutor Harold Keele to decide on the trial judge.

"I don't think much of that idea," Judge Prystalski said. "This is the same as any other case. The judge next in line will receive the case' He then announced that Judge Lynch would set the trial date.

SEIZED AS SAUSAGE THIEF.

Leo Neiss 35 years old, 4926 South Wood street, was freed last Saturday morning after serving six months in the house of correction for stealing sausage. A few hours later he was arrested on a charge of stealing $4 worth of sausage from the stockyards plant of Armour & Co. Neiss was granted a jury trial yesterday by Judge Leon Edelman.

Seized by Police

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Sadie Lichtenstein, 33 years old, of 2828 Pine Grove avenue, and Samuel Q. Goldman, 41 years old, who gave his address as 500 South Michigan avenue, were arrested yesterday on three warrants charging them with confidence game, and held at the detective bureau in lieu of $15,000 bail each.

The complaints were filed by Mrs. Alice Lindsay, Harold Burroughs, and Harold Boldes, tenants in the forty-two apartment building at 1658 Juneway terrace, now in receivership.

Frank Murnighan, 1740 Columbia avenue, the receiver, said that last September Goldman and Miss Lichenstein purchased a small share in the building and then proceeded to reduce rentals for old and new tenants who agreed to pay from three to five months rent in advance. They collected approximately $2,700, Murnighan said. As a result, the receiver asserted, those who paid advance rents face loss of their money. Miss Lichtenstein said last night that the rental arrangement was legal. Mrs. Lindsay, Boldes and Burroughs were among those who paid the advance rentals.

APPEAL BOARD UPSET BY ROWS ON ASSESSMENTS

Assessor Ordered to Quit Hearing.

The judicial tenor of the hearings on personal property assessment complaints before the board of appeals was disturbed yesterday by two heated disputes. George F. Nixon, a member of the appeals board, ordered Chief Deputy Assessor Harry S. Cutmore out of the hearing room for offering a suggestion. Later Mr. Nixon threatened to walk out during an argument with his colleague, Fred W. Brummel.

The board of appeals was hearing the complaint of Dr. Leroy Knapp, a dentist with an office at 1044 Lake street, Oak Park. The assessed value of his office equipment is $296. He asked that it be cut to $110. Mr. Cutmore had been asked to attend the hearing in an advisory capacity.

As the dentist presented his case, Cutmore wrote a note in which he said he had recently seen a survey by the Detroit Dental society which set the average value of a dentist's equipment at $3,690. He passed the note to Brummel, who read it and turned it over to Nixon.

Nixon grew red as he finished the note. He turned to Cutmore.

"We don't want you down here messing up our job," Nixon shouted. "Get out."

Cutmore smiled and bowed to Nixon as he left. Nixon tore up the note and threw the bits away.

Brummel then suggested a reassessment of Dr. Knapp's personalty by a deputy assessor. Nixon objected. They debated in stage whispers which afforded amusement to the complainants in the room.

"I won't consider a reappraisal," Nixon said. "The assessor's figures are not to be depended on." Brummel carried his point, however, and the new appraisal was ordered. As the matter was concluded, Nixon said: "One more argument like this and I'll walk out."

SECRET 6 HEADS TO FACE GRAND JURY QUIZ TODAY

Randolph and Jamie Are Served with Subpoenas.

Mississippi Valley association, of which Mr. Randolph is president, drew $625 a month from the district.

"The total payments so far uncovered to these various Randolph connections was far in excess of $50,000 during the infamous whoopee era.

Makes Whitewash Charge.

"It will be recalled that Randolph was vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce when the inquiry into the district affairs first started. Randolph was a leader in the move that led to the audit of the district accounts by which Edward E. Gore & Co., an accounting firm headed by a former president of the association, received more than $100,000 for a whit.wash report of the district officials who were later convicted by my office. What part did Randolph play in that whitewash?

In striking at the Secret Six, Mr. Swanson said:

"When I suggested that the Secret Six be organized I intended it to be a legitimate agency for the detection of crime. The idea was that the organization was to assist the state's attorney in the suppression of crime.

"I have long since suspected that Isham Randolph and his organization have not been functioning properly. The actions of this organization, which some months ago apparently fell under the malign influence of Shirley Kub, prove that it is unworthy of public support.

"If Jamie, Mrs. Kub, and Randolph were sincere they would have reported promptly to the state's attorney if and when they found corruption in his office. They certainly have ceased to serve the public and their contributors when they use money given to investigate and obtain evidence against criminals to bribe and entrap, as they say, an employé of my office and then fail to tell me about it.

"The actions of this organization in the last few days certainly demonstrate beyond doubt that it has degenerated into nothing other than a front for a political organization. They said they obtained evidence months ago of corruption and then they waited until the eve of election to make it public."

Hunt Mrs. Kub's Husbands.

The prosecutors said they wish to find out the part Mrs. Kub played in formulating the recent charges made against Mr. Swanson's office by the Secret Six. In a previous statement Mr. Swanson charged that the Secret Six had become an organization of reform racketeers willing to blacken the city's reputation to satisfy their own craving for money and self-publicity.

Mrs. Kub's former husbands were being sought by the state's attorney's investigators for a clew to her present whereabouts. The investigators recalled that Mrs. Kub had hidden from a special grand jury investigating police conditions and that later she testified that during this period of hiding she had married a George Miller. She married Miller, she said, after she was told that her previous marriage to another man was illegal.

Husband Reported in Prison.

Detectives said that Miller is now in a federal penitentiary for interstate shipment of a stolen automobile. Mrs. Kub, they said, had recently approached federal parole agents to get him released.

According to the police, Mrs. Kub first attracted public notice in 1922 when one of her husbands shot a youth who had followed her to Chicago from California.

She served a contempt sentence for defying the police grand jury, and in the fall of 1931 she was sentenced to 30 days in the Bridewell on a charge of defrauding a west side jeweler.

Joseph Porcaro, Republican committeeman of the 28th ward, who was in charge of the state's attorney's file department at the time when the Secret Six charges the file of records was abstracted, has not been connected with the state's attorney for several months.

ADMIRAL DEWEY'S SON TO SHARE IN $500,000 ESTATE OF MOTHER

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—George Goodwin Dewey of Chicago, only son of Admiral George Dewey, will share in the distribution of the $500,000 estate of Mrs. Mildred McLean Dewey, widow of the admiral, under terms of an agreement among the beneficiaries of the estate.

The terms of the accord have not been made public, but another continuance of the case until Nov. 23 was secured today from Justice Oscar R. Luhring. At that time, it is expected Mr. Dewey will withdraw his opposition to the probate of the May 2, 1925, will of Mrs. Dewey and the document will be admitted to probate.

The contested will provides a life annuity of $3,000 to Mrs. Henrietta M. Bugher, widow of Frederick H. Bugher, a nephew of the admiral's widow, and makes specific bequests of about $20,000. One-third of the remaining estate is to be paid to a grand-nephew, Frederick McLean Bugher, when he reaches the age of 40 years.

The remaining two-thirds of the residue was not disposed of by the will and under the law of distribution will be divided equally between Edward Beale McLean, former Washington publisher and only nephew of the deceased, and Frederick M. Bugher, as heir of his father, the only other nephew.

BRITISH 'HUNGER HIKERS' CAMP IN LONDON SUBURBS

Police Mobilize to Cope with 2,000 Jobless.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—With all available regulars and reserves notified of possible duty, London police tonight awaited the influx tomorrow of the army of 2,000 unemployed "hunger marchers," who have been converging on London from all directions for more than a month to put their case directly before the British government.

The "march on London" is avowedly for the specific purpose of protesting against enforcement by the government of the "means test," which requires a recipient of public relief, after the expiration of his 26 weeks on the national dole, to prove he has absolutely no means of support to obtain further relief.

Sleeps in Suburbs.

Tonight the dishevelled army, which has been living "off the country" as it tramped along, slept in makeshift quarters on the outskirts of the city, some on bags filled with straw. The leaders, many of whom are known to police as communist heads of previous hunger marches, planned to send their army into the city in the morning and to assemble it for a monster demonstration in the afternoon in Hyde Park, which has long been recognized as the pulpit for harangues against the existing order of things.

The unemployed will be joined by many thousands of men and women similarly jobless who live in London, one estimate putting the total number of potential demonstrators in the city as high as 100,000.

Plans of the leaders after the Hyde Park meeting are indefinite. A move was on foot tonight, however, for three men and three women representatives to appear on behalf of the marchers before parliament. Jack McGovern, Labor member of parliament from Glasgow, announced that he would bring the matter of a hearing before parliament tomorrow.

Police Gird for Reds.

Police prepared to concentrate much of their strength near Hyde Park tomorrow, but did not anticipate as much trouble there as elsewhere, as it is known that communists are drumming up many other gatherings for the day. Police, mounted and on foot, have been assigned their stations for the day while a motor squad equipped with radios will also be ready for any emergency.

Official labor organizations have taken a stand against the hunger marchers. The trades union congress is conducting a different kind of campaign against the "means test" and it is also generally admitted that the march is a gesture fostered and financed by communist interests.

The approach of the marchers to London tonight was marked by two minor incidents. Three Welsh miners were detailed by their contingent to demand free baths from the Hammersmith borough council, but were refused. Another deputation invaded the gallery while the Wimbledon council was meeting. They demanded permission to present a petition with 800 signatures calling on the council to consider the unemployed situation, but were refused and eventually withdrew under threats of ejection.

To Provide for "Army."

The London county council has made adequate provision for the accommodation of the jobless, but cummunist leaders are objecting to separation of the various groups of demonstrators. In one building, it is learned, there is also space for a police detail.

DANDRUFF
Ends Overnight!

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get plain, ordinary liquid, Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store. It won't cost you more than thirty-five cents. This simple remedy never fails.

For the agonizing pains of rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or lumbago the relief is quick. Strange as it may seem, this quick acting Nurito contains no opiates or narcotics. It is absolutely safe. Harmless even for children. You can prove this with one package. There is no use in wasting effort with anything that doesn't stop your pain. And if it does that you know you are going to get relief. Get a package today. If the very first three doses do not drive away the most intense pain, your money will be refunded. "Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the noted artist, N. C. Wyeth... inspired by the infamous Captain Kidd's fierce raids on the gold-laden Spanish galleons (1696), which made him the scourge of the Spanish Main. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

NEW R. F. C. LOAN REQUESTED FOR CHICAGO RELIEF

Reynolds Files Formal Application Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois emergency relief commission, today began negotiations with the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a new loan of $6,305,150 to meet Illinois' relief requfrements during November.

Arriving here early this morning, Mr. Reynolds conferred briefly a short time later with Fred C. Croxton, head of the finance corporation's relief loan section. He will return tomorrow with Edward L. Ryerson, another officer of the state relief organization, to file formal application for the new advance.

Two Loans Made.

Corporation officials are already familiar with the situation existing in Illinois, having previously granted loans for relief in the state, aggregating 14 million dollars. It is expected that action will be taken on the new application within a few days.

In making the previous relief advances to Illinois officials of the Reconstruction Finance corporation have urged that the state take drastic action to raise its own relief funds. Directors of the corporation are understood to be favorably disposed to granting federal aid until the November election when the proposed relief bond issue will be voted on.

Chinese Wheat Loan.

Meanwhile an announcement that the finance corporation has made an eight million dollar loan to China for the purchase of 15 million bushels of northwest wheat, is expected within the next doy or two.

It is understood the Chinese representatives urged that the wheat loan be made direct by the R. F. C. to the Chinese government without requiring that a domestic coöperative underwrite the Chinese obligation. Wilson McCarthy of the corporation said several days ago that he was seeking to secure such an endorsement and that failure to find a coöperative willing to endorse the Chinese note was the only obstacle to granting of the loan.

The corporation today granted a self liquidating project loan of $150,000 to Gulfport, Miss., for water front development work, and advanced $75,000 to Covington, Ky., for water works improvements. It also approved an emergency relief loan of $112,212 to Virginia, supplementing a total of $886,713 previously advanced to the state.

FIVE YEAR PLAN FAR BEHIND, BUT IMPROVES ON '31

MOSCOW, Oct. 26.—(AP)—With the end of the first five year plan only a little more than two months off, official figures published today showed that Russia's industry as a whole accomplished less than half the increase planned for 1932, but still is running considerably ahead of last year.

The country's entire industrial production for the first eight months of this year, including heavy and light industries, timber and food industries, reached a combined average of 14.9 per cent above the same period of 1931, as compared with a scheduled increase of 36 per cent for the whole year of 1932.

Heavy industry had a gain of only 1.8 per cent, light industry increased 9.2 per cent, and timber production 9.1 per cent. Total production amounted to 18,931,500,000 rubles (nominally $9,465,750,000).

LOAN SOCIETY OFFICIAL IS HELD FOR $7,800 THEFT

Daniel Henrici, 8314 South Paulina street, was charged yesterday with embezzlement of $7,800 from the Arnoldsville Building and Loan association, 6239 South Ashland avenue, of which he is secretary. Warrants were obtained from Judge Samuel H. Trude of the Felony court.

The complainant was Charles Gurtler, 5718 South Laflin street, president of the association. Attorney Albert A. Gomber, representing Gurtler, told the judge that officials fear Henrici's total peculations would reach $50,000.

ADMITS KILLING SECOND WOMAN IN SEVEN YEARS

Ex-Convict Slays Wife of Prison Clerk.

Columbus, O., Oct. 27.—(AP)—For the second time in seven years, John "Red" Downing, pardoned ex-convict, today pleaded guilty to the murder of a woman, this time his benefactress.

Downing was arraigned speedily in police court after authorities said he confessed the killing yesterday of Mrs. Mauree M. Bonzo, 44, wife of the record and parole clerk at the Ohio penitentiary here. The grand jury was called into special session tomorrow to consider his case.

Meanwhile various officials began a study of the circumstances that led to the pardoning of Downing a year ago by Gov. George White. At that time, the ex-convict had served seven years of a life term imposed after he pleaded guilty to killing Mrs. Allean Williams, 38, during an attempted robbery in Cincinnati.

Another Ex-Convict Held.

Downing was the second ex-convict to be involved in a slaying in less than a month in Ohio. Francis "Mack" Bush, bank robber paroled last spring, is awaiting trial in Cleveland for the killing of Herbert Quinlan, jeweler, in an attempted holdup Oct. 8. Bush's accomplice, Norman Townsend, also a paroled convict, was shot to death in a gun fight with police.

Gov. White said he would have no statement to make until he consults his files.

Daniel Bonzo, husband of the slain woman, himself helped Downing obtain a pardon, according to State Welfare Director John McSweeney. Downing often was given odd jobs at the Bonzo home.

Judge Opposed Parole.

W. M. Outcalt, former assistant county prosecutor at Cincinnati who prosecuted Downing for the killing of Mrs. Williams, wrote the governor he believed Downing had learned his lesson and that "his case seemed to merit sympathy."

Judge Dennis W. Ryan of Cincinnati, who sentenced Downing to life, said he had refused to recommend a parole and had challenged the governor's authority to grant a pardon under the circumstances of the case.

Mrs. Bonzo was found beaten to death in the basement of her home last night.

Naval Memorial Nearing Completion in France

Ralph Milman, Chicago architect of Howard Shaw Associates, received word yesterday that the Naval Memorial monument he designed is now nearing completion in Brest, France, the site selected for it. Brest was chosen because it was the point of debarkation of many United States troops during the war, more than a million having been safely landed there. The monument is a granite shaft built into the historic fortifications. It rises 190 feet above the street level on a site dominating the harbor. At the city level, approximately 75 feet above the base of the ramparts, the monument is approached through a series of terraces and broad steps.

EMERGENCY FUND FOR RELIEF GOES ABOVE MILLION

Unemployed Ask Permit for Hunger Parade.

Additional contributions totaling $388,464 to the Emergency Welfare fund of Cook county were announced yesterday at the Chicago club at a luncheon meeting of team captains engaged in a preliminary drive. That figure brings the total contributions received to date to $1,058,639, according to Robert A. Gardner, who is directing the campaign to raise $7,500,000 to be spent this winter for relief other than unemployment. The general drive will start on Nov. 14.

ROBERT A. GARDNER.

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, left for Washington yesterday to present a request today for another loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to continue unemployment relief throughout the state next month. Wilfred Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, is already in Washington on this mission.

Not Charity, Says Strawn.

At the meeting of campaign workers for the welfare fund Silas A. Strawn, attorney, declared donations to the fund should not be considered in the light of charity, but as insurance against chaos.

"The welfare work that will be accomplished through this fund is absolutely necessary for the continuation of society in its present state," Mr. Strawn declared. "I warn you that the need in Cook county this winter is very grave, indeed, and that the donations are not to be considered pure charity, but as insurance against chaos."

Three Leading Teams.

Mr. Gardner announced that the three campaign teams that have raised the largest sums were those headed by the following men: John Stuart, president of the Quaker Oats company, $177,985; James R. Leavell, president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, $155,700, and George A. Ranney, vice president of the International Harvester company, $129,150.

Large contributions were announced as follows: International Harvester company, $100,000; anonymous individual, $50,000; Sears Roebuck & Co., $40,000; Sprague Memorial institute, $10,000; Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt, attorneys, $10,000, and the Chicago Daily News, $10,000. The next meeting of the campaign leaders was announced for tomorrow noon at the Chicago club.

SUITOR SLASHES WOMAN'S THROAT AND THEN HIS OWN

Harry Tobey, 54 years old, 1404 North Clark street, sought to bring to an end yesterday his romance with Mrs. Maud Naeher, 29 years old, of the Ravenna hotel, La Salle and Division streets. In a room in the Grant hotel, 6 North Dearborn street, he slashed her throat and then his own with a knife.

The woman's screams were heard by W. W. Williams, the hotel manager, who interrupted Tobey's attempt at murder and suicide. Neither wound was serious. Mrs. Naeher was taken to the Bridewell and Tobey to the central police station.

According to his story he is unemployed and had become despondent because both he and Mrs. Naeher, whose suitor he had been for two years, were out of funds. The woman, however, declared that he had called her to the hotel to discuss a real estate deal and had then slashed her when she declined to become his wife.

THE TRIBUNE'S PLATFORM FOR CHICAGO

1. Cut taxes in half.
2. Pay the defaulted bonds.
3. Overcome crime.
4. Speed up railroad passenger service.
5. Make Chicago the first city in the world.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

JUDGE HORNER FOR GOVERNOR.

The candidate for the governorship whom the Democratic party of Illinois honored itself by nominating, Henry Horner, represents a type of citizenship that rises above party and should appeal to every good citizen regardless of party affiliation. His opponents, unable to find anything unworthy in Judge Horner's long public service or private life, have been compelled to appeal to sectional prejudice, for he is a resident of Chicago. The campaign against him is therefore not merely a party contest for office, but a challenge to the decent citizenship of Illinois. As a resident of Chicago Judge Horner's fellow citizens have made acquaintance with his character and abilities in one of the most important offices in their gift, Probate judge, and their approval has been manifested by repeated reëlections to that office by steadily increasing majorities. Judge Horner has served the whole community, regardless of religious or race distinctions, not only in his office, but by philanthropic and civic services which were without discrimination, and has won thereby the respect and gratitude of our whole community. He has made a name for himself of which every citizen of Illinois who respects integrity and ability in public office ought to be proud.

If it is a crime in the eyes of our fellow citizens dwelling outside of Chicago to be a resident of this city, regardless of personal character and public service of the most honorable kind, Judge Horner cannot expect their approval. We believe the politicians who are trying to make it appear a crime in order to gain public office are insulting the intelligence and good conscience, the high minded Americanism, of the people of Illinois. The pretense is that Judge Horner, if elected governor, will use his power to the injury of the state. They offer no evidence that he will and Judge Horner's whole career in public and private life gives the lie to this charge. In our own generation two of the ablest and most beneficial administrations were those of two Chicago men, Charles Deneen and Frank Lowden, and if there is any meaning in a lifetime of able and loyal service to the public weal, that of Henry Horner gives every assurance any reasoning citizen, in or out of Chicago, can wish for that Judge Horner will serve the state as he has served the city, with ability, integrity and justice.

SAND IN THE MACHINERY OF JUSTICE.

Because a mittimus, or formal order upon which convicted persons are taken to jail or penitentiary, had somehow not been issued, a burglar sentenced to a term of one year to life has been at large for several months. The Criminal court clerk says he received no order from the state's attorney's office for the issuance of the mittimus. The state's attorney's office asserts that the request was duly sent to the clerk's office. Chief Justice Prystalski intervened and signed a duplicate letter directing the issuance. It mysteriously failed to arrive. Finally he signed another and had it delivered. Then the mittimus was issued and the convict was sent on his way.

The credit for this final success goes to the Chicago crime commission, which called attention three weeks ago to the fact that the Supreme court had affirmed the sentence last summer and that nevertheless the convict was still free. We invite our citizens' attention to this kind of service performed by the crime commission, without which there can be no doubt criminals would even oftener than now evade punishment. The commission is proving itself constantly a necessary adjunct of criminal justice in this community. The community should give it support, and other communities, at least the larger ones, should set up similar commissions.

The other lesson of this incident is that there are influences obscurely at work at all times to defeat justice or to procure special favors for lawbreakers. This is the most serious aspect of our criminal condition. It is revealed repeatedly in the official machinery of the law where corrupt politics is exchanging favors with professional crime. We cannot fix the blame in this instance and that is a pity, but citizens at any rate should note that something was radically wrong and that whoever was guilty the incident is only the latest illustration of underworld influence in the administration which politics gives us.

The public is not helpless, but it has work on its hands if it is to better its protection. It must think about measures proposed to simplify elections such as the shorter ballot, which will help the voter to vote with some available knowledge of the men he is asked to vote for. This should increase the responsibility of the higher-ups in politics and public office. The public must also interest itself in proposals for reducing the control of politics over the judiciary and the prosecuting officials when, if ever, such proposals are forthcoming. The essential, in short, is the citizen's interest in his government, or rather his misgovernment. This is at a low ebb in our time, largely because our elections, our political and administrative machinery have been made so complicated that citizens cannot follow their operation and are unable to censor or control them. But the answer is not despair. The answer is intelligent determination to put our system in such shape as we can understand and direct.

Even this would not bring the millennium. For there are basic weaknesses in ourselves. If there were not, notorious grafters and demagogues whose incompetence, betrayal of public trust and lack of public or private integrity have been demonstrated would not survive in public life or dare a second time to seek office.

THE NEW AMERICAN DESERT.

New York is now doing on a considerable scale what Chicago and probably other large cities have been doing for some time. Its property owners are tearing down buildings to escape the taxes on them. These are, of course, old buildings, but there is no profitable inducement to replace them, and the land is left under the untaxable débris unless it can be used to some profit for car parking. To the spectacle of the new and increasing public domain acquired by forfeitures is added the waste of real estate which cannot sustain a building and the taxes on it. There are two ways of making government realize that it is at the end of its string. One is by reason; the other by starvation.

The physical exhibits of the ruin caused by governmental costs are multiplying for the eye to see and the worst in taxes is yet to come. The country as yet has not felt the effects of the new tax bill which congress passed rather than reduce the demands of government upon the people. These tax rates await the citizen next March. He will then have occasion to know the folly which besets his public authorities.

THE REAL BATTLE.

Republicans have been complaining during the campaign that the Democrats have been exploiting the tribulations of the people for political profit. The charge is essentially valid. Any political organization in a like situation would try to ride easily into office on a tide of popular discontent. Democratic strategy in this campaign is obviously to avoid blunders in the form of affirmative proposals and let popular indignation with what can be ascribed to the opposition as blunders do its work.

But the Democrats also have a complaint. They are charging the Republicans with an attempt to exploit the fears of the people. This charge also has validity. Any party in a similar situation would try to hold office by making use of our natural reluctance to gamble with change. Thus we have a contest between two simple and fundamental forces. Nothing is more obvious in this campaign than that the Democratic hope of victory is not chiefly based upon reasoned appeal on behalf of Democratic policies, for these are very gingerly touched upon in the Democratic campaign and are mainly generalities far from glittering and almost too vague to be challenged. Democratic hopes are based on the instinctive human desire for change, any change, since we are discontented or disappointed. And these are substantial hopes, for the instinct is very deep and general and not very susceptible to argument.

If the Republicans had to rely upon argument alone their case would be hopeless. The duel is going on at a lower level of the American consciousness. The counter force to the desire of change is the fear of worse—a platitude, but one which governs this election more than most. The only thing that can resist and possibly defeat the drift of feeling toward a change of government is the equally instinctive force of fear, fear lest the long awaited recovery be set back, fear lest conditions which are barely lightening should engulf us again.

The battle is between these elemental forces over which the chilly goddess Reason has little influence. The reproaches of each political contestant have some justice, but if it is proper for one to make use of the force working in its behalf it is fair for its opponent to counter with an appeal to the other. Neither is in the interest of a wise decision, but both will have more to do with whatever decision is reached than any other factor. Either the hope of benefit or the fear of injury from changing may very well be disappointed. Both may be exaggerated. But it is certainly unfortunate for the country that at this stage of its struggle against depression it has to make any party decision at all.

CROPS AND PRICES.

[New York Times.]

Continued decline in the price of wheat has not simplified the task of Republican campaign strategists in the middle west. Cotton has also fallen. It sold last week below 6½ cents a pound, compared with more than 9 cents in the last week of August.

Of these two staples, closely linked in the public's mind at the present time with the movement of security prices and the fortune of politicians, wheat occupies the less favorable statistical position. Against an indicated reduction of 182 million bushels in our own crop for the current year and a small decrease of 7 million in Australia must be set an estimated increase of 24 million in Argentina, one of 52 million in Europe, and a large gain of 163 million for Canada. The net result is a prospective world crop larger by 50 million bushels than last year's. This is an increase of less than 2 per cent. But it comes at a time when stocks on hand are high and when new tariffs and "quota" systems have disorganized the normal movement to world markets.

Cotton occupies a more favorable position. Here a large reduction of about 3½ million bales in the prospective crop of the United States outweighs estimated increases of about one million elsewhere. The world crop will apparently be the smallest in nine years. Moreover, while stocks on hand amount nearly to a year's production most forecasts predict a substantially larger consumption this year than last, with a moderate reduction of world supply during the current season.

Custom gives precedence to wheat and cotton in any appraisal of the economic position of the farmer. In point of fact there are other crops of more importance to him at the present time. The department of agriculture estimates that in 1930 the cash income earned by wheat amounted to 393 million dollars and by cotton to 748 million dollars—a total of 1 billion 141 million dollars for these two crops. This compares with 905 million dollars earned by cattle, 1 billion 127 million by hogs, and 1 billion 423 million by milk. Even eggs [bringing in 491 million dollars] earned more for the farmer than his wheat. To some extent these comparisons are distorted by a disproportionatey sharp drop in wheat and cotton prices during 1930. But average figures for the five year period, 1924-'28, show that hogs were a more important source of revenue than wheat and that milk earned only a little less than cotton.

DESTRUCTION, DELAY, DECEIT, AND DESPAIR! Mr. Roosevelt says these terrible D's are the four horsemen of the Republican administration and he's going to corral them. And now that Franklin's started in on the D's look at the rest of 'em that he'll have to go after. Death, Despair, Damnation, Defeat, Dismay, Degradation, Disorder, Demolition, Doom, Darkness, Depression, Discontent, Despondency, Desperation, Despicable, Dastardly, Despotism, Destitution, Debauchery, Destruction, Detrimental, Devil, Dilapidation, Discord, Drought, Discouragement, Discourtesy, Disease, Discomfort, Disgust, Doubt, Disintegration, Disjoint, Drunkenness, Dismal, Dissension, Distress, Disturbance, Divorce, Dreariness, and Dyspepsia. To the Devil with the D's; they Do us Dirt. But just a minute, governor! Democrat begins with a D, too. But maybe that's the exception that proves the rule.

VITA NUOVA.

It took so long to find it
Down the pathway of the years,
The peace that passes wonder
And the end of hopes and fears.

Of murky morning madness
Like the tolling of a bell,
All lovely useless women
That glut the gates of hell.

Now dreaming dawns of beauty
Bring back the buried bliss,
And the smiling lips of fancy
Touch my forehead with a kiss

Like an ancient benediction
Of the colored flames that glow
In some old cathedral window
From the days of long ago.

It took so long to find it,
But it had to come at last,
The dream-house of the future
On the ashes of the past!

E. LESLIE SPAULDING.

AND THE BETTING down east, while it's changed a little, is still in favor of the Jefferson lads, 2½ to 1. But the odds on our candidate, Norman Thomas, keep going right up. Yesterday we bet a suspender button to two bits that Norman would be in the White House next March, but we're not going to make any more bets at that price. We're holding out now for a suspender button against four bits.

THE BRITISH dropped off the gold standard and now their pound, which used to be worth four dollars and eighty-five cents in what American tourists call "real money," is down to three thirty. Which makes many sturdy Britons razz the government bitterly for having jumped off the gold standard. If the British government will only copy the G. O. P. it will reply to its critics, "Yeah, but it could be worse. Think how low the pound would have gone if we hadn't jumped off the gold standard!" That's a grand argument, because there's simply no answer to it.

Will He? Will He?

Sir: I am not going to argue politics with you. You can get in your car and drive around—see conditions as they are or listen to big brainy men tell you how to vote over the raddio.

In the past four years look at the achievements: Free wheeling, dial telephone, Kate Smith, Betty Boop, movie cartoons, Samuel Insull, Kreuger, the eclipse of the sun. I could go on and on at great length.

All Roosevelt promises is beer. What has he said about restoring Tom Thumb or Pee Wee Golf? If he is for the return of roller towels, why don't he say so? Will he put Hooey Long in jail and pass a law allowing more sirup with griddle cakes? Is he for cheaper golf tees? I ask you. DAGMAR.

NEW YORK PROUDLY BOASTS of a strange collection of animals in its midst, as revealed in the appointment of a receiver for a Coney Island show, which includes four two-legged dogs, two six-legged sheep, one five-legged sheep, one three-legged chicken, one two-legged cat, two six-footed cats, one chicken with a human face, and one animal, half sheep and half goat. But these weird creatures aren't a bit funnier than the candidates for mayor put up by the Republicans and Democrats down there.

"TWENTY HOURS Is Day's Work of Premier Saito."—Headline. Ah, this changing world! Time was when we would have thought a man who worked twenty hours a day was the most abused man in the world. But not any more. Now we all envy Mr. Saito. Oh, how nice to have so much work to do. Enough work to keep him busy twenty hours every day! Oh, joy! And so many of us would be tickled to death to have five hours' work a day; or three, or even one. And that happy Jap has twenty; twenty hours of work every day! Oh, the lucky stiff!

A PRAYER.

I would be quiet, Lord;
Nor tease, nor fret;
Not one small need of mine
Wilt Thou forget.

THE MANSE.

CHARLEY CURTIS, the w. k. Vice President, refused to make a speech outdoors in Lansing, Mich., because, as he said, "the air is too damp; it will hurt my voice." And we'll bet at that moment all the long dead Indian ancestors of Charley, who used to give warwhoops that made the white settlers tremble twenty miles away, just turned over in their graves and reached for their tomahawks.

THIS is Navy day! Great Scott, have we still got a navy? R. H. L.

TANNING AND PIMPLES.

As the summer vanishes into the past and the winter looms on the horizon the tendency that many persons have to pimples will become worse. Pimples are infected grease glands. The skin is commonly charged with an ample supply of staphylococci, the microbes that infect the grease glands and cause pimples. So long as liquid grease is flowing out of the sebaceous glands and sweat is coming from these glands, the bacteria are washing away from the emptying ducts.

A pimple in a water gland is very rare, probably because of the freer flow from these structures. However, sometimes there will be an infection of a normally functioning gland of either kind. When the fats collect in the tubes of the grease glands the stage is set for infection. That foreign matter easily enters the mouths of these tubes is proved by the color of the outer end of the blackhead. Bacteria can penetrate farther than dirt can. Every sebaceous gland that is plugged by a blackhead is a potential pimple.

With which we are ready to talk about the effects of hot and cold weather on pimples.

When a person covers his eyes and lies in the broiling sun with his face and shoulders exposed, the temperature of his skin is raised, the fat in the sebaceous glands is made more liquid, many blackheads are dissolved, and the ducts of many glands are cleared out. This is one of the few good effects which come to persons over 16 years through tanning by exposure during midsummer. The tanning of the skin to a deep shade, so popular in some circles, coarsens the skin. A skin so exposed for a single season loses whatever chance it ever had to win a prize for peachblow complexion in a beauty contest. But, as something of an offset, it will be freer from blackheads and pimples, at least so long as the tan lasts.

There are beach fans, just as baseball and football have their sideline followers. These onlookers get to be very able fireside experts. Friends among the beach fans tell me that they rarely see pimples on the mahogany boys and girls and these players for the spectators are of just the pimple age, and the entire setting makes these blemishes easy to see.

This observation offers one suggestion for winter use. Those who have pimples should get some benefit if, during the winter, they will expose the skin of the face daily to radiant heat. If they have no open fires or infra red lamps as sources of heat they can use an ordinary electric lamp with some advantage, and exposure to steam is of service.

In contrast with summer the cold solidifies the fat in the mouths of the glands and tends to increase the dirt on the skin, and both processes make for pimples.

TEMPERANCE RED NOSE.

W. M. writes:

1. What is the reason for my red nose? I do not drink any alcoholic beverages.

2. What makes me dizzy when I smoke cigarets? I average about five a day.

REPLY:

1. Among the causes of red nose other than drinking alcoholic beverages are a skin disease called acne rosacea, constipation, indigestion, overeating, and eating too much horseradish, mustard, and other condiments.

2. Dizziness is one of the effects of tobacco. Most smokers acquire tolerance, whereupon this and other symptoms of tobacco intoxication no longer appear.

WEIGHT AT 15 YEARS.

J. L. G. Jr. writes: I am 15 years old. My father and his father are moderately tall, but my mother and her father are not medium. My bones are a little above average in size. It seems that I am given to slenderness. I may fill out later. Will you please print my correct weight?

REPLY:

You fail to give your height and that has more to do with weight than age, size of bones, or inheritance. As a rule, people who write asking about weight give their height and age but fail to give build, size of bones, and inheritance.

STIES ON CHILDREN.

Mrs. K. S. writes: My children as well as lots of others are forever having sties on the eyes. What causes them and what can a person do to prevent them?

REPLY:

Eyestrain is an important cause. The best single method of prevention is to have the children wear glasses that fit as to glasses and frames. Avoiding glare, eyestrain, and hard eye work is of great service.

Washing the eyelids and keeping the lid margins extra clean helps. So does pulling out loose eyelashes.

The medicine commonly used is local applications of yellow oxide of mercury.

DEPORTATION OF ALIENS.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If a man comes into this country illegally can he be deported after living here five years? If the man chooses to become a citizen will he be able to take out citizenship papers? 2. If an alien commits a crime in this country [after having legally entered] can he be deported for such crime? 3. If an alien has entered the country legally and lived here for the last twenty years without becoming a naturalized citizen, has he any more right to this country than the man who came here legally four years ago and has lived here since? C. M.

1. An alien who entered the United States unlawfully on or after July 1, 1924, is subject to deportation. Such alien is no longer protected by the five year limitation.

2. The immigration laws provide for the deportation of [a] an alien who was sentenced subsequent to May 1, 1917, to imprisonment for a year or more because of conviction in this country of a crime involving moral turpitude committed within five years after entry into the United States; or [b] an alien who was sentenced subsequent to May 1, 1917, to imprisonment more than once for a year or more because of conviction in this country of a crime involving moral turpitude committed at any time after entry.

3. The continued residence in the United States of aliens who have been lawfully admitted depends in large part upon their conduct subsequent to entry.

K. I. ZIMMERMAN,
Assistant District Director of Immigration.

UNPAID WAGES.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If a company goes into receivership, will the salary which this company owes to its employes be paid fully? 2. Will this matter be taken care of automatically, or is it necessary to employ an attorney? H. E. S.

1. Yes, if the assets are sufficient to pay such preferred claims in full.

2. The employes should file their preference claims with the receiver and discuss the matter with him. If their right to a preference or the amount of the claims is disputed then presumably it will be advisable to employ an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 27, 1916.

CHICAGO. — Theodore Roosevelt swept through Chicago yesterday, arousing the enthusiasm of the old days. He was greeted everywhere—in the streets and in the two halls where he spoke — by tremendous crowds. He preached the doctrine of "genuine manhood and womanhood" with all his old time fervor. He asked men and women of Illinois to vote for Charles E. Hughes for President of the United States. The colonel indorsed the federal amendment for woman suffrage and said the way for women to get the franchise was the Hughes way. At night, in the presence of the greatest audience ever assembled in the vicinity of the stockyards, he denounced President Wilson's handling of the railroad situation as a surrender to "terrorism" and a plain appeal "for votes." He did not attack pro-Germans any harder than pro-Englishmen, pro-Frenchmen, pro-Irishmen, or any other "hyphenates" who do not stand out today in the nation's crisis as 100 per cent Americans.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Secretary Baker issued a formal statement saying that definite information had been received by the war department that a bandit attack upon American troops in Mexico or on an American border town had been arranged to take place between now and election day to create sentiment against the administration's Mexican policy. The statement said Gens. Funston and Pershing were forewarned and in readiness for such an attack.

LONDON.—The victorious sweep of Mackensen's armies in Dobrudja has been checked, at least temporarily, official dispatches from Berlin, Sofia, Petrograd, and Bucharest indicate. Bucharest reports the capture by the Rumanians of Mount Kerekharas, south of Bicaz. In this region, some twenty-five miles southeast of the junction of the frontiers of Bukwina, Transylvania, and Rumania, the Rumanians apparently have again advanced several miles into Transylvanian territory.

BERLIN. — Russian battalions last evening made an advance without artillery preparation against the German positions to the west of Lutsk in Volhynia, says the German official statement. The storming Russian waves broke down under the German artillery fire.

PARIS.—The Germans made four successive violent attacks on the Verdun front against the Douaumont positions today, but all failed, according to the war office.

LONDON.—The British mine sweeping vessel Genista has been torpedoed and sunk, according to an announcement by the British admiralty. All the officers and seventy-three members of the mine sweeper's crew were lost. The survivors numbered twelve.

LONDON.—On Oct. 23 and 24 attacks in force by naval airplanes were carried out on the railway stations at Buk and Drama, both on the railroad from Constantinople to Saloniki. Considerable damage was done to rolling stock. One of the British planes failed to return from the attack at Buk.

CINCINNATI, O.—Dr. William A. Evans, health editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, was nominated today without opposition for president of the American Public Health association in convention here. Dr. John H. Landis of Cincinnati was chosen for first vice president; Dr. Manuel Seymour of Regina, Canada, and Dr. Manuel Iglesias of Vera Cruz, Mexico, for vice presidents; Dr. Lee K. Frankel of New York City, treasurer, and S. N. Gunn of Boston, secretary.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

GOV. ROOSEVELT AND THE SUPREME COURT.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—This morning's TRIBUNE carries a report of Gov. Roosevelt's speech at Baltimore last night. On page 10 of THE TRIBUNE it is quoted:

"The President contends that the danger to our credit structure was due primarily to the failure of the government to balance its budget. Right now let's see who is responsible for that failure. After March 4, 1929, the Republican party was in complete control of all branches of the government."

I have been told by several listeners to Roosevelt's address over the radio, confirmed by statements of representatives of the Associated and United Press associations in Washington, that after the statement which I have quoted from this morning's TRIBUNE the governor added, "And I might add, for good measure, the Supreme court as well."

I am amazed that any reputable member of the bar who, in order to obtain his license to practice, swears that he will uphold the constitution and laws of the land, should make that statement, which strikes at the very foundation of our government. All lawyers and every layman who has even a superficial knowledge of the facts knows that there never has been and never can be any politics in our Supreme court and that no political party could control the actions of the court. I submit that such a charge will be resented by every one who believes that the stability of our government depends upon maintaining the respect and regard of our people for the dignity of our Supreme court.

SILAS H. STRAWN.

FROM PRESIDENT HUTCHINS.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—In the news summary of this morning you say, "President Hutchins of the University of Chicago in a speech before the Rotary club proposes federal relief for private universities."

I made no such statement. I was discussing the possible need of federal aid for tax supported public education.

In the account of this speech on page 7 you quote me as saying that the private universities cannot hold out much longer.

I made no such statement. I said that the private universities could not hold out much longer in their effort to provide the economic leadership in education they had given in the past through setting a high standard of faculty salaries and research expenditures.

The account of the speech goes on to quote me as saying that the universities cannot carry the increased load of adult education on their present incomes.

I made no such statement. I was referring to the tax supported public agencies for adult education.

SHE HEARD AL SMITH.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—After listening attentively to Al Smith over the radio last night, I am wondering if he was for or against Gov. Roosevelt. What did he hope to gain by injecting religion into his political speech? Was the loud booing from the audience meant for him and his insolent remarks about the Methodists and other Protestant organizations, or was it the sort of a hoodlum crowd which would boo any man's religion, regardless of church or creed? Whatever his intentions may have been, I fail to see how he gained any votes for Gov. Roosevelt.

Might I suggest to the Democratic party that, unless they wish to see a Hoover landslide, they keep Alfred Smith away from the microphone until he has completely recovered from his disappointment of June, 1932. M. E. C.

HERE'S ANOTHER.

Wilmette, Ill., Oct. 25.—Al Smith gave an excellent vaudeville performance in Newark last night. Judging from the nature of the applause, it went over big. However, I cannot see why that fact was important enough to put him in the headline in this morning's TRIBUNE. According to him, any one who failed to vote for him four years ago was a bigot. He is still sore because he failed to be elected President, and if he had been the depression would have run its course just the same.

What has Mabel Willebrandt to do with the present political campaign? Better stick to live issues. I noticed that Smith never mentioned Roosevelt's name until one minute before the hour on the radio was up. If he is elected this entire country will be retarded one full year while he is making himself familiar with the duties of his office and making the mistakes every President is entitled to make.

Is there no way to make the public understand—I mean, the foreigners who are going to vote for Roosevelt—that Teddy is dead and that this man is some one else? ANXIOUS.

AND ANOTHER.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Doesn't Al Smith know that he is through politically? Isn't the Democratic party aware of it, either? After reading over Alfred Smith's address in wet New Jersey, I am stronger than ever for Hoover.

One gets so sick and tired listening to his everlasting booze and he always has to bring in about religious intolerance. Now his remarks about religious intolerance are quite out of order and he should remember that he is the one that started them and, like the boomerang, they come back to the one who sent them. AGNES A. JOHNSON.

JAPAN SEEKS TO GET RUSSIA INTO ROW WITH LEAGUE

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Oct. 26.—A semi-official dispatch from Tokio today said Yosuke Matsuoka, the special envoy Japan is sending to the league of nations council, intends to stop off at Moscow and discuss the possibility of soviet representation at the meeting of the council when the Lytton report on Manchuria is discussed next month.

This information has surprised many in view of Japan's opposition to the participation of an American in the council sessions last year.

If the soviet should agree to the plan, it is said, Japan would be able to inject into the debate on the Lytton plan a discussion on the relations of the soviet to the league, which would be unwelcome to some members of the league and possibly would be embarrassing to the United States.

See Trap for U. S.

There are several views of Japan's motives in raising this question. One is that she is trying to get an alliance with Moscow, to which she has been forced by her increasing difficulties in Manchuria. Russia is pictured as playing up to Japan along these lines with a view to improving her bargaining position with the United States and Britain.

Another view is that Japan seeks a way to permit her to retire from the league in a fashion under which she could justify her action. According to this theory, the Japanese might say that when the council showed a desire to intervene in the Gran Chaco dispute, the United States, far from sitting in at the council meeting when the Monroe doctrine was concerned, blocked the council.

Now, Japan may be able to tell the council, she sought to have Moscow sit in at a council meeting and that Moscow refused. If so, she might say that she was not morally bound by her obligations under the covenant since these two powerful nations refuse to accept such obligations even temporarily. Then she might announce that she was obliged to remove this handicap and resume her freedom by leaving the league until the United States and soviet Russia should join it.

Friendship with Russia Grows.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Oct. 26.—Relations between soviet Russia and Japan continue to improve and the prospects of an agreement between them grow brighter. It is also believed there is a connection between conversations now being carried on at Tokio between the soviet ambassador and the Japanese government and similar talks in Paris, with the Japanese attempting to line up a united front of France, the soviet and Japan for protection of their interests in the far east.

The improvement in soviet-Japanese relations has been brought about chiefly by the aid and shelter given by the soviet authorities in Manchuria to Japanese nationals of Manchoukuo and other points on the Chinese Eastern railway west of Tsitsihar when they were cut off by the rising of Chinese railway guards. Another factor is a recent statement by Premier Saito of Japan showing a more favorable attitude towards the negotiation of a non-aggression pact between Japan and the soviet.

The soviet government agreed today to the establishment in Moscow of a consulate for the new state of Manchukuo. Such consulates already exist at Vladivostok, Khabarovsk, and Blagovestchensk, in Siberia.

U. S. MISSIONARIES FLEE FROM RED ARMY IN CHINA

FOOCHOW, China, Oct. 26.—(AP)—American and British missionaries were fleeing toward this city today from a communist army driven into northwest Fukien province by Chinese Nationalist troops.

Missionaries of the Congregational church, with headquarters in Boston, and the northwest missionaries, with headquarters in New York, were reported among the American groups retreating before the outlaw advance.

While it was believed there was no danger in this vicinity, it was reported American destroyers now on their way from Shanghai to Manila may be called in here. Reports were also received that American Methodist property at Kenping was occupied by Fukien provincial troops in preparation for a battle with the communists.

WAR VETERAN KILLED.

Hoopeston, Ill., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The mangled body of a clean but poorly dressed man believed to be Arthur L. Price, 44, Portland, Ind., was found in the yards of the Nickle Plate railroad at Rankin, ten miles west of here, this morning. He had apparently been run over by a train. Papers on the body indicated the man was a world war veteran and had been stationed at Camp Grant.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Oct. 26.—The American state department, which ten years ago never deigned to answer a league of nations communication, now has asked for and obtained the league's permission to publish a cheap popular edition of one of the league documents.

This document is the Lytton report on Manchuria which the league sells under its own imprimetur for $2.50, but which it has consented to let the United States government reprint and sell for 50 cents.

The American edition does not contain maps. As a result of the American move the league has decided to publish also a cheap mapless and coverless edition in English, which it will sell for 40 or 50 cents.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, declared that in speaking of the possible need of federal aid on the part of universities, because those universities cannot carry the increased load of adult education on their present income, he was referring to tax supported public education, and not to private universities, as he was quoted in yesterday's TRIBUNE. He added his statement that "the private universities cannot hold out much longer" should have been qualified with "in their effort to provide the economic leadership in education they had given in the past through setting a high standard of faculty salaries and research expenditures." The address was delivered Tuesday noon before the Rotary club at the Hotel Sherman.

SCHNACKENBERG ISSUES PLEA FOR GATEWAY ACT

Shows How Constitution Blocks Progress.

Approval of the gateway amendment to the Illinois constitution was urged by Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, one of the sponsors of the measure, in a statement issued yesterday. The amendment, which will appear on the large ballot containing the names of national and state candidates, permits the submission of three amendments to the constitution instead of one at a session of the general assembly.

E. J. SCHNACKENBERG.

"Not only important and needful changes in our taxation system but also many other essential reforms in our governmental structure await approval by the voters on the gateway amendment," said Mr Schnackenberg.

Blocks Needed Changes.

"The constitution of 1870 now prohibits the general assembly from proposing amendments to more than one article of the constitution at the same session of the assembly. This has served effectively to prevent the submission of many meritorious changes in the constitution.

"At nearly every session of the legislature various proposals are suggested. Each has its backers. Each is worthy of support. Yet the rivalry between the different groups for submission of the various proposals usually results in the legislature failing to submit any of them.

"As the result, reforms in our archaic taxing system, our court system, our criminal law, and other important matters are delayed from session to session.

Tax System Out of Date.

"As to the taxing system in Illinois practically every one is agreed that the present constitutional restriction on the power of the legislature in the enactment of tax legislation should be wholly or partly lifted. Until that is done the inequalities and unfairness of our present taxing laws will continue.

"There is no organized opposition to the amendment. The real danger lies in the fact that it must receive a majority of all the votes cast for the members of the general assembly on Nov. 8. Therefore a failure to vote is equivalent to a vote against the amendment. Every voter who desires to improve the situation in Illinois should vote 'Yes' for the proposed amendment."

Hungry School Children Fund

There are 15,000 children who go to public school hungry every morning. A dime a day will furnish a substantial noonday meal for each of them.

A FEW DOLLARS WILL FEED PUPIL FOR SCHOOL YEAR

It's Good Investment in Public Welfare.

If you are looking for a sound investment, folks, try buying a bowl of nice thick vegetable stew and a glass of milk every day for a hungry child in one of the public schools.

All the capital you need is $10 for a small child, or $30 if you wish to invest in food for a pupil of junior high or high school age. That's the amount of money it will take to give them adequate lunches the rest of the school year.

A Paying Investment.

The benefits may not come back to you in dollars and cents. But if you are a good business man or woman you will consider your investment a paying one from the standpoint of public welfare.

It isn't very much to give—five to fifteen cents a day. So dig down in your pockets, folks, and make your investment in public school pupils, now. Send your money to THE TRIBUNE'S Hungry School Children's fund, and give a child a chance to make good at an education.

This fund was founded a year ago, and during the year 1931-'32, more than $48,000 was contributed, feeding 10,000 children daily in 209 public schools. The fund is distributed, without overhead expense, through Miss Frances L. Swain, head of the household arts department of the board of education, who confers with an advisory committee of club women.

Jack's Birthday Helps.

Among yesterday's contributions was $4.50 representing the gifts of 17 boys and girls who helped Jack Olsen of Glencoe celebrate his fifth birthday. Jack wanted to help the Hungry School Children's fund so much that he and his mother suggested that his birthday party guests bring gifts to the fund rather than presents for Jack. The day's contributions are as follows:

$5—Frank J. Loesch.

$4.50—Seventeen little boys and girls that helped Jack celebrate his fifth birthday.

"I used to say No to an extra cup... now I drink 5 cups a day of DATED coffee"

The DATE guarantees full fresh flavor

A very few people have a decided intolerance for coffee. But, happily, the "coffee tolerance" of most of us is fully 5 cups a day. And many can healthfully use more than 5 cups!

SCIENTIFIC AUTHORITY

Present scientific knowledge establishes the facts that the average man or woman has a coffee "tolerance" of fully 5 cups a day and that this amount of coffee for the average person is healthfully stimulating.

"Tolerance" means the ability of one's body to receive and utilize and enjoy without the slightest bad effect. But—that coffee must be fresh! The regular drinking of stale coffee has bad effects on the digestion.

We Americans love our coffee . . . But for years we have struggled against the desire to drink "too much."

Now scientists come to the rescue with great news!

The average man or woman has a "coffee tolerance" of 5 cups a day, they tell us. Just the amount a real coffee drinker wants!

But the coffee must be fresh.

Because it's the rancid oil in stale coffee that often interferes with digestion—is a frequent cause of headache and sleeplessness.

These are scientific facts. The facts that made Chase & Sanborn institute Dated Coffee.

Every pound of Chase & Sanborn's Dated Coffee has an expiration date plainly printed on it. Rushed by swift trucks from the roasting ovens to your grocer.

Not one can allowed to remain on his shelf after its date has expired.

Drink this glorious blend. If you want 5 cups a day—drink it! It's fresh.

CATHOLIC PRIEST TELLS OF LOSSES IN H. O. STONE CO.

Takes Witness Stand at Mail Fraud Trial.

The Rev. Father Joseph Abel, 72 years old, took the witness stand yesterday in the court of Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward and told of losing his life savings of $5,000 in the crash of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate investment concern. The Catholic priest was a government witness against Henry F. Norcott, president of the Stone company, and eight associates, on trial on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Father Abel gave his address as the Old People's home at Arvilla, Ind., near South Bend. He said he began dealing with H. O. Stone & Co. in 1929. He purchased one real estate bond of $500, the witness said, and $2,500 worth of bonds on the Lawsonia subdivision, a Stone promotion at Green Lake, Wis.

Identifies Circular.

Father Abel became indignant when shown an H. O. Stone circular to identify. Grasping a large umbrella, which he had carried to the witness stand, the witness launched into a speech.

"Yes," he said, "I received that. And I want to say that I was very much provoked at losing my last $2,000.

"They sent me a very tempting and alluring letter, fishing around to see if I had a bank account. I had one in South Bend. So I sent them my bank book, I was fool enough to do that, and got $2,000 more in bonds. After that they made one interest payment in May, 1930. In my opinion, they knew all the time——"

His statement was halted by objections from the defense attorneys and the priest was excused from the witness stand. Mrs. Mary Swanson of St. Charles, Ill., then took the stand. Under questioning by Thomas Dodd Healy, the government prosecutor, she testified that she, her father, and mother lost $22,000 in the purchase of Stone stock.

Tells of Salesman's Offer.

She was first approached, the witness said, in May, 1930, by Joseph D. Kronin, a salesman for the firm.

"The salesman told me," Mrs. Swanson said, "that the Stone stock would jump from 15 to 22 in a short time. I said that we were trying to save money to buy a home. Kronin told me to buy the stock at 15 and he would sell it for me at 20 and then we would have more money for our home. He said that the Stone company was a $20,000,000 concern and could liquidate at $33.50 for every share of stock."

She questioned the salesman, the witness said, about rumors that the company was not in good financial condition and Kronin indignantly denied that they were true.

During her dealings with the company Mrs. Swanson said that she received a letter from David A. Coleman, a defendant and president of the Stone Finance company, a subsidiary of the company. Kronin called later when the stock had fallen in value, the witness said.

Salesman Calls Again.

"You'll get your money if I have to choke Coleman for you," Mrs. Swanson quoted the salesman as saying. He returned later with a document which she signed at his urging, Mrs. Swanson said. The document, introduced in evidence, was a statement releasing Kronin from the possibility of prosecution for fraud.

A. J. Nagel of Plymouth, Ind., a salesman for the Stone company, testified at the morning session that he sold betwen $20,000 and $30,000 of the Lawsonia bonds to sisters in the Holy Cross convent at Dubuque, Ia. The witness, who said that two of his sisters were in a convent, also testified that he had sold thousands of dollars in Stone stocks to nuns.

DEBT TALK DELAY FOR U. S. ELECTION PLEASES HERRIOT

PARIS, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Premier Edouard Herriot expressed satisfaction today that the chamber of deputies had seen fit to postpone discussion of the French debts to the United States. This leaves the government free, he said, to undertake negotiations with America after the presidential election next month.

It was reported today that Henry Franklin-Bouillon and Louis Marin would try to get the premier to promise that when the chamber resumes tomorrow he will make a statement on debts and disarmament before Nov. 3, but it was thought likely the government would insist on continuing debate on farm relief until Friday's adjournment.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

Saves $2. So Easy! No Cooking!

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive relief. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, clears the air passages, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in severe coughs.

QUERIES FRANCE ABOUT $70,000,000 PROFIT ON A. E. F.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 26.—French discussions of the approaching war debt payment to the United States were further complicated today by a statement which Stephane Lauzanne, prominent French writer, cabled to the newspaper Le Matin from New York. The statement said Americans were convinced that France had made $70,000,000 profit in disposing of the war stocks bought from the American expeditionary forces.

Premier Herriot recently raised the question of dividing the French debt to America into two parts, making a distinction between the "commercial debt," resulting from the war stocks purchased, and what the French regard as a "political debt"—that is, the war loans from the United States to France.

Lauzanne Sees Distinction.

Henry Berenger, who, with Andrew W. Mellon, concluded the 1926 war debt agreement, has stated definitely that the war stocks and the political debt were definitely merged by the Washington agreement, but Lauzanne's article contends that a distinction needs to be drawn.

"The war stocks were bought by the Clemenceau government for $410,000,000," he said. "This was not a loan for carrying on the war, but represented an immense mass of material bought after the peace was concluded and comprising automobiles, beds, canned foods, soap and even razor blades.

"This material was bought by the French government and resold to private individuals for approximately $270,000,000.

A Question of Profit.

Since up to the moratorium we have paid the United States only about $200,000,000 in round figures, the United States is saying to us:

"'You have not only paid nothing on your political debt, but you have paid only half of what you owe us on your commercial debt. If you are going now to cease all payments you stand actually to make a profit on the goods you purchased from us equivalent to 70 million dollars. Don't you agree in all justice that you owe us 70 million dollars, and in reality 210 million dollars, for certainly the person who sells merchandise cannot be held responsible if the purchaser thinks fit to dispose of it at a cheaper price than he bought it?'

"It is up to the French parliament and French public opinion to reply to this delicate question."

STUDENTS MARCH ON COURT; 16 ARE ARRESTED

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—After four leaders of a demonstration staged tonight at City college for the reinstatement of Dr. Oakley Johnson, English instructor, who, it is alleged, was not reappointed this year because of his communist activities, had been arrested and taken to night court for arraignment, 500 student sympathizers marched on the court and started a new demonstration.

Policemen dispersed them once, but they crossed the street, reformed on the other side, and marched up and down shouting for the release of their comrades. An appeal was made to Magistrate August Dreyer, who was holding court. In compliance with his instruction reserves were called, the student mob dispersed, and 16 who resisted were arrested.

TELLS OF SCENE AS NELSON BARED BANK SHORTAGE

Edward Kvidera, a former director of the defunct Millard State bank, 3645 West 26th street, took the witness stand yesterday in Judge Philip L. Sullivan's court and told of the blunt manner in which State Auditor Oscar Nelson informed the directors of a shortage. He was testifying as a state's witness against Rudolph A. Cepak, former president, and John Havlicek, former cashier.

"The directors were summoned to Mr. Nelson's office," said Kvidera. "We did not know the purpose of the summons. When we had gathered Mr. Nelson walked into the office and pointing at Cepak said:

"'Say, do you fellows know that the big boy is over $70,000 short?'"

Kvidera testified that the directors were stunned by the news and that they went back to the bank and tried to protect the depositors, but were unable to make up the Cepak overdraft.

WORK IS PUSHED ON NORTH SIDE'S OUTERBOULEVARD

Open Bids for Lawrence Grade Separation.

BY HAL FOUST.

The state highway department opened bids in Springfield yesterday for the construction of a grade separation at Lawrence avenue and the outer drive. The apparent low bidder was the Warner Construction company at $74,342.

Work on the outer drive extension from Montrose avenue to Foster avenue will be carried on all winter so that it will be ready to serve traffic when the world's fair opens next year. The contract has been awarded for the paving on the extension and work is under way on a grade separation at Wilson avenue. Otto Weege, superintendent of Lincoln park, said that all will be ready for laying pavement as soon as weather permits in the spring.

Bid on Roosevelt Road Job.

Bids were also received for the widening and realignment of Roosevelt road in the narrow and croked five miles west of Winfield, in Du Page county. The apparent low bid was $275,046 submitted by the Geneva Construction company. Bids were also received for finishing the approaches and ramps of the grade separation at Roosevelt road and Illinois route 53 at Glen Ellyn. The apparent low bid was $38,279 by J. F. Gallagher of Chicago.

Two contracts were let for work on the $1,000,000 Mannheim road span across the Des Plaines river valley. The apparent low bidder for the superstructure of the bridge over the sanitary canal was the American Bridge company at $113,809 while the apparent low bidder for the substructure was the Underground Construction company at $93,693.

Low Bids on Two Other Jobs.

Other Chicagoland highway jobs, with the apparent low bids, include the following: grade separation at Ogden avenue and Illinois 54 at Hinsdale, $92,851, E. H. Oltendorf of Palatine; 4.16 miles of paving on Illinois route 59 from Higgins road to Lake street, $165,545, Charles E. Giertz of Elgin.

The Illinois commerce commission authorized the construction of a subway for the Lake street highway under the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad at Ontarioville. The existing grade crossing is on rough pavement at a sharp turn.

Burglars Break in Home; Loot Is Valued at $1,500

Burglars yesterday entered the home of William Kruckstein, 2230 North Sawyer avenue, by breaking in the front door and carried out clothing, jewelry and other property valued at $1,500. Mr. Kruckstein is ticket auditor for the Milwaukee railroad.

BRAUN DEMANDS VON PAPEN LIMIT DUTIES IN PRUSSIA

Premier Asks Control of Administration.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—Given a new lease on life as premier of the state of Prussia by the decision of the Supreme court yesterday Otto Braun today offered to coöperate with the federal government, which ousted him and other Prussian officials from office last July.

The Supreme court yesterday upheld President von Hindenburg's action in setting up a federal commissioner over Prussia, but ruled that the Prussian officials elected by the state could not legally be deposed from office.

Hopes to Avoid Confusion.

Premier Braun explained that his offer of asoistance is meant to alleviate the confusion which conceivably would result from the functioning of two overlapping governments of Prussia, one headed by Chancellor von Papen as federal commissioner and the other headed by himself as the constitutionally chosen premier.

The premier expressed his pleasure at the court's decision, asserting it would once more inspire respect for the constitution and the law in Germany. He also pointed out that the court's ruling cleared him and his colleagues of charges that they had neglected their duties.

In announcing his readiness to cooperate with the chancellor, Braun said he believed the federal authority should be limited to the preservation of law and order, leaving all administrative duties to the cabinet.

Wants New Cabinet.

"I don't see, for instance, why the minister of agriculture should be deprived of his administration of state vineyards because law and order are endangered," he said.

Braun expressed the hope that the Prussian diet, in which the National Socialists now have a majority, would meet soon to elect new cabinet officials.

Chancellor von Papen seemed inclined to budge not one inch more than necessary today in sharing his rule of Prussia with Braun. A government spokesman said that he would retrace his steps in but one direction. This would be to nullify his appointment of federal representives in the reichsrath or federal council. Under the Supreme court's ruling this right is still that of the state.

Nazis Stone Bruening.

BAMBERG, Bavaria, Germany, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening met a hostile reception when he came here today in connection with the campaign for the reichstag elections on Nov. 6. Crowds of political opponents, most of them Adolf Hitler's National Socialist followers, drowned out his speech with catcalls. Police forcibly cleared the streets. Dr. Bruening's automobile was pelted with stones, one of which smashed a window. He was unhurt, but three policemen were injured.

FREED IN GAMBLING CASE.

Joseph Mueller, 38 years old, who was charged with keeping a gambling house at 155 East Grand avenue, was freed yesterday by Judge Harold P. O'Connell on the defense argument that raiding policemen had no search warrant.

MOVE TO REINSTATE CANNON CHARGES ON '28 CAMPAIGN FUND

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Action will be taken in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals next Monday to reinstate the indictment of Bishop James Cannon which was dismissed last February by Justice James W. Proctor of the District Supreme court, according to a statement today by District Attorney Leo A. Rover.

The indictment charging Bishop Cannon and his former secretary, Miss Ada L. Burroughs, with violation of the federal corrupt practices act in the handling of 1928 anti-Smith campaign funds was thrown out by Justice Proctor on the ground that it did not charge the Virginia clergyman and his secretary with having knowledge of the disputed contributions.

In the ordinary routine of court action, it was said, a decision on the appeal for reinstatement of the indictment may be made within a month. Regardless of the nature of the decision, the losing side is expected to carry the action on with an appeal to the United States Supreme court.

STATE ASKS NEW BIDS ON OTTAWA, JOLIET BRIDGES

The state department of purchases and construction yesterday called for new bids at Springfield on the superstructure of the McDonough street bridge in Joliet, one of the construction projects which is holding up completion of the Illinois waterway.

The bids will be received Nov. 4, as will a new set of bids on the superstructure of the Hilliard bridge at Ottawa, Ill. A previous set of bids for the two projects was rejected.

Henry H. Kohn, director, said that under the new proposals the bidders will be required to state the wages they propose to pay skilled and common labor and to indicate to what extent Illinois labor will be used.

The waterway project involves the construction by the state of five modern bascule bridges in Joliet. Two of these are nearing completion. Joliet citizens delayed some of the others by injunction proceedings, asserting that to demolish all of the old bridges at once would create a serious fire hazard, due to inability of fire apparatus to cross the river.

Yet... *This Evening Finds Him Clear-Headed and Bright-Eyed...No Headache...No Head Dullness

"DON'T overindulge—don't eat too much, smoke too much, drink unwisely" is the Law of Good Health.

If you don't follow that law—Phillips' Milk of Magnesia; scientists say; is the QUICKEST, SIMPLEST AND EASIEST way to correct its effects. All you do is this:

"TAKE—2 tablespoons in a glass of water before bed."

"TAKE—2 tablespoons in a glass of water with the juice of a WHOLE ORANGE when you get up."

Or take six Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablets the same way, which give an equivalent amount of Milk of Magnesia, for each Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablet equals one teaspoonful of the liquid Milk of Magnesia.

What It Does

This small dosage of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia acts to alkalize the system. And an alkalized system is largely impervious to the bad after-effects of excessive smoking—excessive eating, drinking.

It sweetens and purifies your stomach. Banishes the acid headache, sour stomach, deadly depression that mark the price of immoderations.

Results are quick and almost invariable. Your head clears, your stomach settles—you feel like a new person.

Every person who smokes should know this. And take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia EVERY NIGHT before bed. Every person who overindulges in food or drink should know it. And keep a bottle of "Phillips'" in his medicine chest.

Try it—just once. You will be amazed at what it does.

When you buy, be sure to get the REAL article—Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Always ask for it by the name Phillips—for all "milk of magnesia" is not alike in effect. So take care to see you get Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—the kind doctors endorse—judged the most powerful neutralizer of stomach acids known.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Literary Folk Have a Party at Charleston

Southern Writers Hosts at Charming Affair.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

NOT so long ago there was a furor in literary circles over the fact that H. L. Mencken had stated without reservations that Chicago was the literary capital of the United States. Almost as soon as the phrase had become a controversial one, the fact was altered by the disintegration of the group which gave Mr. Mencken the reason for designating it so flatteringly. For some years now the literary capital of the United States has been in some imaginary spot in the southeastern portion of the republic. Last year it was for a brief time in Charlottesville, Va., and last week it was in Charleston, S. C.

There is no questioning the fact that the largest percentage of the interesting novels of today are coming from southern pens, that much of the biography of note also has its roots in the soil of the south, that at least one of the greatest American historians is a southerner, although he lives in Chicago, that two of the most successful dramatists of the last ten years were born in the south and are actively southerners. The literary capital of the United States is at whatever point those brilliant writers are gathered together.

Last year the University of Virginia invited the writers of the south to an informal conference in Charlottesville. They met, many of them knew each other for the first time outside the pages of their books, and they enjoyed the contact so thoroughly that they decided to have an annual house party. This year the house party was held in Charleston, and last Friday and Saturday, right there in the glowing sunshine of the most charming small city of the United States, were to be found more outstanding literary personages per square foot, either in person or in the spirit, with regrets that geography or illness kept them away, than in any other spot in the United States.

Through my Virginia ancestors I was made to feel a part of the group, and although my r's rolled a bit and my g's all sounded, and I had a definitely unsouthern lack of irresistible charm, we were all southern and congenial together.

The house party was under the aegis of a committee of seven, Du Bose Heyward, author of "Porgy" and of "Peter Ashley," just published, a lovely costume romance of Charleston in the days immediately preceding the outbreak of the civil war—which I will review on Saturday; Ellen Glasgow, whose latest in a long line of successful novels is "The Sheltered Life"; James Branch Cabell, who will always be known, despite many finer and more recent books, as the author of "Jurgen"; Paul Green, the bright boy of Chapel Hill who startled Broadway with "In Abraham's Bosom" and "The House of Connolly"; Thomas Wolfe, whose "Look Homeward Angel" has left some Ashevillians gasping and the world admiring; Archibald Henderon who is, among other literary distinctions, the greatest authority on Bernard Shaw—aside from Mr. Shaw himself, and Stark Young, who is a great authority on the theater and on esthetics in general. By the chances of geography, illness, success in the movies and the urgencies of publishers waiting with their tongues hanging out for copy, none of the committee but Du Bose Heyward managed actually to get to Charleston [although most of them made Charlottesville last year].

But their places were taken by Mary Johnston, who will always be loved for "To Have and To Hold"; Struthers Burt, whose "Festival" was a fine novel among his many fine ones, and Katherine Newlin Burt [his wife] who so startled every one with "The Branding Iron" some years ago; the Chapmans, Stanton and Mary, who are known to the world as "Maristan Chapman," and who became overnight a household name with "The Happy Mountain"; Laurence Stallings, whose "Plumes" became the basis for one of the greatest of all moving pictures, "The Big Parade," and who was co-author of "What Price Glory," was there with the aura of a tremendous success in Hollywood about him. Dr. William E. Dodd, historical genius of the University of Chicago, gave me a middle westerner to tie to, although Dorothy Heyward, who wrote a delightful mystery yarn lately, "The Pulitzer Prize Murders" [although she is a much more serious novelist usually], was also from the great open spaces [of Ohio] before she married Du Bose.

I did most of my tying, however, to Julia Peterkin, whose "Scarlet Sister Mary" was a prize winner, but whose "Bright Skin" and "Black April" are both thrilling and understanding pictures of the real Negro. We went to Charleston together after I had visited her on her baronial plantation, Lang Syne, where life is like something you read about in the days of the old planters.

No organizing, no "purposes," no discussion of what is wrong with life and literature or how it could be bettered marred two gay, happy days of charming companionship.

An Active Leader

[Paul Stone-Raymor Photo.]

Presides Tonight

Mrs. William L. Hodgkins finds time to take part in all sorts of social and charitable enterprises. As president of the Young Women's Christian association she will preside at the 56th annual meeting at 7 o'clock this evening.

She also is on the committee in charge of a dinner dance to be given for the benefit of the Cradle on Nov. 7 at the Drake hotel. And on Tuesday she had the difficult task of "bossing" the dressing rooms with Mrs. Charles I. Pierce and Mrs. George N. Northrop at the St. Luke's fashion show at the Stevens hotel.

Mars Record of 50 Years at Y. W. Meetings

For the first time in fifty years Miss M. Elizabeth True will be absent tonight from the annual meeting of the Young Women's Christian association of Chicago, to be held in the Harriet Hammond McCormick Y. W. C. A. building at 1001 North Dearborn street.

MISS TRUE.

Miss True, in spite of her 88 years, is treasurer of the Chicago association, a post she has held for forty-eight years. In earlier days she was accustomed to make the rounds of the Y. W. C. A. buildings, to collect the rents and carry the money to banks. Her duties are not so arduous now, but she signs all checks for the organization.

Her absence from the meeting tonight is due solely to the fact that she is visiting a sister in Springfield.

Auditorium Mural Is Being Retouched by Original Artist

Forty years after he designed and painted the mural over the proscenium of the Auditorium theater Charles Hollaway was busy yesterday on a scaffold beneath the lofty ceiling of the old theater, retouching and brightening his original design.

The theater building, designed by Louis Sullivan, was one of Chicago's most famous buildings at the time of the World's Fair. It was five years in the building, and it was in 1892, Mr. Hollaway said, that he submitted a design for the mural and was awarded the contract of painting it.

Long the scene of Chicago's brilliant grand opera performances the Auditorium was closed shortly after the completion of the Chicago Civic Opera building. Now it is being renovated, and Mr. Hollaway, hearing of this, applied to Holabird and Root, the architects, for the job of retouching his old work.

Despite his 73 years, the artist was unworried by his perch on the lofty platform from which he works. He has never stopped his mural painting, he explained. In World's Fair times he did murals in the Potter Palmer castle on Lake Shore drive and later in the Washington home of Joseph Leiter. The St. Louis exposition of 1904 saw some of his work. He traveled in Europe for a time, then returned to Chicago after the world war.

More recently he has lived in California, where he did murals in the state capitol at Sacramento. Executions of murals in theaters, libraries, and other public buildings about the country keep him busy, he said. At present he lives at 818 Drexel square.

Art Exhibit of First Rank Opens Today

Prizes to Be Announced in American Show.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The forty-fifth annual exhibition of American Paintings and Sculpture opens this afternoon with a formal reception in the east wing galleries of the Art institute. Various art organizations and women's clubs will be in charge of the different rooms when the prize awards will be announced. This is the yearly leading feature of the museum's exhibit program.

The money prizes in the American show amount to more than in any of the other exhibitions. A first prize of $1,500 and a second of $1,000 are events of portent.

Meanwhile no matter where the good luck falls, the exhibition is extremely amusing and interesting. The jury was composed of four museum directors and they did a fair job, showing discrimination to none but being favorably disposed toward all manners, mannerisms, techniques, and schools.

If you shout with laughter over the red riot which is Francis Chapin's impression of a fast moment in a polo game, you will breathe a deep sigh of intense appreciation before the gorgeous "Somes Sound" by Jonas Lie.

If laughter again overcomes you in facing "Night Windows" by Edward Hopper [one of the cleverest episodes in the show], it is healthy laughter and turns quickly into a smiling acceptance of the brilliancy of execution found in Bernard Lintott's "Reminiscences," a clown sniffing a bouquet of—is it mignonette?

Nicolai Fechin shows a splendid study of a termagant, a Mexican woman with a fiery, brooding eye, "The Corn Dancer." Grant Wood is clean cut and cunningly frigid again in "Arbor Day," a picture of an Iowa landscape centered about the activities of a shining schoolhouse. Pougialis has some fine modeling in his figures of two women carrying water jars. "Betty" is an unusual Costigan, but an enchanting portrait. "Siesta," by J. Murry Wickard, is one of the most charming little paintings in the exhibit, lovely in color, composition and manner.

"Bear Cub" by Heinz Warneke is a delightful reminder of "Pooh Bear," in marble. The sculpture division is small but includes several beautiful figures and groups which do something to make up for its size.

The exhibition is well worth seeing. It will continue to Jan. 2.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we make in our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

If you are really interested in giving your house good, substantial fire protection, covering the whole basement ceiling with approved metal lath and plaster is an excellent thing to do. Statistics tell us that by far the greatest number of domestic fires start in the basement and metal lath and plaster will definitely retard the spread of any fire originating in the cellar. It may even stop it altogether. A local plasterer will quote the cost of this work to you. Approved plaster boards and hard wall boards are also used for fire protection. Carpenters can install these boards.

New Materials a Temptation to Sew Your Own

Shops Display Goods for Beautiful Gowns.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

FOUND . . . yards of exciting new materials for the gal who sews her own. Nice new supple satins that will fashion super-slinky evening gowns as well as slim fitting afternoon dresses that will be the pets of the best wardrobes.

Most of these satins are two faced affairs, with a dull shine on one side and a very dull crêpe on the other. These materials are used for gown and trimmings as, for instance, the shining satin side is used for intricately cut triangular and circular godets and bands as a contrast for the crêpe side.

Some very distinctive stuff by the yard is crinkled in long furrows; evidently the designers were struck with the resemblance at once, for they christened it "furrow satin" and "crêpe." These well wrinkled furrows run perpendicularly and are guaranteed to stay in the original formation even after hours of wear or a sliding session under a hot iron.

The dull crêpe is a knockout. . . . It has all the swanky mystery of any good black material, plus a lot of individuality that some other fabrics never seem to have. If you like shirrings and shirred effects they will show you this same furrowed satin or crêpe with a small block or spaced pattern that looks exactly like careful and exact shirrings. If these materials won't make your fingers tingle to sew a flock of fine seams, then nothing ever will.

Should a grand mood assail you, and you want materials for gowns of splendor and brilliant magnificence, look for all the new crackling metallic satins and novelty cloth . . . you will see gorgeous yards of thick, crusty looking gold and silver materials that are as soft as satin to the touch . . . you will see foot after foot of shimmering metal fabrics, with lovely tones of peachblow and dusky blues and mauves clouding their surfaces. And the new patterns will make you gasp . . . all the deep crinkles and crackles that look like the crackleware china with a patina of age mellowed into the background.

There are some divine shades of blue that have just arrived that will take the blue enthusiasts by storm . . . lovely shades of hyacinth blue in crêpe and satin . . . the blue that has a suggestion of lavender rose in the shadow of the folds . . . deeper shades with a tiny blush of pink look like the blue hydrangea blooms in a florist window at Easter time. . . . These blue tones are the newest shades that were sponsored in all the late Paris showings and should be very successful after the cloudy days when brown and black and blue filled the fashion horizon.

Mat velvets are plentiful. Gorgeous shades of this smart sheenless fabric are most distinctive for colorful evening and dancing dresses . . . there is a particularly luscious shade of red that could effectively stop traffic any hour of the day or evening.

Dull mat velvets in black and the new berry shades are as sumptuous as the complicated decorative costumes of bygone Venetian court scenes and twice as easy to make and drape.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright 1932 By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

THE BODY IN THE GARAGE.

"I don't believe he was killed here," said Fordney as he completed his examination of the body lying face up on the garage floor.

"Apparently a well-to-do chap and certainly particular in his appearance," he remarked, noting the quality of the sheer silk undershirt, blood-stained and slit where he had been stabbed, the carefully manicured nails, fine custom tailored clothing and general air of meticulous grooming.

"How long has he been dead, doctor?"

"About four hours."

"Look, professor! his nose is broken but his glasses aren't even cracked!"

"Yes, I noticed that, sergeant; also that a ring has apparently been removed from his hand. See how white the skin on his fourth finger is?"

Taking a cuff link from the man's immaculate stiff bosom shirt, Sergt. Reynolds compared it with a cracked emerald stud he picked up near the body.

"It's his all right," he exclaimed. "Judging from these, I'd say that ring he wore was valuable."

"It looks as if his murderers were trying to throw suspicion on Curtis by bringing him to his garage," mused Fordney, "though I don't understand why they locked the door and left by the window. They must have known the body would soon be discovered."

"Not a thing in the pockets; even the labels have been taken out of his clothes," broke in Reynolds.

"Nevertheless the killers must have been in a hurry. Otherwise they would hardly have been so stupid," replied the professor.

"Right you are. I wonder where the—bumped him off."

Girl Wants to Wed Widower with Children

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What do you think of 18 marrying a widower of 29 with two children?

Does it not seem like a large order for an 18 year old girl?

The girls' parents are fighting fiercely against the match, as what girl's parents would want to see their 18 year old step into an older woman's rightful job?

Stepmothering is a difficult enough rôle for the woman of mature judgment and sympathy. One wonders how a man could have the nerve to ask so young a girl to take up the onerous duties. What real interest has he in his children's welfare, one reason, to entrust them to one who is little more than a school girl? And by what right does he ask the sacrifice of those 'teen years that should be carefree and fun loving, or at any rate, not bowed down with the responsibilities of a much older person. Under some circumstances an eleven years difference of age does not matter, but in this instance we feel it matters a great deal.

Yet, in this instance we feel it matters a great deal.

Yet, the disconcerting thing about an outsider's views on marriages of the sort is that "you never can tell." Were the young girl old beyond her years; did she have an inordinate love of children and did she feel their father worth whatever sacrifice the marriage entails, interference would not be just. Too, the very young mother companionship might work out beneficially for the children. Young mothers are less fussy. Their nerves are better poised. The small misdemeanors do not annoy them. All of which works out advantageously to the children.

There are women who could not make good stepmothers no matter how hard they tried. On the other hand, there are women whose maternal complex is such that a child not their own shares as fully their love as a natural born child.

In approaching a stepmothering job, then, these are the things to be pondered. Even so, no matter how well qualified, it is still one of the hardest jobs a woman can wish on herself.

Friends of Opera Plan Concert as Memorial to Edith McCormick

Three Noted Artists Will Appear; Organization Pays Tribute to Memory of Honorary Chairman.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT seems particularly fitting that the Friends of Opera, with whom the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick had worked in such sympathetic cooperation since the organization started, should be the ones to plan a memorial for her, and it seems especially fitting that the memorial should take the form of a cert, for music was the chief art to which Mrs. McCormick gave her interest and patronage.

And it was one of her closest friends, Mrs. Francis Johnson, who proposed the idea at a meeting yesterday of the executive committee of the Friends of Opera, of which Mrs. McCormick was the honorary chairman.

The committee unanimously accepted the idea and already plans for the concert are under way, but the date and the names of the artists cannot be announced yet. The date will have to be set for a time when the three great artists whom Mrs. Johnson has asked to sing and who replied that they would be honored to take part in a concert in memory of such a great patroness of the arts can be in Chicago, and the names of the artists must be withheld until their managers' consent has been given, too. But it will be one of the outstanding musical and social affairs of the winter.

Yesterday's reunion of the women who had worked together so long and so valiantly for grand opera in Chicago was a sad occasion, for the meeting had been called to adopt resolutions, read by Mrs. Waller Borden, expressing the grief and sympathy of the organization at the loss of Mrs. McCormick, the resolutions to be sent to her family.

Mrs. Arthur Meeker, chairman, presided, and Mrs. William J. Chalmers and Mrs. C. K. Corsant made short and informal talks, crystallizing in words the feeling that each and every member of the committee felt about the honorary chairman, for whether they knew her intimately or casually, all who worked with Mrs. McCormick felt close to her through the bond of their common love and support of opera.

There wasn't a dry eye in the assemblage of thirty-two women at the end of the meeting, which was held after a luncheon at the Fortnightly. Some of the others present were Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, Mrs. Erich Gerstenberg, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Edward Hines, Mrs. Clair E. More, Mrs. Franklin M. Miller, Miss Marie Rozet, Mrs. William A. Yager, Miss Helen Gilbert, Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, and Mrs. Samuel Weis.

Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell have planned a dance for their debutante daughter, Frances, and their two debutante nieces, Lucy Fairbank and Jane Boyce, on Thursday, Dec. 22, at the Casino. This makes two parties for the debutante set on that night for the Louis K. Boysens are giving a dinner dance at the "900" that night to introduce their daughter, Bobette.

Miss Bell and Miss Fairbank made their debuts at a garden tea at the Bells' residence in Winnetka early in the autumn and Miss Boyce is to make hers at a party to be given by her mother, Mrs. Livingston Fairbank, a bit later in the season.

Tonight's audience at the symphony concert in Orchestra hall, and tomorrow afternoon's, too, will be unusually large and fashionable for John Alden Carpenter is to be the soloist when his

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Miss Bundy is in poor health and acting peculiarly. She had hired a photographer, named Tilbury, as bailiff, and he and his wife, an ill-bred pair, hold a strange influence over her. Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half Russian niece, acts as her aunt's secretary. She detests the Tilburys. Caroline tells Neil that her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Caroline and the Tilburys hold nightly seances in the library. Giles Gisborne, vicar of a nearby parish, and his sister, Rachel, are friends of Neil's. Neil is attracted to Natasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior. She is giving money to a man she meets secretly. Caroline promises to visit Emily Braselton, an old friend, in Paris. Natasha drives her to London. Natasha returns a few days later and tells Neil that her aunt gave her a pearl necklace, which she sold. She receives a wire which Caroline sent from London, asking her to look for an alligator bag left in the car. The bag is not found. Caroline doesn't reach Paris. The police are notified. Her body is found in a ditch near her estate. She'd been brutally murdered. The Tilburys are left Caroline's fortune on condition they search for the Holy Grail in the ruin of an ancient abbey on the estate, which Caroline believed to be her father's wish. Natasha is arrested. It is learned that the man she'd been meeting secretly was her wastrel brother, Michael, who has fled the country. Natasha is brought to trial.

INSTALLMENT XL.

DEATH ENDS A SEARCH.

During the examination which followed, Neil uncomfortably speculated on the hours preceding Michael's arrival at the hotel. Was it true he and his sister had not been in each other's company till one o'clock, and if so, how to prove it? Challenge's shrewd questions showed a determination to suggest connivance between the two Andreyevs—an idea impossible to uproot once it was planted in the jurors' dull brains. That Natasha and Michael had made a plan was self-evident, and from this belief to the other sinister one was but a single step.

His wrath fell upon the craven who at the first peal of thunder had taken himself out of reach. Incredible that any one calling himself a man should leave his sister in the lurch like this, unless—paralyzing alternative!—he could not improve matters by coming forward. The true facts defied pursuit, and meanwhile, guilty or misjudged, these two were bound together so firmly that no ingenuity could sunder them. Bound together by a steel cable of circumstances—and yet, grotesque fatality, the girl had to suffer.

Neil's eyes followed Natasha as, moving like an automaton, she disappeared under escort.

Suddenly he told himself that without Michael this whole business was a tragic farce. Michael must be dragged back. If the verdict went wrong, as it well might do, he himself would obtain an appeal and search diligently for the miscreant. What was a man to utterly vanish, in an age when papers were scrutinized at every frontier, in spite of every aid furnished by those twin searchlights, the press and the radio? Absurd, unthinkable! There was, of course, that peculiar feature which Grew had spoken about. He did not know whether to believe it or not, but at the moment instinct cried out brutally that whatever the case the brother must be made to shoulder his part of the burden.

Emily Braselton mounted to the stand. Her important presence commanded awe: she was as composed as though addressing her eight hundred girl students at Bellingham. Except that her eyes occasionally flashed, she betrayed no emotion.

She told how last autumn Miss Bundy had shown her a letter from the nephew in Paris. The third of its kind, it embodied an urgent appeal for money, and was couched in reproachful phrases because its predecessor had been ignored. The recipient by her own account had answered the first request with a check for fifty pounds, but was determined not to accede to further demands. She had heard tales of Michael's extravagance and unreliability. There was bad blood in him, she said, from his father's side.

Counsel: Kindly tell us how you first came to hear of Andreyev's present situation. Witness: To begin with, I had reason to believe he was in this country. A Frenchwoman of my acquaintance, living now in Bath, informed me she had seen him driving about the neighborhood with his sister, but thinking she might be mistaken and having no wish to worry Miss Bundy, I kept the matter to myself. However, directly news of the murder reached me in Paris, I set out to make certain inquiries into the antecedents of both Michael and Natasha Andreyev. I found that the girl, previous to her appearance in England, had been dismissed from two positions, and that her brother had recently left the city under suspicious circumstances. Limited time forbade my obtaining complete details, but I heard enough to convince me Michael was in hiding from the police.

Questioned as to the relations between aunt and niece, Miss Braselton affirmed continual friction kept under cover from the outside world. The Russian girl was secretive, jealous, and predatory. Perhaps because she saw certain cherished hopes of inheritance daily dwindling, she had become increasingly restless and resentful of authority. When a new bailiff was installed she displayed a sullen temper, although she herself was singularly unfitted to carry on the duties she had temporarily assumed.

Here the judge interposed. The witness must confine herself to first hand knowledge, not offer opinions on hearsay. Miss Braselton retorted with dignity that she had actually heard the prisoner inveigh against the bailiff, hinting that her aunt had some ulterior motive for employing any one so incompetent. Furthermore, she stated that her own reason for urging Miss Bundy to accompany her to Rome had been to get her away from the niece, who was making her miserable.

Again Mr. Justice Warlock vehemently protested. The witness must on no account put ideas into the jury's minds unless she could produce proof of their correctness. With quiet defiance Miss Braselton proceeded to quote chapter and verse. Miss Bundy had said to her such things as "Don't tell Natasha I am alarmed about my health"; and "I don't wish Natasha to know I am mentioning her in my will. It is never good for people to get notions of that kind." Also, in the girl's presence, Miss Bundy had been ill at ease, apprehensive. Once when the accused entered the room the older woman broke into a profuse perspiration, trembled violently, and showed every sign of fright and dismay.

Counsel: Did Miss Bundy inform you of her intention to present the prisoner with a string of pearls? Witness: Never—and I am quite positive she did not dream of doing so. There was no liking or sympathy between the two, only a staunch sense of duty on Miss Bundy's side. My friend was a loyal and conscientious woman."

The court now adjourned. Neil's eyes followed Natasha as, moving like an automaton, she disappeared under escort.

Some one touched his arm. Turning, he found the solicitor, Grew, close beside him with a curious expression in his lashless eyes. Instantly he guessed that something had happened, but of all conceivable eventualities, the one about to be disclosed was farthest from his thoughts.

"What is it?" he whispered tensely.

The lawyer took hold of him and drew him into a cleared space.

"Simply this: Michael Andreyev is dead—two weeks ago, in Teheran. The news has just come through from Scotland Yard."

. . . . . .

Michael dead! It was a blow full in the face—and yet Neil's first reaction was one of illogical thankfulness. Who could lament the removal of the troublesome entity for whom Natasha was sacrificing herself? The feeling passed at once, however, as a horrid doubt entered his mind.

"Not—suicide?" he muttered.

"There's only the bare report of his death; but I fancy it's not suicide." The solicitor set his teeth. "Of all hellish calamities, that this should happen—now!"

"It's as bad as that?"

"Could it be worse? Just look at it for a moment. Our alibi's shaky enough in all conscience. It's quite likely the whole thing will tumble down—and the way the case is going every turn brings us up dead against this brother. As it was before, there was little chance of finding out what the fellow was doing during those six hours. There's none at all now."

This seemed fatally certain. Advertisements had drawn blanks, no railway official or car owner had admitted so much as a glimpse of Michael from the time he quitted his lodgings. To all intents and purposes he had vanished from the sight of man—as Grew said—for six hours. Neil listened in stupefied silence while his companion outlined the situation.

"It was bad enough having him disappear till one in the morning, but while he was alive there remained a chance of getting some testimony we could trace and substantiate. At least it would have created a doubt. Now if the prosecution bullies the jury into believing the two spent that interval together—or even part of it—we're now powerless to refute the suggestion.

"We've no sure evidence regarding our client after six o'clock. Everything hinges on those waitresses, Douglas and Pilcher. If one of them turns up trumps, it will knock a hole clean in the middle of the dangerous period."

"Neither girl recognizes the photograph," said Neil dully.

"You can't tell by that. Coloring, speech, dress, make a big difference in identifications. Anyhow, we'll go on hoping."

However, there was no doubt that Grew feared the worst and was trying to prepare the other for absolute defeat.

Parent Groups Ask Subjects for Discussion

Mrs. Bevans Offers a New Leaflet.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Frequently letters just like the following, or similar to it, come to me: "Now I have a favor to ask. I have the good fortune to be responsible for a year's program for a group of mothers, who are trying to better themselves as mothers. We meet twice each month and have talks and lectures on our problems. The group is made up of fifteen mothers whose children range from babies to 11 years.

"So far I have several meetings open and I wondered if you could suggest any practical subjects to take up. If you could and would send us some of your own thoughts, we will be everlastingly grateful. Our program includes all the general problems such as discipline, play, toys, eating habits, etc. But anything you would send us, even though it repeated a subject, would be from a new angle of thought and we would be honored to use it."

With the many sorts of help I try to give I have not yet attempted to work out study outlines for parents. There are many associations that are doing this work, and some parents' and women's magazines which have planned quite fully for study groups. What I have tried to do in these daily articles is to deal with just one idea or subject a day—and supply in booklet or leaflet form some follow up on the specific thought.

However, since I have had so many rquests of the sort as the letter quoted, I have set down informally a few subjects that I think are live and fine for talk and thought, and a few recommendations as to books. We shall be happy to send this leaflet on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. But please understand that it is not an elaborate study outline.

If one is outside the kitchen—a nibbling aunt, a browsing husband, or a voracious schoolgoer—there's always that delicious, guilty feeling that warns you that because of girth or the cook's orders you really have no business in the cookie jar. And once the cover is lifted, there's inevitably that moment of delightful uncertainty as the four senses huddle to discover what crusty new delicacy or crunchy old favorite is in possession this week.

Yet cookie jars are just as intriguing—perhaps even more so—when one is in the know and can let fancy run riot in stocking that source of cheering little cakes. And it sometimes it seems that inspirations have all given out for new families of cookies, why not play a few tricks with one of the most simple of the old faithfuls—macaroons?

In makeup, these rich, chewy cookies are actually related to kisses, only made more substantial and tasty by the addition of finely ground nuts, coconut, chopped fruit or any of a variety of other palate teasers.

ALMOND MACAROONS.

3 egg whites, stiffly beaten.
1½ cup finely ground almonds or commercial almond paste.
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 cup confectioner's sugar.

Combine the sugar, salt and the ground almonds or almond paste and fold carefully into the egg whites which have been beaten with the salt. Blend until as smooth as the nuts will allow, then press through a pastry tube and form into small, even mounds on a waxed paper which just covers a cookie sheet. Bake in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees F.] for twenty-five minutes or until set and delicately browned. If desired, the mixture may be dropped from a teaspoon instead of forced through a tube. When the little cakes are done, remove from the oven, slip the paper off the sheet and invert on a rack. Dampen the underside of the paper with warm water and the macaroons may be easily slipped off.

With this familiar and delectable recipe in mind, let's start to experiment. Pecan or peanut macaroons call for simply the substitution of one of these nuts for the almonds given above. If your macaroons have a tendency to be slightly sticky, sift three level tablespoons of flour with the sugar in the above recipes. Shredded coconut or finely chopped dates, figs or raisins may be substituted for the almonds in the above recipe.

Or try a new macaroon with a modern note. I have christened them

CORNOROONS.

1 cup sugar.
4 egg whites.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 cup shredded coconut.
1 cup finely chopped nuts.
¼ teaspoon vanilla.
3 cups shredded coconut.

Fold the sugar and salt into the stiffly beaten egg whites, stirring until well mixed. Add the remaining ingredients and blend thoroughly. Drop from a teaspoon onto a waxed paper on a cookie sheet. Bake in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees F.] for twenty to thirty minutes. Remove the macaroons as before by dampening the under side of the paper. Let them cool on a rack.

A second type of coconut macaroon has a happy combination of condensed milk, coconut, and pineapple to thank for its deliciousness.

PINEAPPLE COCOROONS.

3 cups shredded coconut.
¾ cup condensed milk.
¼ teaspoon vanilla.
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 cup crushed, drained pineapple.

Combine all the ingredients and drop from a teaspoon onto a well greased baking sheet, leaving one inch between macaroons. Bake in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees F.] about twenty minutes.

Finally for a macaroon with a Scotch accent—

OAT-NUT MACAROONS.

2 eggs.
2 cups rolled oats.
¼ teaspoon salt.
¾ cup chopped nuts.
¾ cup sugar.
Grated rind of 1 orange.
2 tablespoons melted butter.
1 tablespoon orange juice.

Whip the eggs until lemon colored, then add sugar and beat till creamy. Add the remaining ingredients and stir till well blended. Drop from a spoon onto a well greased pan and bake twenty minutes in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.].

Opera Friends Plan Concert as Memorial

Honor Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick.

new "Patterns" for piano and orchestra is played.

"Patterns" was given its world premiere performance last Friday with the Boston Symphony with Mr. Carpenter as the soloist. In tonight's audience will be Mr. Carpenter's daughter, Mrs. Patrick C. Hill, who with her new daughter, Rue, is staying with Mr. Carpenter until the end of the month when Mr. Hill will come up from Fort Worth to take his wife and baby home. Rue will be a month old on the 6th of next month.

Mr. Carpenter's music often has been performed by the Chicago Symphony, but his appearance as the soloist of the occasion will be an unprecedented event and all his friends, and they are legion, are planning to be at one of this week's concerts.

Art Institute Reception.

The 54th annual reception of the Art institute will be held this afternoon from 3 to 5:30 o'clock to open the forty-fifth annual exhibition of American paintings and sculpture. This reception always is one of THE social affairs of each season, and every one finds time to drop in for a cup of tea and a cursory glance at the exhibition—a longer visit for the purpose of really seeing the paintings and sculpture is paid later by those really interested in the exhibition.

Committees from the leading women's clubs of the city will receive and serve in the various galleries.

Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, Mrs. Lester Armour, and Mrs. Kent S. Clow will pour at the tea that Mrs. John Coleman Jr. is to give this afternoon at her Lake Forest residence for Miss Jocelyn Norie of London, the Needlework and Textile guild's new instructor.

Miss Caryl Bloomingston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bloomingston of 1209 Astor street, is to make her début at a luncheon today at the Drake hotel. All of the current débutantes have been invited to be guests. The Bloomingstons may give another party for their daughter during the Christmas holidays.

An audience of more than 200 persons listened with great interest and pleasure to Mrs. Laura C. Boulton's lecture on African art and music, with accompanying motion pictures and phonograph records, at the Arts club yesterday morning.

About half of the audience remained to have luncheon at the club. Among those who had parties of guests were: Mrs. Potter Palmer, Miss Marie Rozet, and Mrs. William Prescott Hunt; Mrs. Philo A. Otis, Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, Mrs. Charles H. Conrad, Dr. Julia C. Strawn, Mrs. Ralph T. Winston, Arthur Heun, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mr. and Mrs. Lucius A. Crowell, Mrs. William A. Nitze, John Palmer, and John Stacey.

Tea for Junior French Group.

Miss Beatrice Borland is to be hostess to the junior members of the Alliance Française at a tea at the Borland residence at 2450 Lake View avenue on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 9. By popular request, Miss Borland and her sister, Harriet, will give the illustrated lecture on their travels which so many of their friends have been enthused about since the girls returned from their trip around the world about a year ago.

The lecture has been given informally several times with Beatrice doing the talking and Harriet operating the moving picture machine. Beatrice is chairman of the program committee of the junior group of the Alliance, so the members consider themselves fortunate in having a chairman who can start their season by giving a program herself. Since this will be the first meeting of the juniors, the French consul, Rene Weiller, will open the program with a short address in French.

It is good news to the hundreds of fashionable women who always count the Kinsolving musical mornings among their choicest events of each winter to learn that Miss Kinsolving is planning the usual series of five concerts for this season.

The first will be on Thursday, Nov. 17, in the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel, where the concerts have been given for the last seventeen years. Of particular interest will be the one on Dec. 29 when Miss Janet Fairbank will be one of the artistes. Miss Fairbank made her Chicago debut as a singer at one of the Kinsolvings last winter.

Did you realize that attractive Jeanné and Katharine Street, who were debutantes two years ago, are to have a debutante sister next year? Marjorie, who is at the junior college at Mount Vernon this year, is to "come out" next season, when Harriett, the baby of the family, will enter Vassar college.

Harriett, who is a senior at the North Shore Country Day school in Winnetka, where the family lives, is just fifteen, so she will not be a debutante for at least two more years. The girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Street.

Mrs. Kinney Smith and her son, Kinney, have returned from a month's stay at Hotfoot ranch, Wyoming. Mr.

Lelong Replaces Winter Coat Capelet with Detachable Front and Back Bib

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — While coats with capelets are still going strong in French fashions, some of the dressmakers feel that they are a bit too ubiquitous to be really exclusively chic, so they are trying to launch something a bit different.

Lucien Lelong replaces the capelet on the winter coat with a front and back bib, which is cut just like the bib you tuck under baby's chin before he attacks his oatmeal. This coat is shown in our sketch today. It is made of a black wool that has a weave like a honeycomb, and is a straight and simple coat with plain sleeves.

The coat buttons over on the left side, and is held in at the waistline by a black leather belt having a silver plaque and buttons in place of a buckle in front. The bib is made of black cloth and is bordered with black astrakhan. The black astrakhan collar is round and childish. This bib fastens with hooks and eyes along the top of the left shoulder. It may be removed at will, leaving a collarless coat that is buttoned along the left shoulder.

For the woman who has to wear her winter coat both in mild and zero weather the removability of the collar is a feature to be considered, as it adapts a wrap to varying conditions of temperature.

and Mrs. Edwin Fraser Gillette of Pasadena and their daughters, Helen and Marietta Gillette, who occupied the Smiths' apartment at 1120 Lake Shore drive during the latter's absence in the west, are now visiting Mr. Gillette's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Shippen Jenks of 10 East Schiller street.

They will be here for two or three weeks before returning to Pasadena. The Gillettes and the Jenkses spend their summers at Lake Beulah, Wis.

Mrs. I. Newton Perry has left for a ten days' visit in the east after the hectic weeks of getting ready for her daughter Polly's wedding last Saturday to Harold M. Kneedler of Manila. The wedding was one of the most beautiful ever witnessed in fashionable St. Chrysostom's church and the guests still are talking of how lovely the young bride and her seven attendants looked, all in snowy white.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Maher will arrive home tomorrow or Saturday from a short trip to Winona, Minn., where they go frequently in connection with Mr. Maher's business. Miss Janet Fairbank is with them on this trip.

B. F. Rogers Jr. on Hunting Trip.

Bernard F. Rogers Jr., who has been residing in the east for a year or more, returned to Chicago last week-end and spent a few days with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Waller Rogers, before going off on a brief duck hunting trip. He will be back in Chicago today and will visit his father over the week-end. Early next week he will depart again on a 10 day duck shooting expedition.

Mrs. Edward F. Swift and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Huntington Henry, who spent the summer with Mrs. Swift at Sagamore hall, her Lake Forest estate, have returned to town and are at Mrs. Swift's apartment at 1550 State parkway.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry will move into their own apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive next week and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon P. Kelley, will come in to town shortly after that to be with them for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Odell have taken an apartment at the Ambassador East for the winter and are to move in from Lake Forest next Monday. Their son and daughter-in-law, the junior William Odells, reside in Lake Forest all the year round.

Mrs. Charles Henry Dennis is opening her residence at 1225 Michigan avenue, Evanston, today from 10 to 5:30 o'clock for a sale under the auspices of the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins. Russian tea will be served from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Appearance Is Big Factor in Woman's Work

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

This business of making one's self as good looking as possible is no longer listed among the vanities. It's a cold, sober, economic fact that the better looking you manage to make yourself the better are your chances in the vocational world.

Only the other day the head of a teachers' college in New York City stressed the importance of the physical aspect of the teacher applicant. Heretofore the teacher who could drive the three r's into little Willie's and Wilhelmina's heads appeared to be doing all that could be expected of her.

But now, because we're in a world of youngsters sophisticated in the way of pretty clothes and good grooming, the teachers are expected to deliver good looks along with good larnin'. Not that the most of them aren't doing it on their own account. But, somehow, there's got about an impression that teachers, deprived perhaps of the stimulus of adult male contact in their daily work, are inclined to be a bit remiss on this now vital phase of any and every vocation.

This "sophistication" of the youngsters on matters of woman's personal upkeep is an excellent thing for adults, I think. Especially is it valuable to the home woman, who suffers the greatest temptation to let things slide so far as her looks are concerned. A good friend and severe critic in a young son or daughter around the house is responsible for many a woman's smart upkeep.

Sometimes the young tyrants develop into nuisances, it is true, as in the case of "Mrs. S.," whose youngster's table occupation was seeing that mom didn't eat so she wouldn't get fat. But better a nuisance in the family than indifference, for we all need prodding or some kind of urge to keep us hard at the duties of manicuring, hair grooming, and silhouette upkeep.

Not long ago one of our employment agency heads cited the ingredients of a successful business persons as 75 per cent looks and personality and 25 per cent brains. The statement is exaggerated, no doubt—but it serves to remind business girls of the importance of being as good looking as possible.

Eddie Cantor Completes His 'Kid from Spain'

Report Million Spent on Production.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 26.—After working since July 27, the last scene has been shot on Eddie Cantor's "The Kid from Spain" and Eddie has dusted out for New York. This picture, in which Producer Sam Goldwyn keeps it no secret that he has more than $1,000,000 invested, is one of the year's most pretentious in scale, and, like so many of this producer's films, seems destined to hit a popular chord when released.

Its preview, last week in San Diego, delighted the first movie theater audience to see it, and in the few spots in which the story was believed not to be knit together properly, or the action lagged, Goldwyn had the cast come back to the studio and do some added scenes.

This is the film in which Cantor imagines himself a bull fighter, with such results that even the boss bull of the five black imported Mexican Miura toros, who was named Bonito, had to laugh. One of the bulls was named Max, for story purposes, and Max got to be so well trained he would charge at Eddie and deliberately miss him. But when the big scene was to be taken, Max was substituted by another bull, Diablo, who wasn't trained to miss and—you will want to see the picture, in all probability.

One of the five bulls brought here from Mexico for this film got to be good at hurdling fences, so they let that bull improvise a whole sequence in the picture, where he chases Cantor out of the arena into the grandstand, and back again.

Some members of the cast are Noah Beery, Lydia Roberts, Ruth Hall, Robert Young, John Miljan, Carroll Naish, and Robert O'Connor.

Producer Goldwyn had considerable trouble getting the five black bulls into this country for film purposes. The Mexican bull raising guild, which is very close knit and very proud of its profession, was afraid the slick Americans were going to use the bulls on this side of the border for breeding purposes, and perhaps would be sending competing bovine gladiators south of the border in a couple of years.

So the Mexicans sent bodyguards north with the bulls, and maybe its hard to believe in Chicago, but those Mexican bull guards haven't left the little specially built barnyard on the rear of the United Artists lot, day or night, in the three and one-half months since their arrival.

The saddest about it all is that in order to cut red tape and satisfy Mexican and American officials all around, the bulls, now that the film is completed, are scheduled to be taken to a Los Angeles slaughter house.

The RKO studio offices here say they have sent a man all the way to Chicago to snoop around in railroad sidings and pick up a locomotive of the kind that ran in 1871, together with seven cars of the same vintage. They want the equipment for the film about the Chicago fire which is based on Lester Cohen's novel, and is titled "Sweepings." The studio first tried to pick up an 1871 locomotive in California, which quest turned out to be something of a joke when railroad men informed the searchers that the first railroad to reach California from the east was completed in 1869, and that the mail was still being carried by pony express in 1871.

Genevieve Herrick Pictures Capital for Woman's Club

Her observations on the workings of the government in Washington and glimpses of political personages were told yesterday before the Chicago Woman's club by Genevieve Forbes Herrick of the Washington bureau of THE TRIBUNE. Mrs. Herrick was the guest speaker at a program and tea in her honor.

"To the young congressman, sent down for his first term, Washington is a city of hope," Mrs. Herrick said. "To the elder statesman, remembering the good old days, it is a town of history. To the foreign diplomat it used to be an adventure of pioneering. Now it is a post of distinguishment.

"To the 'marble palace' widows it is a haven for tired old women, retired old men. To the visitor it is a land of romance where diplomats dine on artichokes off crested silver. To the resident it is a land of realty where diplomats' wives discuss the price of eggs with you as you both do your economical shopping.

"But Washington right now is more than ever dynamic with political currents; more than ever alert to the theme of governmental economy, more than ever conversational about tariff and taxes."

Mrs. Herrick then launched into a discussion of the last session of congress, turning the spotlight upon humorous incidents and anecdotes of politically famous men and women.

Urges Decoration of Garbo by Swedish King Gustaf

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 26.—(AP)—A letter published in the newspaper Dagens Nyheter urges that Greta Garbo be decorated by King Gustaf with a medal in gold, similar to that awarded Goeta Ljungberg, the Swedish soprano and newest diva of the Metropolitan Opera company in New York. The star of American movies, now visiting her family here, is "one of our foremost ambassadors," the letter said. "An increasing number of admirers in Sweden feel that she well deserves this high recognition, and there is no doubt that people abroad have the same opinion." The paper adds, editorially: "Why not?"

Stadium Opera Is Assured of Full Season

Business Men Will Aid Enterprise.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Popular priced grand opera will continue at the Chicago Stadium, according to Sidney N. Strotz, president of the Stadium corporation, who feels assured that sufficient patronage has been shown the first two presentations to warrant the continuation of the répertoire through the winter. A meeting has been held to lay plans for raising a contingent fund of $25,000. It was disclosed then that there were deficits, though not alarming ones, for the two performances; also that Chicago business men had already guaranteed sums totaling half of the amount needed.

The association feels that the venture has been an artistic success, and that the desired sum will both take care of the deficits and assure financial stability for the future. An intensive campaign is about to be launched to sell boxes and season tickets to make up the remainder of the $25,000, and the season will be resumed, as already announced, on Nov. 12. Maurice Frank will continue as artistic director, and representative business men of Chicago will handle the business management. Popular prices, from 50 cents to $2.75, will continue to prevail.

George Seaberg, pianist, presented a program at Kimball hall last night which covered the customary pianistic range of Beethoven, Brahms, Chopin, Debussy, and Liszt, with the addition of such moderns as Joseph Brinkman and Deems Taylor. He displayed much technical facility and considerable originality of interpretation.

The Ladies of Isabella Choral club appeared in a concert at Lyon and Healy concert hall last night under the direction of Clemens A. Hutter. Of modest demeanor and making no great pretensions at presenting difficult music, they nevertheless sang pleasant and well harmonized melodies in an agreeable manner. They were assisted by Mrs. Antoinette Trusk, soprano, in a group of solos.

Audience Thrilled at Concert Given by Blind Musicians

Forty-nine musicians kept an audience in Sinai temple, 4622 South Park way, applauding last evening as the music of Mozart, Chopin, Massenet, and Gounod filled the great auditorium. No musical score was read by a single musician. They were all blind.

Dr. Louis L. Mann, rabbi of Sinai temple, described the Blind Service association, which, he said, was organized nine years ago by Mrs. Gottfried D. Bernstein, who is still the president. It is a nonsectarian organization whose aim is to help the sightless.

At the close of the concert musical scholarships were awarded to Ernest Moeller, Isaac Minski, and Louis Steiner.

The proceeds of the concert will be used to carry on the work of the organization and to provide scholarships for blind musicians. Among the sponsors and donors of the Blind Service association are Judge Mary Bartelme, Mrs. John V. Farwell, Rabbi Abraham Hirschberg, Judge Henry Horner, Mr. and Mrs. Morris S. Rosenfield, Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, Dr. and Mrs. Louis L. Mann, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Stolz, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Well, Dr. and Mrs. Adolph D. Weiner, and others.

THE STAGE

Ina Claire, who recently withdrew from rehearsals of a play called "Nine Pine Street," may celebrate her return to the stage in the leading rôle of a Theater Guild production. The drama in question is "Biography," by S. N. Behrman, which the Guild has scheduled for immediate staging to replace its "The Pure in Heart," which was closed for revision after an engagement in Cincinnati a week ago.

Judith Anderson, who was the central figure in the Chicago and western cast of "Mourning Becomes Electra" last season, will do her next acting in Gilbert Miller's production of a European hit called "Firebird." Rehearsals started this week. Henry Stephenson will be Miss Anderson's opposite in the cast, which also includes Ian Keith in an important rôle.

This week premieres on the New York stage, seven in number, are represented in the following list:

"The Anatomist," an English play by James Bride, opened Monday night; "Girl Outside," a comedy, opened Monday night; "Dangerous Corner," by J. B. Priestley, the novelist, opened Tuesday night; "Liliom," revived by Eva Le Gallienne, opened last night; "Tell Her the Truth," a musical comedy, opened last night; "There's Always Juliet," reopened last night with a new cast, and "Carrie Nation," second offering by the producer of "Another Language," opens Saturday night.

Five closings are scheduled for Saturday night, as follows: "Nona," with Lenore Ulric as star, after a four weeks' run; "I Love You Wednesday," "The Great Lover," with Lou Tellegen; "Rendezvous," and "Keeping Expenses Down," each after a three weeks' run.

The musical version of "Cyrano de Bergerac" will begin its preliminary tour in Provincetown, Mass., Nov. 3. George Houston, formerly of the American Opera company, "The New Moon," and the St. Louis Summer Opera company, will have the title rôle.

Robert Loraine, who acted in Chicago last season in "The Devil Passes," is the first player to be announced as a member of the cast of Katharine Cornell's next production, "Lucrece." The play, adapted from the French of André Obey by Thornton Wilder, was originally announced under the title, "The Rape of Lucrece." Eight years ago Mr. Loraine appeared as a star in a play called "Tiger Cats," with Miss Cornell as his leading woman. C. C.

ILLINOIS GAME YEAR'S HIGH SPOT FOR MAROONS

QUESTION: WHEN IS A DICTATOR NOT DICTATOR?

Answer: When He's in Baseball.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 26.—The re-engagement of Rogers Hornsby by the St. Louis Cardinals suggests that the dictatorship of Judge K. M. Landis is coming to an end. A dictator must not stutter and the judge, in many cases, has hemmed and hawed and conducted himself in the manner of a presidential candidate confronted with an issue.

It is all right for a candidate for high public office to carry a flask on one hip and a card of membership in the Anti-Saloon league on the other, but the customer demands a higher morality, or, at any rate, a higher pretense, from his sporting figures.

Judge Uses Politician's Tactics.

To Judge Landis, Hornsby has been an issue. He has been to the judge as the bonus has been to Roosevelt or the repeal of the Volstead act to Hoover, and the judge tried to deal with him as a politician would. He declined to say that Hornsby was guilty and he wouldn't say that he wasn't. And, worst of all, he wouldn't even say what it was that he was either guilty or not guilty of.

The dictator of the baseball business has no campaign expenses or election risks and in return for the high salary which he receives—I believe the figure is $65,000 a year—he must be willing to assume a little more responsibility than statesmen ordinarily accept. It would be easy to get a politician for the job for one-third of the pay, and the other two-thirds are supposed to buy a degree of character and moral independence which the voters have long since learned to waive in selecting public servants.

A Dictator? Not to Employers!

Of course, the judge accepted the job under impossible conditions in the first place. He became an employé of the very people whose dictator he was supposed to be, and I think you will agree that it is an impossibility for an employé to fire his boss.

In the judge's case, he, being a lawyer, must have realized at the outset that the baseball magnates were his bosses, that the baseball magnates were a mixed body of men, including some who were not of a kind to ornament sport, or even, for that matter, to ornament Tammany hall. If he did not realize it at the outset, he must have realized it subsequently from certain proceedings in the federal and district courts of New York. With respect to one of his employers, the federal court observed that there was very little to choose between his conduct and that of a bucketshop operator, and certainly that was more definite ground for the issuance of a writ of banishment than the evidence, if such it could be called, upon which Rogers Hornsby was whispered out of baseball last summer.

He'll Always Be an Employé.

But, of course, the judge could not whisper a magnate out of baseball. A magnate has property rights, and, although a Mussolini or a Stalin may abolish property rights, that only goes to demonstrate the difference between a real dictator and a mock dictator. The judge could not abolish the property rights of any of his bosses and he remained, and he positively must remain, as long as he holds his job under the present terms of hire, not their dictator nor their boss, but their employé.

I think it is time to insist, however, that a public athlete, such as a baseball player or prize fighter, is not sufficiently decent if he only observes the minimum requirements of a sheriff or mayor or member of congress. A baseball player or a fighter should conduct himself in such a way as to avoid suspicion not only of cheating but of subornation of cheating. However, suspicion is a hair trigger emotion, and if it arises the ball player or prizefighter should have a public hearing and should be either convicted or acquitted on the evidence.

Whispered Off a Winning Team.

In the Hornsby case there was public suspicion, aroused, as I believe, by Judge Landis, and Hornsby was whispered out of baseball in the season of his greatest professional promise. He was manager of the club which won the National league pennant a few weeks later. He had previously won a pennant for the Cardinals, but the Cardinals are a small town and, in the industrial sense, a narrow gauge firm as compared with the Cubs. Hornsby submitted a little too quietly for my liking, but that could have been due to a sense of the futility of disputing with the czar rather than to any sense of guilt.

The judge acquired his job at a time when money was loose and cheap and dictators were selling well in the luxury trade. In the meantime, however, conditions have changed and with so many of the major league firms earning less than their expenses and so many of the minor firms going bankrupt, it is bound to occur to the judge's employers that an office foreman could be had for less money.

Can't Sink to Political Plane.

Certainly Hornsby and all the rest of the ball players should be required to observe a higher level of honesty than is expected of a mayor, a public prosecutor, a judge, or a county sheriff. On such a plane, baseball would be disgraced, discredited and destroyed. But even the worst whisperings that I have heard against Hornsby, prompted by the judge's inconclusive report on his conduct, constitute a testimonial of honor as compared with the unknown records of most of the occupants of public office in New York at the present time.

I only heard that he lost some horse bets and borrowed some money from his subordinates on the Cubs. There was nothing said about his owning any speakeasies, slot machines, roulette rooms or rackets. Why, even if guilty as charged, the man was a model of discretion, honesty and principle.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WHITE STOCKINGS PARK.

RECENTLY Ort Wells, retired financier and long time pal of George Ade, became involved in an argument about when the old Chicago White Stockings left their lake front baseball park. He appealed to The Wake for a decision, and we were chagrined to find the date was not in our records. The event was before our time. Therefore we appealed to our "Way Back Whenners," who so far never have failed us in an emergency. Here is information furnished by our Helpers:

CHARLES WILLAMS.

Helper Charles G. Williams, for many years secretary of the National league club, now an automobile dealer in Berwyn, gives this definite date: "The first game on the west side after leaving the lake front park of the old Chicago White Stockings was at Loomis and Harrison, June 6, 1885."

From Fred A. Ebersold of River Forest: "Here is an extract from an article in Andrea's History of Chicago: On Nov. 6, 1877, the club was granted a lease of a portion of the lake front lying between Washington and Randolph streets, which was occupied as a baseball park until the close of the season of 1884. In 1885 new grounds were procured near the corner of Congress and Loomis streets."

Old Timer adds: "My records show the National league club moved to the Loomis street grounds in 1885, to Polk and Lincoln in 1893, and to the present north side park, now called Wrigley field, in 1916."

And I to the orient;
He to earn me a living
And I on pleasure bent.

[Remunerative but not éclat.]
He worked for a little house for me,
I fished for pearls in the Yangtze,
And now I'm spent, with adventure replete,
While he's just finding his gypsy feet.
[Now for the moral—to complete.]
So I've found the saying true,
"You can't have your cake and eat it, too."

H. T. W.: Apparently Northwestern set the style in football togs when, a few seasons ago, white jerseys were adopted by the Purple. For two or three years it was the only major team in this vicinity so equipped. Now I notice Chicago, Ohio State, Wisconsin, and the Chicago Bears have followed this lead. Helper Rogers.

A Stagg Admirer.

Harvey: Ordinarily I concede that the alumnus who attempts to interfere with the administration of his university athletics classifies as one of the lower forms of animal life. It seems to me, however, that the present situation at the University of Chicago would justify the organization of students and alumni to retain Mr. Stagg as athletic director and coach. To pay tribute to the man is to be trite. It is equally obvious that both in the fact and the manner of retiring him the University of Chicago accorded a very raw deal to a very distinguished sportsman.

DE BAKER GETS HIS CHANCE AS MICHIGAN BACK

Takes Place of Injured Oliver at Right Half.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Chuck De Baker, senior letterman and captain-elect of the track team, was being groomed today to fill the half back post on the Michigan football team left vacant by the injury to Russell Oliver. De Baker, winner of two football letters, probably will see considerable service Saturday against Princeton.

A biting rain driven across Ferry field by a northwest wind kept the squad indoors most of this afternoon, although some defensive work was done outside. Both the regulars and reserves took up positions on defense, while freshmen ran a dummy scrimmage through them, using Princeton plays.

Ward at left end and Cox and Chapman on the right flank are on the regular team called out by Kipke. Wistert and Damm worked as tackles and Kowalik, Bernard, and Savage, the trio that were in the middle of the line against Illinois, held their posts. Newman, Everhardus, Regeczi, and Petoskey made up the back field, with De Baker, Westover, and Fay looking on.

TIGERS SHIFT TEAM.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The Princeton varsity today wound up its hard work for Saturday's invasion of the University of Michigan gridiron at Ann Arbor with a scrimmage session. Only a light session will be held tomorrow as the final workout before the players entrain for the middle west.

The Tiger coaching staff has had to do a bit of juggling around this season and they were still at it today. Injuries, most of them of a minor nature, have forced considerable shifting.

After the Columbia game Art Lane joined the injured list and Goose Gosnell was groomed for his place at tackle. He turned in a good performance against Cornell the following week and then suffered a deep finger laceration in practice, which kept him on the side lines last Saturday.

Switch Ceppi from Guard.

Charlie Ceppi was shifted from guard and did himself proud, considering that he had only two days to familiarize himself with the position.

The neck contusion suffered by Millard Draudt in the Cornell game forced him out and made it necessary to develop a reserve back for Bales, who had been alternating with Draudt. This gave Wardell, a sophomore quarter, his chance.

ASKS APPROVAL FOR MICHIGAN GAME ON COAST

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—A letter received tonight by the Michigan Daily from Robert Dockeray, a Michigan alumnus in Los Angeles, asked the paper's support toward bringing about the relaxation of the Big Ten rule prohibiting post-season games. Dockeray hopes to gain the invitation to play the Rose bowl game Jan. 1 for a conference team, presumably Michigan. Dockeray spoke for the Big Ten club in Los Angeles.

Coach Harry Kipke expressed the belief that the Big Ten would not approve such a proposal, but said the decision would rest with Big Ten faculty representatives, who meet early in December.

F. D. ROOSEVELT JR.'S NOSE BROKEN IN GRID PRACTICE

Boston, Mass., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The campaign has brought its first casualty to a member of the Roosevelt family. The campaign in question is that of Groton school for preparatory school football honors, and the member of the Roosevelt family is Franklin D. Jr., son of the presidential candidate.

Young Roosevelt, who plays in the Groton line, suffered a broken nose in practice yesterday, and today entered Massachusetts General hospital to have it reset.

"I'm going to be here only a few hours," he said as he stepped from an automobile. "I'll be back at Groton this afternoon, and this won't stop my playing football."

My Greatest Thrill in Football

BY BRONKO NAGURSKI.
[As told to Wilfrid Smith.]

MY greatest thrill in football occurred in 1927, my sophomore year, when Minnesota tied Notre Dame, 7 to 7, at Cartier field. During my three years at Minnesota I played both tackle and full back. Sometimes I have played both positions in one game.

Many might think that since I have been a ball carrier I would get my greatest thrill out of some scoring play. But that day at Notre Dame, when I was just breaking in, and in the line at that, I got a thrill which I never have had since.

It was one of the hardest battles of my college career. The only drawback was the intense cold. Notre Dame scored first, leading up 7 to 0 almost to the end of the game. But that lead set the stage for my thrill.

Minnesota Fumble Paves Way for Notre Dame Score.

We had played only a few minutes, and I was on the bench at the time, when Hovde, a substitute half back, fumbled and Notre Dame recovered the ball on our 17 yard line. You can't blame Hovde for his fingers must have been numb from the cold. Butch Niemiec grabbed this opportunity and ran around end for a touchdown. He then kicked the extra point.

Well, Minnesota tried and tried but couldn't get the last yards necessary for the tying score. Once we got down to Notre Dame's three yard line and lost the ball on downs. Twice in the first half we forward passed unsuccessfully over the goal line. Altogether we were in position to tie those seven points five or six times. It looked as if Hovde's fumble was going to beat us.

Nagurski Recovers Fumble to Give Gophers Their Chance.

By this time I was in the game at tackle. Herb Joesting, our full back, whose place I was to take next year in the back field, was slamming through the line and Almquist and Nydahl were shooting at the ends. Still we couldn't get that touchdown.

BRONKO NAGURSKI.

Nagurski succeeded to the many honors Herb Joesting had earned as a driving full back. Bronko played prep football at International Falls, Minn., before entering Minnesota. He starred both as tackle and as a ball carrier. For the last three years he has played with the Chicago Bears, professional team.

Finally Notre Dame had the ball in its own territory. The center made a bad pass which shot by the back who was supposed to receive it. I followed the ball and beat him to it, falling on it on Notre Dame's 15 yard line. That was my greatest thrill, and it became even greater a few minutes later. Joesting couldn't gain, but he dropped back and passed to Walsh, who took the ball in the end zone for a touchdown. Then Barnhart came in for Riddell and kicked the tying point.

When I realized that my recovery of the fumble had made the tie possible I was thrilled again. Nothing I ever did in my next two years equalled this recovery of Notre Dame's fumble.

Found: Halt an Irishman On Notre Dame Varsity Eleven

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 26.—If there is any local worry over what might happen to Notre Dame when it comes in contact with an old friendly enemy, Pitt, at Pittsburgh Saturday, it isn't noticeable hereabouts. The business of finishing off proceeded as usual today as the cosmopolitan squad, popularly but wrongfully termed the "fighting Irish," went through the motions of the last protracted drill preparatory to the game with the Panthers. The only concern among the boys was which eleven would have the privilege of starting the battle.

As the situation is viewed by Coach Hunk Anderson the starting job may be entrusted to the first eleven, but he placed the emphasis on the word "may." The first team hasn't opened a game so far this season, and there naturally is a desire to perpetuate a record.

Yes, They Are Cosmopolitan.

If the main squad should start it will mean work for a flock of Germans, flavored by Austrian, Polish, Hungarians, French, etc. If the second team gets the first call there will be a lot of Irishmen on the job, similarly flavored. And if the third team happens to be selected for the initial shock, there will be present a little of everything.

If anybody thinks that the German first team is a myth so far as nationality is concerned, they are privileged to take a look at the athletic office records. Ed Kosky, the left end, falls in this class. So does Ben Alexander, the center whose blond hair is rapidly vanishnig. Also Norman Greeney, the right guard. When the Germans are mustered Joe Kurth, the right tackle, also responds along with Capt. Paul Host, right end. The Germans have obligingly kept out of the first string back field so that there might be room for others.

Anyway, Harris Is Half Irish.

No two of the first string back field quartet are of the same extraction. Chuck Jaskwhich, the quarter back, is a Pole. Nick Lukats, the left half, represents Hungary. Ray Brancheau, right half, is the French gridiron ambassador. George Melinkovich, full back, is of Austrian parentage. The two lined up with the five Germans in the front wall are Ed Krause, left tackle, who was born under the Lithuanian name of Krauciunaus, and Left Guard Jim Harris, who is the sole Irish delegate. And Wales can rightfully claim half of him.

SIGNAL SHOUTERS

LAURIE VEJAR. CHUCK JASKWEHICH.

The Irish control four positions from center to right end of the shock troop line, and this may be one reason they usually are employed to take the edge off the enemy at the start. Center Tom Gorman, Right Guard Jack Flynn, Right Tackle Tom Roach, and Right End Hugh Devore make up the combination, as you might guess from their names.

Here Are More Germans.

Where do all these boys come from and why? They hail from all corners of the nation. There are a lot of conference coaches whose mouths water when they think of how many men of skill Notre Dame possesses but doesn't even use, except when the first, second, third, or fourth elevens grow weary.

They come here, of course, mainly for education, but football also plays

Leeper May Get Chance Against Gophers.

Northwestern's first serious practice in preparation for the Minnesota game was held yesterday when the varsity scrimmaged on both offense and defense.

It was the first appearance of the week for a number of the regulars, including Capt. Pug Rentner and Ollie Olson. Benefits of the two day rest were evident. The running of Rentner, Sullivan and Leeper was especially impressive.

Leeper May Play.

Leeper, a sophomore half back, has been outstanding the last few practices and may be used against Minnesota. Chilly Sutton, full back, who has been out nearly all season with a sprained ankle, also is being groomed for the game.

Much time was spent yesterday in effecting a defense for the line plunging of Manders, Minnesota full back. Last year Manders crashed the Wildcat line for two touchdowns in the first quarter.

Manders Another Horstmann.

Minnesota is expected to present much the same attack Northwestern encountered against Purdue. Manders is the same type of player as Horstmann, Purdue full back, who battered holes in Northwestern's line. Other Gopher backs the Wildcats respect are Capt. Walter Haas and Lund, sophomore half back.

Following today's drill the Northwestern squad will leave for Minneapolis on the Northwestern limited, boarding the train at Davis street in Evanston at 8:49 o'clock. Thirty-four players will make the trip. They are:

Half backs—Fred Lind, Harry Leeper, Pug Rentner, Jakie Sullivan, Walter Stanul, William Lehnhardt.
Quarter backs—George Potter, Al Kawal.
Full backs—Ollie Olson, Roy Augustson, Chester Sutton, Julian Bennett.
Ends—Dick Fenci, Edgar Manske, Arthur Jens, Vincent Thoma, James Buechel, Howard Kosnde, Lyle Fisher.
Tackles—Bill Riley, Bob Gonya, Frosty Frobers, Ken Zuper, John Heuss.
Guards—George Dilley, Cliff Kinder, Ed Whalen, Leon Witkowski, Jerome Gottschalk, Jos Lancoque, Elmer Anderson.
Centers—Paul McDonald, Harold Weldin, L. F. Hamilton.

MINNESOTA PRACTICES TRICKS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Forgetting defense for the time being, the Minnesota football squad went through a long drill on new plays tonight as it prepared for the Northwestern game on Saturday. It was the first offensive practice of the week.

Coach Bernie Bierman ordered all spectators barred from the field as he went to work on new plays. It was the second time this year that sidelinera had been kept from practice.

Al Papas, substitute end, who injured his knee in practice early in the week, probably will be lost for the rest of the season. Papas pulled a ligament which, according to Dave Woodward, trainer, will require several weeks to heal.

Because neither Gay, tackle, nor Bruhn, guard, were able to practice today, reserves received most of the instruction. Hribar was used at left half in place of Lund, who spent the afternoon kicking and catching punts. Walt Hass will play safety Saturday, but Bierman wants Lund ready in case the captain is forced from the game.

MOHLER TO HELP JONES COACH TROJAN BACKS

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Coach Howard Jones today set about rebuilding the University of Southern California back field for the remainder of the football season, with his star quarter back, Orville Mohler, transformed from player to assistant coach.

Mohler's name was written off the varsity roster yesterday when athletic authorities at the university decided further competition might jeopardize his life because of recurrence of a spinal injury sustained a year ago. Unwilling to drop the game completely in the middle of his senior year, Mohler offered to assist Jones during the remainder of the season without remuneration. The request was granted.

TALKING IT OVER

BY ARCH WARD.

SOME of the newspaper boys in Minneapolis and Indianapolis have been outraged by officiating which they allege to be incompetent in Big Ten football this season. Officiating usually is a thankless task.

MAJ. JOHN L. GRIFFITH.

It occasionally becomes downright dangerous in a sport like football where crowds frequently are extremely partisan.

If the fans knew the men who worked the games and how they were chosen and appointed, it might not only help the game and the officials but also add to the enjoyment of the spectators. In the opinion of most coaches and athletic directors, the officials who handle Big Ten football games are the most competent to be found anywhere. Few of them are dependent upon the revenue [$75 a game] for a livelihood. Most of them are successful business or professional men. Therefore, it reasonably can be presumed that their integrity is unassailable.

A conference committee composed of Maj. John L. Griffith, Dean C. C. Williams of Iowa, and Prof. Thomas E. French of Ohio State appoints the officials for all games between Big Ten teams.

The committee attempts to obtain the best officiating talent available. Let Maj. Griffith tell you how the officials are chosen.

"It is fairly simple," he said, "to rate Charlie Grimm as a first baseman or a batter but it is not possible to give him a scientific rating based on the law of averages in the same way as a manager. I am not even intimating that Grimm is not as great a manager as he is a first baseman but am only suggesting that his fielding and batting averages can easily be computed while his ranking as a manager must always be a matter of opinion. The situation with regard to football officials is exactly the same.

"This being true we each year get the opinion of the ten football coaches regarding the abilities of the men who officiate in conference games. Each coach is asked to rate the referee from 1 to 15 and the umpires, head linesmen, and field judges the same. By adding the rating figures of John Schommer, for instance, as an umpire and dividing by the number of coaches, we know how he rates in the opinion of the ten coaches.

"Comparing Schommer's rating with that of the other umpires we then find according to the consensus of the coaches he rates first, second, third, or whatever it may be. The coaches year after year agree to a remarkable extent regarding the efficiency of the men who work conference games.

"After compiling the opinions of the coaches we attempt to get the estimates of other officials. These men are just as anxious as any one that the games be well handled and they are frank and fair in expressing their opinions of fellow officials.

"In addition to getting the estimates of coaches and officials," Maj. Griffith stated, "we try to see as many of the men in action as possible. At the end of the season we group the officials for the four positions—referee, umpire, field judge, and head linesman—and attempt to choose six first string referees, umpires, etc., for the following year. Now and then a man will be given high rating in one or more positions. For example, Col. H. B. Hackett has earned a high place both as a referee and a field judge. He prefers, however, to serve as a field judge and consequently is so listed."

The 24 men who under this system are working as first string officials this season are:

| | | Field | Head |
|---|---|---|---|
| Referee. | Umpire. | Judge. | linesman. |
| Birch | Haines | Daniels | Graves |
| Gardner | Hedges | Hackett | Kearns |
| Lambert | Knight | Huegel | Lipp |
| Maridaobn | Macks | Lourie | Ray |
| Masker | Reid | Morton | Wyatt |
| Nichols | Schommer | Simpson | Young |

The six referees listed above have had a total of 130 years experience in football officiating and the umpires approximately 120.

So when one of these gentlemen calls a 15 yard penalty for illegal use of the hands just when your favorite team is about ready to make a touchdown, don't demand that he be lynched on the spot. He is trying to do his duty as he sees it.

You wouldn't want the boys at the office to tear you limb from limb if you happened to make an honest mistake.

WHOLE SEASON IS SUCCESS IF CHICAGO WINS

But Stagg Starts His Fearing.

The Chicago Maroons went through their daily football routine yesterday with a zest that indicated they have no intention of being caught off their guard when Illinois invades Chicago Saturday for the final clash between the two oldest coaches in years of service in the Big Ten.

To the Maroons and to Coach Stagg as to the Illini and Coach Bob Zuppke, Saturday's encounter is something more than just another conference football game. It's the high spot of the football season, and the Maroons will regard Coach Stagg's final season a big success if they win just this one and then lose all the rest of the games on their schedule.

Several factors enter into this attitude which the Maroons have assumed toward their downstate foes. In the first place, the rivalry between Chicago and Illinois is one of the oldest and most intense in the Western conference, extending as it does over a period of more than forty years. For years Chicago was the one opponent whom the Illini desired most to beat and until the advent of Coach Zuppke it was an ambition seldom realized. Then came the slump in the power of Maroon elevens and for a time the rivalry, at least from the point of view of Illinois, lacked some of its old vigor, as the Orange and Blue teams concentrated their attention on whipping stronger foes.

They're on Same Plane Again.

But in the last two years, with Illini football fortunes down to subpar values along with those of Chicago, the old flame of rivalry has been rekindled and the Orange and Blue see a chance of winning once again, a sensation it hasn't experienced in the Big Ten since the Chicago game of two years ago. Illinois may not win any other games, but if it beats Chicago it will have salvaged something from an almost hopeless season.

The Maroons, with a victory over Indiana, have a chance to stay in the running for a first division berth in the conference if they beat Illinois, and two victories for the year will be an increase of 100 per cent over its record of last year. The Maroons, of course, haven't abandoned hope of upsetting Purdue, Michigan, and Wisconsin, but if they have to confine themselves to winning one more game they would rather it would be from Illinois than any other team.

Coach Stagg, however, has already started his annual fearing act and is being unusually fearful of Illinois.

"It's going to be terribly hard for us to win," he said yesterday, and he meant it.

Freshmen Are Stopped.

For the second successive day he had the better of his two varsity teams working on the defensive, with the second eleven going through the offensive gyrations of his new whirlwind shift.

Yesterday's defensive team, however, showed obvious improvement over its previous day's work, and the blue jerseyed freshmen had difficulty in making their runs and passes go.

That the Maroons will play without their star, Pete Zimmer, appeared almost a certainty yesterday. Zimmer's knee is still being subjected to long heat treatments, and the feeling of the trainers is that he should take no chances this week, what with Purdue, Michigan and Wisconsin following the Illini on Chicago's schedule. Zimmer's worth became painfully apparent when practice got under way and there was no key-man to build around.

Stagg to Get "I" Blanket.

Plans of the Illini to honor Coach Stagg at Saturday's game, which will be the 36th and possibly the last time the Old Man will lead a team against the Orange and Blue, were disclosed yesterday. The Tribe of the Illini will invest Stagg with an "I" blanket, symbolizing the varsity letter. In a brief ceremony before the game, Howard B. Hair, former president of the Illini Club of Chicago, suggested the presentation. A committee composed of Glen Paxton, incumbent president of the club, Hair, Ralph Chapman and George E. Woods will present the blanket.

BODMAN REPORTS TO ILLINI.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Jack Bodman, veteran guard, was in the Illinois line again today after being kept out of the Michigan game last week with an injured shoulder. Hal Petty was at the other guard in an attempt to strengthen the line for the Chicago game Saturday.

Red Gragg and Julius Hoeft were the tackles and Ivan Schustek and Casey Straw the ends. Bob Bloom played center.

The new combination was effective against the freshmen on defense. Rigid defensive drill will be stressed for the remainder of the week.

So far the varsity has been successful at stopping the Chicago attack, but some difficulty has been experienced with the whirlwind shift. Zeke Seamans was at full back. Herm Waiser and Ed Snavely also are being made ready for the Chicago game.

MISS MELODY IS GREAT JUVENILE; SHE PROVES IT

Whips All Star Field at Sportsman's Park.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Miss Melody, from Stuyvesant Peabody's stable, is the champion of the 2 year olds in Chicago as the fall racing season nears the end.

She proved her right to the coronet in the Garfield Park purse at Sportsman's park yesterday, when, after a determined drive down the stretch she got the decision over the consistent and fleet running Miss Brilliant.

Ever since the Chicago racing season opened nearly six months ago Miss Melody has been bidding for high honors, but she didn't seem to hit her stride until the racing started over the half mile track at Sportsman's Park.

In this uncertain and thrilling racing she has conquered all the leading 2 year olds and fought the elder sprinters back. Her triumph over Miss Brilliant yesterday over a track that was deep in mud left no doubt about her supremacy.

Takes Early Lead, Holds It.

Miss Melody was away from the barrier in third place, Jockey Cunningham shot her to the front and she stayed there for the entire route.

It was no easy job for her to stay out in front for Miss Brilliant, a noted mud runner, was challenging time after time. The latter staged a last spectacular challenge on the final turn. Miss Melody, racing in the deepest going near the rail, came again and killed off Miss Brilliant. She pulled away and won by a length and a half. Alma S., which never threatened the two leaders, landed in third place.

The others, including Bright Chestnut, Night Jasmine and Odd Star, were far back. The betters flocked to Miss Melody and, when the final payoff came, she paid $5.04 to win, $3.04 to place and $2.64 to show. Miss Brilliant paid $4.30 to place and Alma S. $4.18 to show.

Victory Is Popular.

This was the most stylish field that has contested a race at Sportsman's Park this fall and the result brought noisy cheers, for Miss Melody was the one most everybody seemed to have wanted to win.

Miss Melody is a daughter of Prince of Wales, the great sprinter which raced for E. B. McLean a few years ago. Her mother is Melting Star, another highly bred thoroughbred. Miss Melody, like her daddy, may never be much more than a sprinter, but at five and six furlongs it will take a mighty horse to beat her.

OHIO LOSES BACK AND GUARD FOR WISCONSIN GAME

Oliphant Is Injured; Hosking Quits.

Columbus, O., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The services of Marshall Oliphant, understudy for Carl Cramer, Ohio State quarter back, will be lost for the Wisconsin game Saturday and probably for the Northwestern game Nov. 5. This was announced today by team physicians.

During a tag scrimmage tonight Oliphant leaped into the air for a forward pass, and in alighting suffered a sprained ankle. Rain hindered practice and only a light drill on offensive was carried on.

Guard Quits School.

John Hosking, substitute guard, withdrew from school. Hosking was one of the outstanding tackles on the freshman squad last year, but this season was shifted to guard, where reserve material was scarce.

Two other regulars on the Buckeye team who will be forced to remain on the side lines Saturday are Junius Farrell, suffering with a chipped ankle bone, and Regis Monihan, who received a sprained ankle in the first three minutes of the Pittsburgh game last week.

One Touchdown in Two Games.

Since the Wisconsin-Ohio State rivalry was renewed in 1930 only one touchdown has been scored—that on a blocked punt recovered behind the Badger goal by Tackle Bill Bell in 1931. The other game ended in a scoreless tie.

Of the ten games played to date Ohio State has won five, Wisconsin four, and one ended in a tie. The Buckeyes have scored 61 points while the Badgers have compiled 77. Following are the previous scores:

1913—Ohio State, 0; Wisconsin, 12.
1914—Ohio State, 6; Wisconsin, 7.
1915—Ohio State, 0; Wisconsin, 21.
1916—Ohio State, 14; Wisconsin, 13.
1917—Ohio State, 16; Wisconsin, 3.
1918—Ohio State, 3; Wisconsin, 14.
1919—Ohio State, 3; Wisconsin, 0.
1920—Ohio State, 13; Wisconsin, 7.
1930—Ohio State, 0; Wisconsin, 0.
1931—Ohio State, 6; Wisconsin, 0.

BADGERS WORK IN MUD.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin football team today took its last heavy workout before the Ohio State game Saturday. The field was sloppy after a 24 hour rain.

In spite of the loss of Charles [Buckets] Goldenberg, who has been barred from all university sports for the rest of this semester because he cut classes too often, the Badgers appeared in high spirits.

Although the ball carriers had some difficulty maintaining their balance on the slippery turf, the Badgers were given what probably was the most strenuous practice session of the season. This was to make up for the loss of scrimmage yesterday when the team was forced indoors by rain.

HOOSIERS SHOW SPIRIT.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Indiana university's football team went through a long dummy scrimmage today and for the first time this week the spirits of the Hoosiers rose considerably.

Coach E. C. Hayes continued to concentrate on the sophomore and reserve material in preparation for the Mississippi game in fulfillment of the promise he made early in the week after the Chicago defeat.

Sophomores who are getting a chance in the line are Harold Beeson, Jack Sprauer, Wes Busbee, and Richard Zo. Antonini, center and Howorth and Tiernan, ends, are veterans who have been near the top all year but have been looking better than ever of late.

PURDUE POLISHES UP.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Purdue's football squad received its final polishing tonight for the first Boilermaker invasion of New York City in history to meet the New York university eleven Saturday in Yankee stadium. Following a light drill yesterday, the first of the week, a more strenuous workout was ordered this afternoon as the players rid themselves of the kinks accumulated in the last month. The squad will leave here tomorrow noon, arriving Friday morning in New York, where it will make its headquarters at the Westchester Country club.

Kizer announced tonight that he would start the same lineup against the Violet that began the Wildcat game. The squad as a whole appeared to be in excellent physical condition, and its main worries were centered about the strain of the fourth successive hard game.

New York's heavy line, despite the line crashing ability of Roy Horstmann, may force the Boilermakers to take to the air, and a good part of the afternoon's offensive drill was devoted to polishing up the forward passing game.

IOWA OFF TO WASHINGTON.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The University of Iowa football squad of 33 players today set out on a 1,000 mile jaunt to Washington, D. C., where the Hawkeyes will meet George Washington university Friday night. It will be the first Iowa invasion of the east since Coach Howard Jones' team met Yale ten years ago. Coach Solem's eleven also will be the first Big Ten team to play in the nation's capital.

The squad took a final home workout on signals and passing early this afternoon before boarding the train. It will hold final practice under the floodlights of the Colonial stadium Thursday night.

Coach Solem said he does not contemplate changing the starting lineup which entered the Minnesota game last week. George Teyro, quarter back; Herman Schneidman and Joe Laws, half backs, and Bernard Page, full back, will receive the first call. They average only 163 pounds.

Little Signs for 3 Years at Columbia

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Simultaneous with the start of a special committee investigation into professionalism charges, Columbia university authorities today signed Lou Little, head football coach, to a new three year contract, although official confirmation will be withheld until the end of the season.

This vote of confidence gesture toward Little, who has revivified Columbia football, leaked out as the committee, appointed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, belatedly sought to run down charges published in the college paper last year and revived this fall that football men were favored in the allocation of jobs and alumni scholarships as well as by the faculty in classrooms.

Takes $3,500 Cut.

"There will be no announcement regarding Coach Little until after the close of the 1932 season," said the official athletic office announcement. Little explained that he "couldn't talk about it until after the season is over."

Little is understood to have accepted a reduction of $3,500 yearly, his new contract calling for $15,000 annually, instead of the $18,500 agreement he received upon coming here from Georgetown three years ago. The Lions rolled over all but Cornell last fall and are undefeated so far this season.

Stevens Eager to Retire.

The rumblings at Yale over the worst start in the history of any Eli eleven does not affect Mal Stevens, young head coach. Anxious to devote all his time to his medical career, Stevens agreed reluctantly to remain this year at Yale. He has announced previously he cannot return next fall.

Two of the men most prominently mentioned as possible head coaches in 1933 represent the two extremes of the Eli ranks—Amos Alonzo Stagg, recently dethroned after 41 years at Chicago, and Albie Booth, star half back last fall.

Rumors persist that Frank Cavanaugh will not return as Fordham's head coach next fall.

WESLEYAN HOLDS LONG DRILL FOR EUREKA BATTLE

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The Illinois Wesleyan football squad engaged in a long scrimmage today after two days of comparatively light drill. The team expects a strong running and passing offense from the invading Eureka college eleven Saturday and a long practice on pass defense was ordered. Wesleyan's 200 pound line will outweigh the Eureka forward wall, so no great line plunging attack is anticipated.

No Wesleyan team has lost to a Eureka college eleven since 1921, so the local school is seeking its eleventh consecutive victory over the Christians.

Although Co-Capt. Paul Hensel ran at his half back position yesterday, it was announced today that he would be unable to play in the Eureka game, as an old knee injury has been aggravated in practice. Paul Weger, who started the Millikin game in Hensel's place, probably will fill the vacancy Saturday.

DETROIT TO PLAY OREGON STATE ON THANKSGIVING

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Oregon State college's football team will play the University of Detroit here on Thanksgiving day.

Detroit athletic officials today agreed to the proposal advanced by Paul J. Schissler, Oregon State coach. The Oregon team plays Fordham in New York Nov. 19.

Detroit meets Michigan State on Nov. 19, and has no other game until Dec. 3, when it meets Loyola at New Orleans.

Oregon State snapped the longest winning streak a Detroit football team ever compiled when, after winning 20 games and tying one, Detroit was defeated, 14 to 7, in 1929.

Natalie Defeats Olson to Lead Billiard Play

Pasquale Natalie of Chicago clinched first place in the northern sectional pocket billiard championship tournament at the Kleckhefer Recreation last night when he defeated George Olson of Minneapolis, 100 to 13 in 20 innings. Natalie now leads the standing with four victories and no defeats, with two more games to play.

Business Picks Up; 33,000 Buy Tickets for Coast Game

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Football interest is booming so far as the annual St. Mary's-Santa Clara game is concerned. Louis Lefevre, graduate manager of St. Mary's, announced today 83,000 tickets have been sold for the game to be played here Sunday. Kezar stadium holds 59,000.

Los Indios Is Argentine Polo Victor

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Los Indios polo team defeated the international Santa Ines four today, 8 to 7, in the Argentine open polo championship tournament and qualified to meet Santa Paula, the defending champion, in their second match Sunday.

The Santa Ines lineup included Stewart Iglehart, member of the visiting squad from the United States, at back, and Stephen (Laddie) Sanford at No. 1.

A peppering rain slowed up the action and aided Los Indios in their mass attack that overcame the superior individual skill of the losers.

Sanford was high scorer for the losing team with 3 goals, while Iglehart's long drives, which pulled Santa Ines out of trouble several times and started scoring rallies, made him the individual star of the game. Carlos Land of Los Indios led both teams with 4 goals.

With Sanford and Iglehart of the Santa Ines team were Juan Benitz and Daniel Kearney, both of whom have played in the United States. The winners lined up with Audillo Bonadeo Ayrolo, Land, Andres Gazzotti, and Ramon Videla Dorna.

The lineups and summary:

TUNNEY TAKES LEGAL STEPS FOR RIGHT TO VOTE

Stamford, Conn., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Gene Tunney took legal steps today to secure the right to vote at the coming elections. The former world's heavyweight boxing champion signed a petition asking for a writ of mandamus forcing the board of registration to admit him as a voter.

The petition, which will be filed in Superior court at Bridgeport tomorrow, set forth that illness prevented Tunney from appearing before the board last Saturday when the time for swearing in voters expired. Tunney, who has been campaigning for the Democratic ticket, was under treatment in a New York hospital for a throat infection when the board met to register new voters last week.

WHY ATHLETES COLLECT BOILS TOLD DOCTORS

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Dirty sweaters and the indiscriminate swapping of gym suits sometimes bring about infections which result in boils, Dr. Dean Lewis of Baltimore, Md., told the assembly of the Interstate Post-Graduate Medical association here tonight. More men than women suffer from boils, he said, because men more often wear collars. Most boils, he pointed out, appear on the neck. He suggested that perhaps men were not as particular about keeping their necks clean as were women.

Italian Speedboat Pilot Breaks World Record

GARDONE RIVIERA, Italy, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Count Theo Rossi di Montelera of Italy, broke the world's record for speedboats of the 1½ liter class today, speeding over Lake Gardone at the rate of 88.231 kilometers an hour (54.824 miles per hour). The former record of 84.07 kilometers per hour was held by the American driver, Snoddy.

Paul Seeks Third Chicago Win in Tramblie Bout

Harry Paul, Philadelphia middleweight, will be seeking his third Chicago victory in as many starts when he boxes Ray Tramblie of Rockford at the Rainbo Fronton tomorrow night.

In his local debut at Sparta stadium last summer Paul beat Johnny Baima. He defeated Bill Hall at Northwest stadium several weeks ago. Paul gave Kid Leonard of East Moline, Ill., a hard 10 round battle at Cedar Rapids, Ia., Oct. 12, in his most recent encounter. That was his first fight under the management of Dan Parelli, who fought under the name of Young Kid Farmer 20 years ago.

Tramblie sparred several rounds with Tom Petros yesterday. In his last start Ray met Young Stubley at White City Sept. 12. Previous to that bout he stopped Joe Feldman and Bud Saltis. Tramblie has had 58 professional matches and lost 15. He knocked out Clyde Chastain and defeated Sammy [Kid] Slaughter and Johnny Burns in his more important fights.

Biff Bennett, Fort Sheridan heavyweight, and Johnny Long, Golden Gloves champion in 1931, clash in the six round semi-final. Other matches are as follows:

Eddie Gill vs. Bob Groshek [6].
Danny Neenan vs. Fred Hawkoitte [4].
Jim Richards vs. Jim Aubrey [4].
Jack O'Connell vs. John Reba [4].

Osk Till of Buffalo faces Johnny Long in a six round bout at White City next Monday. Till will be making his first start in two years. Migue Malloy is attempting to match Don Gonzales with Tony Muscarello and Billy Elmers with either Jimmy Ellopoulos or Frankie Sanello in other six round contests. Johnny Phagan and Solly Dukelsky are working at the Arcade gymnasium for their bout.

The Young Stubley-Kid Leonard 10 round match scheduled for tonight at Davenport, Ia., has been postponed until next Thursday.

Harry Dublinsky, Chicago lightweight, began workouts yesterday for a return match with Tracy Cox at Indianapolis Nov. 15. Dublinsky whipped Cox at Indianapolis Sept. 27. Harry's manager, Jack Eile, has turned down a match with Benny Bass at Philadelphia Nov. 6. Since holding Barney Ross to a draw at the Chicago Stadium a year ago, Dublinsky has fought Tony Canzoneri, Johnny Jadick, Tommy Grogan, Benny Bass, Lew Massey, Andy Callahan and Cox.

Shamrock Eleven Whips Aurora, 32-0, in Debut

South Siders Box Tonight in C. Y. O. Event

Eight new district boxing champions from the south side of Chicago will be crowned tonight as the preliminaries in the second annual Catholic Youth organization boxing tournament gets under way in the C. Y. O. athletic center at Wabash avenue and Congress street.

The card calls for 24 bouts of three two minute rounds each, after which a champion in each of the divisions will be named. The draw system will be used in determining opponents.

"Decisions will be given by an announcer, after he has consulted the point cards of the two judges and the referee," declared Packey McFarland, promotion manager, yesterday. "There can be no draws in the matches, since each judge and referee must vote for one boxer regardless of how close the bout may have been."

The grand prize in each of the weight classes of the tournament is a round trip to Panama. Divisional and sectional prizes in the form of medals, silver cups, and other trophies also will be awarded.

AFTERNOONS TO BE LADIES' DAYS AT SIX DAY RACE

The three Chicago boys in the race will be on different teams. Carl Stockholm, looked upon as Chicago's leading six day rider, will be paired with Norman Hill. Mickey Rodak will be paired with Bobby Walthour. It was originally intended to pair Walthour with Otto Petri. Petri will be teamed with Steve Wagner, north side youngster.

On the opening night of the race, Wednesday, there will be a one hour amateur team race, with 18 teams competing and a sprint every mile for points.

Credit Man Who Throws the Pass, Dorais Suggests

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Coach Charles E. Dorais, University of Detroit, thinks it is harder to throw a football pass than to catch one, and he suggests that the pass thrower be given as much credit as the receiver when it scores a touchdown.

Offering a suggestion to the rule makers, Dorais today said:

"Generally the hard part of the passing play is on the passer's end. It's harder to throw accurately when hard pressed by charging opponents than to catch a ball sailing into your hands. With the six points credited to the passer as well as the man who makes the touchdown the temptation to play an individual game wouldn't be so strong."

SPARTANS' BACK LEADS PRO STARS IN GROUND GAINED

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Earl [Dutch] Clark, member of the Portsmouth club of the National Professional Football league, is leading league ball carriers in ground gained, Clark, former Colorado college quarter back, has made 314 yards in five games.

CARDINALS SEND MOORE HOME FOR REST OF SEASON

Half Back Sustains Fracture of Collarbone.

Bucky Moore, Chicago Cardinal half back, will not play again this season, Dr. David Jones, Cardinal owner, announced last night. Moore has been under observation since the game with Boston in the east last Sunday. Against the protests of Moore, Dr. Jones ordered an X-ray taken to determine the extent of a shoulder injury. The X-ray revealed a fracture of the collar bone.

This is the second setback the Cards have received in their preparation for the Brooklyn game here Sunday. Elmer Schwartz, who was playing full back, likewise is lost to the squad. The loss of Schwartz, however, was more than offset by the acquisition of Joe Lillard.

This was Moore's first season in the National league. He played three years at Lorado university, put in a season with the Memphis semi-pro team and signed with the Cardinals this year.

The Brooklyn Dodgers arrived Monday night and have had two days' practice at Wrigley field. They lost to the Packers in the rain at Green Bay last Sunday.

"The Cardinals seem to be making a lot of noise about this Lillard," Benny Friedman, Brooklyn's skipper and star, said yesterday. "But Chicago fans haven't seen a half back until they see Grossman, our new man from Rutgers. Any time a chap breaks into this league and becomes one of the leaders in gaining ground he's got something."

Bridge Stars Start Bid for VanderbiltCup

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Ninety-six contract bridge players began play at the Ritz-Carlton hotel today, for the Vanderbilt trophy, the most coveted bridge prize. Twenty-four teams of four were entered in the first round elimination play.

The players were divided into four sections, six teams in each, with every team playing six hands against the others. A similar arrangement was followed tonight. The four leading teams in each section resume play tomorrow night and continuing through Saturday, when the semi-finals will be played.

Ely Culbertson and his three teammates, Oswald Jacoby, Theodore Lightner, and Michael Gottlieb, were in section 1 seeking to regain the trophy which was won last year by P. Hal Sims' team. Sims presided over a foursome in section 2. His team includes Willard Karn, Waldemar von Zedtwitz and Harold S. Vanderbilt, donor of the trophy.

Calumet Track Ready for Races on Sunday

The Calumet Speedbowl, 169th and Torrence, will be ready for racing Sunday, the heavy rains having settled the earth on the banked curves. Out of town drivers here for the card which was rained out last week will compete Sunday. Five races, all sprint events, are scheduled.

Oak Park Game Bars Evanston's March to Title

Evanston High school's football team encounters Oak Park, the chief obstacle in its path to the Suburban league football championship at Evanston Saturday afternoon. It will be the semi-final game of the league season for the unbeaten Evanston squad. Oak Park, 1931 champion, recently defeated by New Trier, will be without the services of Johnny Armour, star half back, and Roy Zinkle, end, who were injured during practice several days ago.

Led by Champion and Frank, who are tied for the league scoring honors, Evanston has scored three consecutive victories, defeating Morton, Proviso, and Deerfield. Oak Park has played only two league games, winning from Deerfield, 19 to 7, and losing to New Trier.

McKinley will conclude its 1932 Chicago Public High School league season against Harrison Tech Saturday afternoon. The game will be played as part of a double header at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue. In the other game Marshall will battle Crane Tech, which occupies third place in the west section standings.

East Aurora will meet Elgin in a Big Six high school conference game at Elgin's field tomorrow night. Two conference games are scheduled for Saturday afternoon, Joliet facing Rockford on the latter's field, and Freeport traveling to West Aurora.

Ernie Paulson, 135 pound right half back, who has been leading Morgan Park Military academy's eleven, is rated as the outstanding player in the Midwest Prep conference.

Two players, Downey, full back, and Winnebeck, end, have returned to the St. Philip lineup, having fully recovered from injuries. They will play against Fenwick Sunday afternoon at Crevier stadium, Van Buren and Albany streets. Fenwick is tied for the west section lead in the Chicago Catholic High School league.

Emerson and Gary will meet in their annual game at Gary, Ind., tomorrow night. Each has won one and lost two in the west division of the Northern Indiana High School conference.

Ninety lightweight candidates reported for the first basketball practice at Marshall. Thirty-five will seek places on the heavyweight squad.

MRS. CARL BUHL SUED FOR $2,000 BY SON'S WIDOW

Defendant Is Heiress of Schoenhofen Estate.

Mrs. Lothar Buhl, 39 years old, a resident of the Mercy convent, 20 East 20th street, filed the praecipe of a $2,000 suit for breach of contract yesterday against her mother-in-law, Mrs. Carl Buhl of the Park Lane hotel, heiress of the Schoenhofen fortune. The defendant is the widow of an official of the Schoenhofen Brewing company and the daughter of its founder, Peter Schoenhofen.

MRS. LOTHAR BUHL

In the offices of her attorney, William L. Howard, the younger Mrs. Buhl yesterday explained her action, charging that her mother-in-law had failed to keep an agreement to pay her $50 a month for four years, entered into following the death of Lothar Buhl in 1924.

Pays Only Two Years.

Under the agreement, the plaintiff said, she left the United States and returned to her home at Cannes, France, where her mother-in-law continued to make the payments for two years, then informed her no further funds would be forthcoming.

This agreement, explained Mrs. Lothar Buhl, had been signed by her as a result of the estrangement of her husband from his family which developed during the world war. At that time her husband's father, Carl Buhl, was in Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, and was unable to return to the United States. All his family except her husband, Lothar, Mrs. Buhl explained, were German sympathizers. Lothar had been active with her in work for the French Red Cross, she said.

Asked to Leave Home.

In 1920, she said, her husband was stricken with tuberculosis and the differences with his family were adjusted. After his death, however, the elder Mrs. Buhl asked her to leave the home. Mrs. Lothar Buhl said she agreed and signed papers in which renounced all rights to her husband's share of his father's large estate.

In 1929 she returned to the United States and sought to enforce the contract. Negotiations were conducted with Mrs. Carl Buhl's attorneys, but these were broken off when the praecipe was filed yesterday. The suit has been assigned to Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor Jr. Mrs. Lothar Buhl said she soon would appear in court to ask a writ of ne exeat to prevent her mother-in-law from going to Frankfort where she plans to reside with a daughter.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: The Sandwich Man

$538,763 INHERITANCE TAX ON ROSENWALD ESTATE IS APPROVED

County Judge J. G. Van Keuren yesterday approved a state inheritance tax of $538,763 against the estate of the late Julius Rosenwald. The assessment was presented to the court by Assistant Attorney General Harry Ash, who valued Mr. Rosenwald's estate at $31,202,320 for inheritance tax purposes.

The estate is the second largest ever probated in Cook county, being exceeded only by that of Marshall Field.

In fixing the state taxes, deductions of $16,820,127 for debts were allowed by the court, of which about $13,000,000 is bank loans, including a $5,825,000 loan from the Chase National bank of New York. The $5,825,000 represented the amount put up by Mr. Rosenwald to cover stock market losses of Sears, Roebuck & Co. employés in the 1929 crash.

Also allowed as a deduction from the estate was $11,000,000 which Mr. Rosenwald left to the Rosenwald Family association.

Outside court Mr. Ash said the federal inheritance taxes should not exceed $125,000.

Attorneys said none of the Sears, Roebuck & Co. stock, of which the estate holds more than 700,000 shares, will be sold to meet the tax bills.

WENSEL MORAVA WILL DISTRIBUTES ESTATE OF $500,000

The late Wensel Morava, consulting engineer, left a bequest of $80,000 in trust to the University of Illinois, the income of which will pay for a scholarship for a male student of Czechoslovakian descent. This was disclosed when his will, disposing of his $500,000 estate was admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the probate judge.

After leaving bequests of $10,000 to his secretary, Miss Helen Dwyer, and $30,000 to a sister, Mary, Morava divided the balance of his property into sixths, giving four parts to his widow, Mrs. Frances B. Morava, 4846 Kenwood avenue, and one each to John H. Morava, a nephew, and Marie M. Benes, a niece, of Prague. Mr. Morava was 73 years old when he died last Oct. 13.

I. C. C. DENIES IT HAS CONTROL IN BROADCASTING

Body Rules It Has No Jurisdiction.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Radio broadcasting companies were held today by the interstate commerce commission not to be subject to its jurisdiction.

A complaint brought by the Sta-Shine Products company, Inc., of Brooklyn, N. Y., against the National Broadcasting company, Inc., and others, assailing rates and practices of the defendant broadcasters as unreasonable and discriminatory, was dismissed.

Not Within Law.

The commission, under the interstate commerce act, has jurisdiction over common carriers engaged in the transmission of intelligence by wire or wireless for hire, but it held that broadcasting does not come within the law.

"The provisions of the act," the commission said, "are undoubtedly applicable to the transmission of wireless messages by persons or concerns engaged in the transmission of such messages as common carriers for hire, that is, common carriers holding themselves out to transmit for the public at large and deliver such messages to a designated receiver. But can it be construed as applying to persons or concerns engaged merely in the business of broadcasting as performed by defendants here? We are of the opinion that it can not be so construed."

Broadcasting Then Unknown.

When the commission in 1920 was accorded jurisdiction by congress over radio messages, the commission said, the art of broadcasting was unknown, the first attempt at public broadcasting having been made in the late fall of 1920 by station KDKD at Pittsburgh, Pa., almost ten months after the passage of the act giving the commission power to regulate transmission of wireless messages by radio apparatus.

3 YEAR OLD CHILD IS KIDNAPED IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Search for Nancy Irene Buchanan, three year old fosterdaughter of Mrs. Violet C. Buchanan, wealthy widow, was started tonight by authorities who said they believed extortionists had kidnaped the child as they had threatened in a series of letters to Mrs. Buchanan.

The child, police said, disappeared after a nurse, whose name was withheld, had placed the infant in its crib for an afternoon nap. Three men and one woman, whose names police declined to reveal, were in the Buchanan home during the day, but could not explain the disappearance.

Two investigators, Harry Cline and Charles Hayworth of the district attorney's office, said Mrs. Buchanan had received letters demanding $12,500 to prevent kidnaping of the child.

GRAIN PRICES AT LOWEST IN MAN'S MEMORY

World Battle On for Export Trade.

WHEAT, $9; SAWDUST, $10

CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Wheat is being sold for $9 a ton, while the prevailing price for sawdust is $10 a ton, the solicitor for a Calgary district farmer told the master in chambers during a hearing at the courthouse here.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Caught in an avalanche of world-wide price cutting, grain values in the pits of the Chicago Board of Trade and other American exchanges yesterday dropped to the lowest levels on record. As a result thousands of bulletin boards at country grain stations in the middle west were chalked up with prices the lowest in the memory of living men and in a few interior stations bidding on any basis was entirely suspended.

Even lower than in the panicky days of 1896, corn, wheat, and oats were priced in Illinois, Iowa, and the southwest at less than half the freight rates required to bring them to Chicago, and one-fourth of the bare cost of getting them to an export market.

Corn Sells at 7 Cents.

Cash sales of the new corn crop grading No. 4 were at 7 to 8 cents a bushel in central Iowa and Nebraska, with Illinois and Indiana prices a cent or two higher. In Chicago the best bids were only 21 to 22½ cents. After deducting the cost of husking, shelling, and delivering the corn to a shipping point, farmers found themselves receiving almost nothing, at these prices, to satisfy an investment of seed, soil preparation, a season's work, and taxes on their land.

Records of freight rates and cash corn sales at country points exist only as far back as 1866. A study of these yesterday failed to disclose anything as low as yesterday's quotations. In 1896, it was found, millions of bushels of corn were bought without grade by Chicago firms at about 6 cents a bushel. Comparable corn yesterday was worth only 12 cents a bushel on track in Chicago, less than the actual cost of delivery from western Illinois or Iowa.

Worth Less than Storage.

In a frantic move to export as much of the crop as possible, local merchants have chartered every inch of shipping space on the Great Lakes for the balance of the season, which runs to Dec. 10. Not in a decade has the water shipment been so heavy, boats being loaded from Chicago and South Chicago the hour they dock. Nearly 5 million bushels of 1932 corn have been shipped already, while millions of bushels of old corn lie in the grain elevators, priced at less than the storage charges piled up against them.

Farmers foresaw no opportunity of relieving conditions this fall as was done in a similar crisis in 1896. At that time, with no interstate commerce commission in existence, railroads accepted grain at rates 60 per cent under the then published schedules. A move has been launched this week, led by George E. Booth, president of the Grain Dealers' national association, to obtain an emergency 50 per cent reduction on present grain rates, but little hope exists in getting them under federal regulation for several weeks.

Corn Passes In Shipment.

Singularly, the export shipments of corn are going largely through Montreal to Scandinavian countries, Holland, Belgium and France, at the same time that Canada is importing corn from South America, laid down in Montreal under preferential tariffs, at less than the Chicago corn prices plus the tariffs. American corn passes southern hemisphere corn in the St. Lawrence weekly, the former unable to take the latter's Canadian customers.

Wheat prices in Kansas yesterday dropped to 20 cents a bushel, the lowest on record there, and representing about one-fourth of the production cost. Wheat prices in Chicago were swept downward drastically in two days, after removal Monday of a pegged price of 50 cents a bushel in Winnipeg. Canadian prices have been kept 2 cents under Chicago prices, considering allowance for money exchange, all this week.

Determined on Export.

Grain merchants in Chicago attribute the action to a determination of Canada to export one of its largest surpluses in the next few weeks at any price it can obtain. The total import needs of the world are about 700 millions. Canada and the United States together have nearly 900 millions, and by January Argentina and Australia will have 300 millions more.

Less American wheat has been exported since July this year than for 3 decades or more, a total of only 14 million bushels. Throughout the last three years of federal stabilization activities American wheat has been unable to compete with other grain exporting nations. Canada, through its pools and governmental aid has also endeavored to stave off liquidation.

This week, with removal of some federal restrictions on trading in Chicago, and the removal of the "plug" in Canadian prices, grain merchants forecast a gigantic international struggle to liquidate at any cost. Corn, oats and other farm products are caught in the whirlpool of price cutting in wheat.

Corn 7 Cents in Indiana.

Noblesville, Ind., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The Noblesville Milling company, one of the largest buyers of grain in the central states, this afternoon quoted a price of 7 cents a bushel for new corn which is the lowest figure that has been paid for the crop in this section of the country in seventy years. Farmers are using it for fuel instead of wood and coal.

Move to Check Sales Methods on Farm Bonds

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The Investment Bankers' association having announced that it will champion the cause of the holder of joint stock land bank bonds, a complete airing of the manner in which government agencies high pressured investors into buying these securities is expected in the near future.

At their convention at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., this week, the investment bankers passed a resolution demanding that holders of joint stock land bank bonds be accorded the same kind of treatment as holders of federal land bank bonds. Thus far the federal government has bolstered up the federal land banks financially but has turned a deaf ear to the "joints."

Congress to Hear Of It.

Representatives of holders of joint stock land bank bonds have announced their intention to have the whole matter aired at the next session of congress in the hope that the federal government may be induced to make good its word, given at the time the bonds were sold, that they were "instrumentalities" of the United States government.

This movement gains added significance from the fact that one of its principal leaders is Congressman Henry T. Rainey, Democratic floor leader in the house of representatives.

The bondholders' cause is summarized in a pamphlet recently published by counsel for the Joint Stock Land Bankers' association.

The United States government presented the federal farm loan system to the nation in 1916. Land banks were established under strict federal supervision to sell bonds to the investing public and to use the proceeds to lend money to farmers on mortgages.

What Leaders Said.

The Joint Stock Land Bankers' association pamphlet presents the following quotations from authoritative sources at the time the public was being urged to buy these bonds.

Senator Carter Glass (then chairman of the joint senate and house committee on rural credits):

". . . With this longtime amortization plan of the act approved by the President today the farmers of the United States have a system of credits upon which to conduct their operations that gives them advantages beyond the conception of the most hopeful of their sound leaders. Of course, there is no 'corn tassel' or 'printing press' nonsense about the new law. It is a measure of real substance."

Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo:

". . . Under the new system the farmer ought to be able to pay the interest on his mortgage and the principal of his debt through annual installments, which will be less than the straight interest charges he had been paying on his mortgage under the old system."

Wilson Called Them Good.

President Wilson:

"I look forward to the benefits of this bill, not with extravagant expectations, but with confident expectation that it will be of very wide reaching benefit, and, incidentally, it will be of advantage to the investing community, for I can imagine no more satisfactory and solid investments than this system will afford those who have money to use. I sign the bill, therefore, with real emotion."

Congress decreed:

"First mortgages executed to federal land banks, or to joint stock land banks, and farm loan bonds issued under the provisions of this act shall be deemed and held to be instrumentalities of the government of the United States, and as such they and the income derived therefrom shall be exempt from federal, state, municipal, and local taxation."

Advertised as "Governments."

On Nov. 14, 1919, joint stock land bank bonds were advertised for sale in New York newspapers as follows:

"Safety: These bonds are issued under the federal farm loan act. They are declared to be instrumentalities of the United States government and are prepared and engraved by the treasury department. The bonds are secured by government approved first mortgages or by United States government bonds or certificates of indebtedness."

The investor who bought these bonds and was content with the modest 4 to 5 per cent interest yield because he believed they were backed by the United States government is preparing to demand that congress make good on the "instrumentality" promise.

FIRST SHIPLOAD OF SO. AFRICAN CORN AT QUEBEC

QUEBEC, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The first of eight shipments of South African corn was being discharged here today from the S. S. Tiberton. Seven other shiploads are expected either in Montreal or Quebec before the season closes.

In other years Canada has imported its corn requirements from Argentina and the United States, but with a duty of 25 cents a bushel against the American product and 20 cents against the Argentina a very definite preference is afforded to South Africa.

Today's shipment amounted to 297,000 bushels and it is expected 2 million bushels will be unloaded in St. Lawrence ports before the close of navigation. The corn is to be used for feed purposes.

BANKERS URGE CLEAR REPORTS FROM UTILITIES

Ballantine Explains Treasury Position.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Oct. 27.—Demand for frequent and detailed statements of everything affecting earnings and financial conditions of public utility holding companies was made in the final session of the Investment Bankers association today.

The association urged that the corporate form of such companies should be as simple as possible and the statements made frequently "so security holders may not be deceived by complicated intercompany transactions and may have the fullest possible information on which to estimate the value of their securities."

The action came in the approval of the public service securities committee's report, which included these suggestions and the additional one that "reputable firms should refuse to deal in securities of companies that do not give such information and should not recommend them to their customers."

Ballantine Hopeful.

The government's financial position as reflected by the amount of the deficit reported by the treasury, is by no means disturbing, Arthur A. Ballantine, under secretary of the treasury, told the delegates.

"What the position of the government will be at the end of the fiscal year 1933 depends upon the total of expenditures and revenues for the full 12 months' period," said Mr. Ballantine.

"Expenditures so far this year included an item of $100,000,000 for adjusted service certificates which was not included in the comparable period of last year. Expenditures later on in the last fiscal year included many large emergency items not to be repeated this year, such as expenditures for the capital stock of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the federal land banks, together amounting to $625,000,000.

"The full revenue effects of the new tax measure cannot be judged from its early operation. New miscellaneous taxes have been slow in becoming reflected in the revenues.

Revenue to Increase.

"In addition it should not be forgotten that returns under the new income tax rates and provisions will not be reflected until March, 1933, and that no estate tax at the new rates will be payable until June, 1933. The new revenue measure will prove increasingly effective as time goes on.

"In appraising the financial position of the government it should be remembered that as the months pass funds that have been advanced to the Reconstruction Finance corporation will be returned to the treasury. Up to Oct. 20, the total of the amount paid in to the Reconstruction Finance corporation was in excess of 1 billion 100 million dollars. The providing of these funds added a corresponding amount to the public debt, but the loans are already being repaid. Up to Oct. 20 repayments of loans made by the Reconstruction Finance corporation had amounted to about 230 million dollars.

"Calls for funds for advances by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to financial institutions have steadily diminished."

Report on Municipals.

Expressing the belief that municipal credit is still entitled to rank as the premier investment medium of the country, next to United States government obligations, the committee on municipal securities, headed by Henry Hart, First Detroit company, Inc., presented its report based on a year's study, including an exhaustive survey of defaults.

No default was reported in the bonded indebtedness of any of the 48 states whose obligations total approximately 2 billion 400 million dollars. Out of 309 cities having a population in excess of 30,000, whose gross bonded debt approximates 8 billion 400 million dollars, the total amount in default amounts to 157 million dollars, or 1.8 per cent.

The convention elected the regular ticket of officers and governors. Frank M. Gordon, vice president of the First Union Trust and Savings bank, Chicago, was chosen president for the ensuing year, succeeding Col. Allan M. Pope of the First of Boston corporation. Mr. Gordon in an address to the convention said that the relationship of investment bankers to the American people, who, have supplied the capital requirements for public and private finance, is closer in these days of adversity than at any time in the history of the association.

Upward Trend in Employment Contrasts With Decline a Year Ago

Power Output Showing Best Since March

Electric power production reached the highest level last week since the middle of March. The increase recorded was the sixth successive weekly increase. The comparative showing with 1931 with a deficiency of 7.2 per cent was the best for any week since Feb. 13.

The figures compiled by the National Electric Light association showed total production for the week ended last Saturday, Oct. 22, was 1,528,145,000 kilowatt hours, as compared with 1,507,503,000 in the preceding seven day period.

Comparison Better.

The 7.2 per cent decline from a year ago compared with a spread of 9 per cent from 1931 in the week ended Oct. 15.

Output in the Chicago area gained along with other sections. Productions here last week amounted to 92,301,000 kilowatt hours. This was 8.3 per cent under last year, against 10.1 per cent decline in the preceding seven day period.

Gain Is Seasonable.

The improvement throughout the country in power output may be attributed largely to seasonal factors. The upturn, however, reverses the trend of a year ago, when output declined moderately. In the comparable weeks of 1929 and 1930, however, seasonal improvement was recorded during this period.

The New England territory made the most favorable showing, actually reporting a small increase over the like period of last year, amounting to 0.6 of 1 per cent. A week previously it had been only 0.2 of 1 per cent under 1931. The Atlantic seaboard, as a whole, including New England, was only 1.2 per cent under last year, as against 4.7 per cent in the previous week.

STERLING BREAKS TO $3.27¾, A NEW LOW FOR YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 26.—With official support still withheld sterling weakened further today although the volume of trading was small. Continued moderate short covering sustained the exchange in the morning, but in the afternoon the decline was resumed and a new low on the movement and for the year was reached at $3.27⅞. The closing quotation, $3.27¾, showed a net loss on the day of 2½ cents.

The forward market in sterling, which is being watched for a clew to immediate future of the exchange, was adversely affected by the renewed weakness in spot rates. Whereas on Tuesday the discounts on sterling futures had disappeared and given place to small premiums, future contracts this afternoon were quoted flat to a small discount under spot, thus indicating the majority of dealers expect a further decline.

Other foreign exchanges displayed a mixed trend, but the European gold standard currencies were firm. Francs rose ⅝ point to 3.93½ cents, guilders were up 3 points to 40.26 cents and Belgas and Swiss francs were unchanged at 13.92 cents and 19.31 cents, respectively.

APPROVE REPORT OF MIDDLE WEST UTILITIES AUDIT

The committee representing holders of the $40,000,000 note issue of the Middle West Utilities company at a meeting yesterday approved the report on the Middle West assets, indicating that on rock bottom estimates the company could now pay 14 per cent on the notes and, under a more favorable aspect, as much as 25 per cent. The report was drawn up by Attorney Robert N. Golding and audited by the firm of Peat, Marmick, Mitchell & Co.

The committee chairman, Charles S. Dewey, announced that an analysis of Mr. Golding's report would be printed and distributed to note depositors in about two weeks. Through Mr. Dewey the committee expressed appreciation to the Middle West receivers, Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch, for the progress the company has shown under their "efficient management."

Federal Life Co. Elects A. F. Wieland Treasurer

A. F. Wieland has been elected treasurer of the Federal Life Insurance company, according to an announcement made yesterday by the company's board of directors. For the last nine years he held the post of assistant treasurer. Previously Mr. Wieland was in charge of the accident and health underwriting of the company.

CHICAGO AREA RESERVE NOTES UPTURN IN TRADE

Store Sales Climb 40 Per Cent.

Both retail and wholesale trade in the Chicago federal reserve district expanded at a more than seasonal rate in September, according to a report on business conditions made by the reserve bank yesterday. The only exception in wholesale trade was in drugs, where the gain of 4 per cent over August was the same as in the 1923-'31 average for the period.

Wholesale grocery sales increased 9 per cent this September, compared with the average gain of 4 per cent; hardware gained 15 per cent, compared with 9 per cent; dry goods advanced 37 per cent, compared with 17 per cent; shoes were up 16⅓ per cent, compared with 5 per cent, and electrical supplies sales advanced 9 per cent, compared with the 3 per cent average.

Reductions in Declines.

Further reductions in the declines from a year ago were recorded in all lines but drugs, the report stated.

Wholesale grocery sales in the first three-quarters of 1932 were 21 per cent smaller than in the same period in 1931; hardware sales were 27 per cent less; dry goods, 32 per cent; drugs, 22 per cent; shoes, 40 per cent; and electrical supplies, 43 per cent. Prices for the most part remained steady or showed a tendency to strengthen, according to the report.

Store Sales Gain.

In retail trade, department store sales increased 40 per cent in September, as compared with the seasonal gain of 24 per cent over August. Daily average sales were half again as large as they were in August. Aggregate sales by Chicago stores increased 37 per cent over August; Detroit stores gained 63 per cent; Indianapolis, 53 per cent, and Milwaukee, 25 per cent.

As a result of the heavy increase shown in September the decline for the district of 22 per cent from a year ago was smaller than in a similar comparison for any month since September. Stocks advanced, as is usual in September, but the rise of 4½ per cent was less than seasonal.

Shoe Sales Expand.

Shoe sales expanded 75 per cent in September over August, whereas the gain in September for the seven preceding years has never been highr than 50 per cent. Retail furniture sales increased 42 per cent over August.

Sales of 15 chain store systems totaled 5 per cent larger than in August and the decrease of 14 per cent from a year ago compared with a decrease of 20 per cent in August.

IOWA GAS TAX IS DECLARED VOID BY CIRCUIT JUDGE

Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Circuit Judge Ray E. Dougherty held Iowa's three cent gasoline tax law unconstitutional in an opinion handed down today in the habeas corpus suit filed by Samuel Miller, Stevens gasoline dealer.

Iowa authorities had sought extradition of Miller on charges that he had embezzled money from the state by evading payment of gasoline taxes. Judge Dougherty recently granted the habeas corpus writ to Miller and held a governor's warrant void. His decision today was in explanation of that ruling.

The section of the Iowa law requiring payment of a one cent tax on all gasoline imported into the state was held void on the ground that it was discriminatory in favor of gasoline manufactured in the state.

EARNINGS AND DEFICITS VIE IN DAY'S REPORTS

Food Firm Profits Hold Up Well.

Results of operations in the third quarter and the first nine months of 1932 were made public yesterday by a number of leading corporations. The results reported were mixed reflecting the varying degree in which depression influences have affected different lines of business.

Standard Brands, Inc., the big combination of food products companies, gave an example of how the food industry has resisted the ravages of the depression. For the quarter ended Sept. 30 the company had net income of $3,265,506, after expenses and minority interests and federal taxes but exclusive of profit and loss items. This was equivalent to 24 cents a share on the common stock after provision for preferred dividends.

Comparision Is Good.

This compares with $4,025,682 or 31 cents a share in the June quarter and $2,748,237, or 28 cents a share, in the third quarter last year. Nine months results compared favorably with last year. Net for the period was $11,305,845, or 85 cents a share, as compared with $12,209,204, or 91 cents a share in the corresponding months of 1931.

The Studebaker corporation's report provided typifies this profitless era in the automobile industry. A deficit of $1,989,398 after all charges was shown for the third quarter. In the comparable period last year the company earned net profit of $466,770.

In the June quarter this year a loss of $1,917,015 was reported. Studebaker lost $4,390,538 in the first nine months this year thus making an unhappy comparison with the profit of $2,496,125 with the same period of 1931.

Commercial Solvents corporation reports for the September quarter net profit of $305,562, equal to 12 cents a share, compared with $295,820 or 12 cents a share in the preceding quarter and $598,258 or 23 cents a share in the September quarter, 1931. For the nine months ended Sept. 30 profit was $894,836, equal to 35 cents a share compared with $1,780,601, or 70 cents a share in the first nine months of 1931.

Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power company, Ltd., reports for the quarter ended Sept. 30 loss of $155,962 after taxes, depreciation, interest, but before depletion. This compares with loss of $150,684 in the preceding quarter. In the September quarter of the preceding year the company reported profit of $52,183. For the nine months ended Sept. 30 the company had a loss of $406,026 against profit of $229,666 before depreciation, defiation and federal taxes in the 1931 period.

Utilities Reports Profit.

American Gas and Electric company for the twelve months ended Sept. 30 reports net income of $12,953,682, equal to $2.61 a share on the common stock compared with $18,022,686 or $3.98 a share in the twelve months ended Sept. 30, 1931.

The Certain-teed Products corporation reported for the third quarter a net loss of $367,517 against a net profit of $4,222 in the corresponding 1931 period. For the first nine months of 1932, net loss amounted to $1,208,230 against $196,402 for the same 1931 period.

Auburn Automobile company and subsidiaries report for the quarter ended Aug. 31, consolidated net loss of $459,435, compared with net loss of $151,987 in the preceding quarter and with net income of $977,271, equal to $4.91 a share on common, in the third quarter of the previous fiscal year. For the nine months net loss was $603,463 and compares with net income of $3,338,446 after charges and taxes, equal to $16.77 a share on common stock for nine months ended Aug. 31, 1931.

EMPLOYES OF GEN. MOTORS UP IN SEPTEMBER

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The General Motors corporation announced today that the number of its employés in the United States had increased 2,053 for September over August.

"This represents its first increase in employment for the current year," the announcement said.

American Ice Earnings $984,082 in Third Quarter

Grocer Chain Enters War on Tax Burden

BY SCRUTATOR.

The battle of American business to force governments to eliminate extravagance and waste and to reduce taxes goes on. But so does the spending of taxpayers' money on unessential services by government departments and bureaus. The mail brings us some interesting and illuminating illustrations.

A plea that voters of all political beliefs should require every candidate for public office, federal, state, and municipal, to take a definite and specific public position on expense and taxes is being circulated by M. H. Karker, president of the Jewel Tea company, to its customers and business connections. He calls attention to the fact that the federal government incurred a deficit of $406,000,000 in the three months ended Sept. 30 in spite of additional taxes.

Demand 25% Cut.

"The budget has to be cut and expenditures must be kept within the budget," he continues. "Up to this minute reduction in government cost has not been more than 5 per cent, compared with a reduction of 27 per cent in this business and even more in others. Business has had and can have no alternative but to keep its expenses within its income or go into bankruptcy. The same alternatives face government and a reduction of 25 per cent in expense and taxes should be demanded."

In advocating a billion dollar slash in expenditures of the federal government. Mr. Karker says it must be determined which departments, bureaus, commissions and board are essential and which are nonessential. In asking that states, cities and towns reduce salaries he calls attention to a decline of 20 per cent in the cost of living.

Government Like Business.

"Manufacturers and business men have little to say about the wages which will be paid," he says. "If volume of sales goes down and customers do not pay for what they buy, the business man has no way of providing wages and there is no remedy for the situation except to get down to a balance so that he can make a profit. Until business can make a profit there is no chance of increasing or of even paying wages, and government is fundamentally no different than business.

"Even the United States cannot go on borrowing billions annually in the vain hope that some economic miracle will lift revenues to the heights of our spending ability. No miracle is in prospect and government must cease spending money that is not in the public treasury. No government is too powerful to be above insolvency if it persists in spending more than its income."

A Few More Expenses.

The same mail brings notice of some activities of the United States department of agriculture. Four savants are preparing a treatise entitled "Quality, Size, Capacity, Gross Anatomy, and History of Cow Udders in Relation to Milk Production." The notice says this publication will be ready "several weeks or possibly several months later."

If this study shouldn't excite the farmer, perhaps another announcement may interest him. The department is making a soil survey covering 15,000 acres in Nevada in the vicinity of Boulder dam, on which the government is spending around $175,000,000. It is mentioned that "irrigation is necessary for farming in that region," which suggests that much new land will be brought under cultivation and additional crops produced.

The department is testing grasses suitable for airport fields; it has found that pine wood makes good fuel, and it advises that tooth pastes are useful for cleaning the teeth, according to announcements by its own "press service."

WAGE CUTS HALT RECOVERY SAYS CREDIT LEADER

Harry H. Heimann, executive director of the National Association of Credit Men, declared last night that excessive wage cuts being made now are destroying the last vestiges of buying power and delaying business recovery. His remarks were made in an address to the Chicago branch of the association at a dinner in the Palmer House.

"I think the period of extreme penance is about over," he added, "and when we recover it will be on a sounder basis for everything."

Mr. Heimann attacked high taxation as a detrimental factor. Gasoline taxes were so high in some states, he continued, that the marginal user of cars had been forced to quit riding. He advocates the abolition at once of the "socialistic farm board."

WESTERN RAIL DICTATOR SOON TO BE SELECTED

Two Chicago Roads Report Gains.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 26.—The proposed commissioner, or so-called "dictator," which western railroads will appoint in connection with the cooperative agreement they have entered to prevent dissipation of earnings will be definitely selected and his identity disclosed later this week following a meeting of the executive committee of the Western Association of Railroad Executives, Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific railway, said today.

While the candidate has not been definitely selected, Mr. Donnelly said, Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific, who has been mentioned as the possible appointee, has stated that he would not accept the post.

Expect Western Man.

It is reported that in all probability the appointment will fall to the candidate under consideration, who is an official of one of the western carriers and is a member of a prominent railroad family. Winthrop Daniels, Walker Hines and others not in the western rail fold appear to have been eliminated as possibilities.

Loadings of the Northern Pacific continue to show an upward trend, Mr. Donnelly said, with the probability that gross for the month will exceed that of September. Although gross last month was $716,000 below that of a year ago, net operating income showed a decrease of only $62,000 and the company was able to cover charges and show a balance of $173,000.

Low Operating Ratios.

In achieving this favorable net result, the company attained an unusually low operating ratio of 68, while the transportation ratio was cut to 30, comparing with 91 and 40, respectively, for the nine month period. Elimination of unprofitable train service played an important factor in cutting the transportation expense and ratio so substantially last month, Mr. Donnelly said.

Reductions in passenger fare are not the answer to the problem as to how the carriers may make their travel service more profitable and self-supporting, Mr. Donnelly believes. Recently the interstate commerce commission sent a questionnaire to all the rail heads asking their views on this subject, pointing out that some carrier officials consider general fare reductions as the most effective method of increasing passenger travel.

Sees Cut Unlikely.

During the depression, at any rate, Mr. Donnelly said, only those who are obliged to ride will make use of the train facilities and a substantial cut in rates is unlikely, therefore, to stimulate materially the roads' passenger traffic.

The question of the continuance of the present freight surcharges was recently discussed by the Association of Railway executives in Chicago, Mr. Donnelly said, but no decision was reached regarding the advisability of asking the interstate commerce commission to continue them either with or without the pooling arrangement. The matter will be given further consideration at a meeting of the association scheduled here for Nov. 11.

EARNINGS GAINS

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroad yesterday reported that its September earning was the best of any month in two years. The net operating income for the month was $1,470,477 as compared with $1,269,658 in Sept., 1931—an increase of $200,819. Gross operating was $8,490,291, as compared with $9,535,783. De-

FOREIGN ISSUES FEATURE TRADE IN BOND MARKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 26.—Foreign issues were the strongest section of the bond market today as domestic liens of all grades moved uncertainly, some of them losing from fractions to several points. Trading continued light.

The market as a whole ignored such signs of business improvement as the continuation of the United States Steel corporation's preferred dividend, further expansion of electric power output and freight car loadings and better railroad earnings reports.

Although two of the above news items were of particular importance to the railroad industry, carrier bonds of the speculative type posted some of the sharpest losses. Nervousness and heaviness, however, also were to be noted among speculative utilities and industrials, while high grade issues had an uncertain tone.

German Issues Rise.

German government issues recovered moderately from the Monday and Tuesday weakness and most other bonds of that nationality were slightly higher. The sharpest recoveries were made in Argentine and Australian bonds, which averages two to three points above yesterday's closing.

Italian 7s were about a point higher and Milan 6½s and Rome 6½s sold higher. Serbian bonds were notable exceptions to the trend, both issues breaking through their old lows.

Canadian bonds, including issues of Canadian National railways, moved lower as the Canadian dollar eased slightly.

U. S. Liens Softer.

United States government issues were a shade better at the opening, but failed to hold any appreciable gains, owing chiefly to the unwillingness of banks to tie up their liquid resources just before election.

Even high grade corporation bonds, the backbone of the investment market, moved somewhat uneasily today. Traders report that some of the banks which have been buyers of prime corporation issues appear restive and are gradually withdrawing bids, thus accentuating the thinness of the market.

Such traders are not content with the explanation that the market's inability to make progress results from political uncertainties alone. They contend that the manner in which the market is ignoring present favorable news, including carloadings and power output, denotes a fear that business news for the remainder of the year will prove less favorable, especially since the seasonal business peak is now at hand.

Has Mortgage on a Cottage.

TO THE EDITOR: I hold a first mortgage for $2,200 on a cottage which I purchased from the ——— bank two years ago. The principal is due in 1933, special assessments of $150 and the 1930 taxes, as well as the interest due in September have not been paid. The bank has collected the interest but doesn't seem to take any interest in this matter, and they told me to go to Mr. ———, in whose name the mortgage is signed. I have tried to see Mr. ——— and I can never find him at home. His daughter tells me that the people living in this cottage don't pay rent and don't see how they can pay rent and taxes. Still, the owner of this cottage lives in a $12,000 bungalow.

I am a widow and have no other means and I am depending on this interest for my living. Kindly advise as to what I can do in this matter. Would foreclosure be the proper thing or should I consult an attorney? If so, what would the cost of such proceedings be? If any more information is needed, kindly let me know. —T. H.

ANSWER: There are thousands of home owners living in attractive homes today who have no available cash and are barely making both ends meet, so this doesn't indicate that the owner of your cottage is not pressed for funds. We suggest you write the owner, by registered mail, suggesting a conference to discuss what course is to be followed for the protection of your investment.

We know of several cases that have been worked out in the following manner providing you are willing to manage the property. Suggest the owner quit claim the property to you at this time, you, in turn, to manage the property, collect rents, and agree to turn over all money received in excess of carrying charges; in addition, offer the owner an option to purchase the property within eighteen months.

Or some similar plan of reorganization might be worked out on an equitable basis. However, if you fail to arrange a satisfactory agreement, we suggest you secure the services of a good attorney to assist you in this matter.

The expense of forclosure varies depending upon the time required to settle the case. However, we suggest you secure a flat rate if possible.

WHEAT FUTURES BREAK TO LOWEST IN PIT'S HISTORY

Corn, Oats and Rye Drop to New Seasonal Lows.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A new all time record low for wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade since trading started around 70 years ago was established yesterday when the December delivery sold at 44¾c, and all deliveries of corn, oats and rye dropped to new low figures for the season.

Heavy liquidation in wheat credited to eastern interests was largely responsible for the decline in prices which sent the nearby future a fraction below the previous record low established in July this year, and 6¼c under the price established in 1894, which was the lowest known up to 1931.

The break in wheat brought the United States no nearer an export basis than heretofore as the Winnipeg market dropped as much as 2c per bu with the December touching 46c on the dip and closed at 46¼c in Canadian funds. The latter were 8½ per cent discount from par.

Wheat Rallies Near Close.

There was considerable change in sentiment noted during the day on the part of speculative wheat interests. Free buying by commission houses and the professional element absorbed the liquidating sales by the east on scale orders, and a rally of over 1c from the inside figures followed. However, the close was slightly under the best prices with net losses here of ⅝@¾c for the day with the December 44¾@44¾c; May, 50¾c, and July, 5½c at the last. There was liberal buying of December against sales of May at 5¼c during the day and also the reverse.

Net losses in the Canadian wheat market for the day were 1⅞@1¾c with the October future showing the most strength, although it was at the lowest price known for any delivery in that market. There was little evidence of the aggressive support which was such a factor in holding the December around 50c per bu in the last few weeks.

Rumored Russia Buys Wheat.

Rumors were current yesterday that Russia had been a buyer of Argentine wheat with one cargo said to have been taken, but the report was generally taken with considerable reserve by the trade. Liverpool, however, was affected to some extent by reports that Russia would have little or no wheat available for export this season. The English market closed 1⅛c per bu lower with December at 51⅝c, or 7¼c over the same future in Chicago, the widest spread in many months.

Export sales of over 1,000,000 bu North American wheat were reported yesterday, including one or two cargoes of hard winter at the Gulf to Greece at the highest premium as compared with the Chicago December future in several years, and in addition around 700,000 bu Canadian grain was sold from Vancouver.

Corn Breaks and Rallies.

Corn futures broke sharply early with the December touching 22¼c, or ⅝c under Tuesday's finish and a new low for the season, but the surplus in the pit was absorbed by cash houses who were presumably removing hedges against export sales, and a rally of ¾@⅞c followed with the close at net gains of ¼@1¼c, the December finishing at 24¼c, May at 29⅝c, and July at 31c.

According to trade reports local handlers sold around 300,000 bu cash corn to seaboard exporters during the day, and messages from the east claimed there had been a liberal business put through with Europe. No figures on the latter business were given, however.

Oats broke around 1c early and then rallied on a good class of buying and finished unchanged to ⅛c lower. December, which sold at 14⅜c on the break, or within ⅛c of the all time record low of 14⅛c of Sept. 8, 1896, was back to 15⅝c at the last. May closed at 17⅞c, and July at 18c. Rye closed ⅝c lower with December 23½c and May 32¾c but failed to establish a new record low, as the July delivery at 27¾c earlier this year.

BOARD OF TRADE TO CALL FOR REPORTS ON FUTURES

Blank forms have been sent to the members of the Board of Trade for use in reporting excessive individual short interests in grain contracts of 500,000 bu or more of wheat, corn and oats, and 200,000 bu or more of rye. This is in accord with the recent removal of federal restrictions which required reports on grain trades. It also is announced by the secretary's office that where necessary daily reports are scheduled to be made to the business conduct committee for the period beginning Oct. 28, Friday.

LARD PRICES BREAK

Liquidation by holders of October lard and moderate pressure on January and May, combined with the weakness in grains, was sufficient to lower prices of lard futures 2 to 5c net for the day. Cash lard situation is said to be healthy with regular, loose and leaf selling at the same price, $4.20. Proof of the foreign buying is shown by clearances of 4,071,680 lbs from New York on Tuesday, and of bacon only 27,500 lbs. Trade in bellies was neglected at $4.95, a drop of 2½c. Fresh meat trade was fair with loins 9 to 11c. Prices follow:

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 26.—Bad news from the wheat pit, somewhat less satisfactory trade reports and the ever-present election factor prevented the stock market from making more than a passing salute to the regular steel dividend today.

There was a flurry of buying at the opening in response to the announcement and another in the final hour of trading, but enough selling poured in between rounds to keep prices from getting much above last night's finals.

Business was a little more active on both sides, volume rising to around 900,000 shares.

Ten of the leaders, General Motors, United Aircraft, United States Steel, American Telephone, Case Threshing Machine, Du Pont, Drug, Atchison, Lackawanna, and American Can accounted for a good proportion of the transactions.

Rail Shares Gain.

Railroad shares claimed attention on fresh earnings figures justifying hopes that the net for October may approach if not equal that of the corresponding month of last year. Besides Atchison and Lackawanna, such issues as Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, and Illinois Central enjoyed a fair measure of attention. Gains in the group ranged as high as 3 points.

There were some improved figures on electric power output on the affirmative side of the argument on utilities, but the group was unable to register much enthusiasm over the development. Consolidated Gas and Public Service of New Jersey rose a point or so each and fractional gains were made by a number of others. Peoples Gas gave up a point on nominal turnover. The power figures were the best in months, the decline from the corresponding period of last year being 7.2 per cent as compared with 9 per cent in the previous week.

Steel Preferred Up 4 Points.

Although Iron Age backed less authoritative comment in interpreting the declaration of the regular Steel dividend as indicating a conviction by the directors of the country's premier industrial corporation that better times ahead, the common shares of the company failed to show any unusual response to the news. The preferred moved ahead more than 4 points, however, most of the gain being scored in the later trading. Other steel shares were mixed.

Three or four preferred stocks rose briskly in the late afternoon rally, but a dozen or more wound up the day showing losses of from 2 to more than 7 points. Among the heavy losers were Curtis Publishing, Federal Light and Walgreen.

Homestake Gains 5 Points.

There was a flurry or two of buying in the gold stocks and Homestake Mining, the blueblood of the section, skipped ahead more than 5 points. Homestake, it will be recalled, was the only stock on the board to hold above the 100 mark when the list was scraping its "despair" bottoms last summer. Its minimum for the year was 110. Today's closing sale enabled it to register a new high of 132½.

Merchandise shares were generally inactive and the price changes on them of little consequences.

Farm implement and mail order issues fluctuated with wheat. Case rose from an early 36 to 39¼, up 1⅛ on the day.

LOSS REPORTED BY YOUNGSTOWN SHEET AND TUBE

Youngstown Sheet and Tube company yesterday reported net loss of $3,241,444 for the third quarter, as compared to net loss of $3,288,861 in the second quarter, and of $1,504,892 in the third quarter of 1931. The report showed cash and government securities Sept. 30 of $15,668,232 as against $15,060,247 at the end of the second quarter. Current ratio of assets to liabilities was given as 12.43 to one, as compared to 11.72 to one at the end of the second quarter.

COTTON GETS SUPPORT; CLOSED BEST OF DAY

Cotton markets practically ignored the weakness in grains and stocks, receiving good support from the trade and speculative interests, especially the former, which absorbed hedging sales and created a better feeling. Liverpool was better than expected, closing 4 points net lower. Exports for the season to date aggregate 1,837,922 bales, compared with 1,465,449 bales last year. The weekly weather crop report was mostly favorable, and the harvest of low-land cotton is farther advanced than usual at this time of the year. Prices covered a wider range and at the close futures in Chicago were 17 to 19 points net higher, with other markets up 14 to 17 points. Spots gained 25 points, New York reaching 6.40c; New Orleans, 6.35c; Galveston, 6.25c, and Houston, 6.20c. Prices follow:

BID IN MILAND BUILDING FOR ITS BONDHOLDERS

Property Is Obtained for $25,000.

BY AL CHASE.

William M. Richards, assistant secretary of the H. O. Stone & Co. bondholders' protective committee, yesterday took title for the bondholders to the Miland building at 4670-76 Milwaukee avenue. It was conveyed to him by quit claim deed by the Milwaukee - Leland Building corporation. The building contains three stores and forty-three apartments of two, three, and four rooms, unfurnished. It was bid in at foreclosure sale on Tuesday by Frances M. Blakely for the bondholders for $52,000.

AVERY BRUNDAGE.

The building was financed with an H. O. Stone & Co. bond issue of $125,000, which has never been reduced. The interest rate is 6½ per cent. Interest defaulted on May 28, 1930. The Chicago Title and Trust company was appointed receiver. According to Mr. Richards the bond issue is to be reorganized through a liquidation trust. When the trust is formed the receiver will be dismissed.

Avery Brundage is chairman of the H. O. Stone & Co. bondholders' protective committee. The other members are: Horatio B. Hackett, Francis R. Blossom, J. L. Kraft, and Charles M. Moderwell. Fisher, Boyden, Bell, Boyd & Marshall are attorneys.

Extend Constance Bonds.

Martin C. Haedtler, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee for bonds issued by the Woodlawn Trust and Savings bank, announced that the extension of the loan on the Constance apartments, at the northwest corner of 73d street and Constance avenue, has been completed. The bonds are ready to be returned to the owners, with extension agreement and coupons attached.

The extension is for five years at 6 per cent interest. There'll be a $1,000 prepayment of principal paid off in the second, third, and fourth years, and the balance will be due the fifth year. The bonds will be paid off by lot. The bond issue originally was $55,000, since paid down to $41,500. All prepayments of principal and interest have been met promptly on due date, according to Mr. Haedtler. The taxes have all been paid up to and including 1930.

Cancel 95 Year Lease.

A cancellation of the long term lease at the northeast corner of Commercial avenue and East 91st street, lot 87 by 125, was filed for record yesterday. The original lease was between the Commercial National and Safe Deposit company as lessor and Frank Davis, Abe Cotton, and Barney Kaplan as lessees. The lease was for ninety-five years and ten months beginning on April 1, 1929. The lessees had contemplated extensive improvements but abandoned the project.

H. W. Croxton & Co. report leasing the store at 4643-45 Broadway to Barnett's Millinery stores for a term of years at an undisclosed rental. They state that renting activity in the block between Leland and Wilson has been maintained during the last twelve months. Four other leases negotiated by this firm are at: 4621, to M. Schiff, haberdasher; 4647, to J. A. Powel, jeweler; 2649, to Ajay Lingerie shop, and 4651, to H. A. Rabin, cloak shop.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Offers to buy more cotton goods on contract were submitted in the dry goods market today, but most of them were declined because of the recent drop in prices. Catalog and chain stores report a steady demand for staple dry goods and business decidedly better than last spring. Silk goods are quiet before the opening of a new spring season.

ABRUPT DECLINE IN RECEIPTS AID TO HOG MARKET

Prices Advance 5@10c; Clearance Good.

An abrupt decrease in receipts, coupled with colder weather, reversed the trend of the hog market in yesterday's session. The active buying of larger houses in the break on the preceding day also had its effect. All smaller houses and city butchers carried larger buying orders and the speculative element displayed more interest in the stronger position of the trade. A 5@10c advance soon developed and spots at the close were up more, with the clearances unusually good.

Very few good grades remained in the 3,000 head estimated left at the finish. The extreme top price recovered 5c, going to $3.60. The general average advanced 10c, to $3.45. Receipts were estimated early at 18,000 and later at 16,000, which was several thousand under the number expected for yesterday. Larger local packers followed yesterday's advance rather reluctantly and eastern buying accounted for only 1,000 hogs. This dampened some of the enthusiasm over the rally, but the run was short and closing sales were as high as any time of the session.

Cattle Supply Larger.

While hog receipts fell short of expectations yesterday, the cattle supply overran and halted the recovery that got under way Tuesday. The pressure of receipts opened up another bear raid on the rank and file of steers, but topnotchers were scarce and maintained a fully steady to strong trend. Prime 1,432 lb steers at $9.85 made the high mark for the day, showing a 20c gain over Tuesday and a 35c advance compared with the high point of last week. These kinds are highest in more than two weeks and only 50c under the highest spot since last January, while the bulk of steers are unevenly $1.00@2.00 lower than the middle of last month.

However, notwithstanding the two way trend of the market much of the time, the spread in prices is not as wide as it was at this time last year. A year ago yesterday top steers advanced to $11.25, while the bottom quotation for steers of beef merit was down to $4.25. Yesterday's range was $4.00@9.85, $1.15 narrower than in 1931.

Butcher stock was uneven, but averaged about steady. Some prime corn bed cows and heifers ruled stronger. Most of the beef cows are going at $2.75@3.50, only choice to prime animals selling at $4.00@4.50. There was better action in the stocker and feeder division at steady prices.

Lambs Get Setback.

The lamb market was given a rather unexpected setback yesterday. The decline was attributed to the poorer quality of the western range stock, which ran largely to thin lambs. Fully half the supply consisted of feeding lambs selling at $4.25@4.75, light whiteface stock at the outside figure. Range lambs were bought for slaughter at $5.50 and under, or weak to unevenly lower, while most sales of native lambs revealed losses of 10@15c for the day. Trading progressed rather slowly. Handpicked native lambs to packers and city butchers cashed at $5.75, while packers took the majority of the good kinds at $5.00@5.50.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 7,000 cattle, 21,000 hogs, and 16,000 sheep, against 4,749 cattle, 18,407 hogs, and 12,872 sheep the previous Thursday and 6,338 cattle, 28,256 hogs, and 20,927 sheep a year ago.

Michigan Again Suspends Chicago Security House

Officials of Halsey, Stuart & Co. said they were at a loss yesterday to explain the latest action of the Michigan state securities commission in again suspending the firm's license to do business in that state. A previous suspension was followed by reinstatement when the investment banking firm pleaded that there was no proof to substantiate the recent indictment of the firm in connection with the financing of the Wardman properties in Washington, D. C. Officials said the latest action was taken without notice. They cited the previous statement of the firm's counsel, John W. Davis, who said there was no basis for the indictments in his opinion. A hearing has been set for Oct. 29 on the matter, George W. Mackenzie, chairman of the Michigan commission said yesterday.

MOTOR DEMAND ONLY FEATURE OF STEEL TRADE

Illinois Central to Buy Rails Late in Year.

Except for larger orders from some of the automobile companies, steel business has made no further headway, a situation generally ascribed to the unsettled political situation, according to the weekly review of the industry by Iron Age.

Ingot production for the country has eased off to about 19 per cent of capacity despite the fact that there have been increases in tonnage in a few lines.

The reduction of $3 a ton in the price of steel rails, announced by the United States Steel corporation and followed by other producers, is not expected to produce much immediate rail tonnage, but will assist the railroads in figuring their 1933 budgets. The Illinois Central has stated that it will buy 6,000 tons, but its order will not be placed until the end of the year, nor are other roads likely to buy before that time. Total sales of rails for 1933 delivery undoubtedly will be far below normal.

With three automobile manufacturers—Chevrolet, Buick and Plymouth—now engaged in production of new models, steel releases from these sources have been the largest in months. Purchases of the Chevrolet and Fisher body companies for the new Chevrolet car have totaled 25,000 tons in the last week, which, added to 15,000 tons placed earlier, covers requirements for the fourth quarter output of 60,000 cars. Steel orders of lesser volume have also come from Buick and Plymouth.

Parts makers in the Detroit territory are busier, and some low-priced contracts they have taken have resulted in increased pressure on steel quotations. There has been strong resistance from makers of bars and small shapes, but sheet prices have weakened. No. 24 hot-rolled annealed sheets are generally available at the September price of 2.10c, Pittsburgh, which makers attempted to raise $2 a ton at the beginning of this quarter. Light and heavy cold-rolled sheets, steel furniture stock and some other grades are easier in price. Forging billets have been reduced $2 a ton at Pittsburgh and Chicago.

Foundry pig iron is 25c a ton lower at Philadelphia, a reflection of the continued competition from abroad, particularly Holland. Some grades of scrap have weakened.

DUMPING OF LAKE CARGO COAL IN WEEK BETTERS '31

Cleveland, O., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Dumping of cargo tons of bituminous coal into lake freighters during the week ended Oct. 24 exceeded the total for the corresponding week a year ago, the report of the ore and coal exchange showed today. It was the first time this season an increase was recorded.

Net tons of cargo coal dumped during the week were 1,039,038, and of fuel coal 27,845 tons. In the corresponding week a year ago 996,413 tons of cargo coal and 28,770 fuel tons were handled.

LUMBERMEN ASK 15 TO 25 PCT. CUT IN FREIGHT RATES

Say Prices Drop One-Half —Shipping Costs Rise.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Requests for reductions in railroad freight rates for lumber ranging from 15 to 25 per cent are to be made by the lumber industry as a result of a decision taken yesterday by the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, which has been meeting at the Congress hotel.

"The future of the lumber industry rests to a considerable extent on the cost it must pay for transporting its products," explained Dr. Wilson Compton, executive secretary of the association. "Although lumber at the mills is selling from 45 to 50 per cent less than it did in the early part of 1929, railroad transportation costs are higher than then as a result of the surcharges put into effect last January."

Discard Blanket Cut.

It was first proposed that the national association ask for a blanket reduction in freight rates for lumber, but at yesterday's meeting, at which some 1,500 companies were represented, the decision was taken to have the lumber interests in the various parts of the country apply locally for relief.

Under the plan adopted yesterday Pacific northwest lumber companies want a 20 per cent reduction on freight for the Chicago market, while southern concerns are asking 25 per cent for this market.

"Under the present rate schedule it is cheaper to ship lumber to the Chicago market from the Pacific northwest by ship via the Panama canal to the Atlantic seaboard and then by rail to Chicago," Dr. Compton said. "Under present rates 1,000 feet of lumber can be shipped to Japan at a cost which would take it only to Spokane, and the cost of shipping this same amount by ship around the world would take it only to Denver by train.

Can't Pay Present Rates.

"The lumber industry would prefer to ship by railroad. Rail service is quicker, safer and there is less damage. Besides the railroads are among our best customers. But with wages paid in our industry down 25 per cent and our prices down 45 to 50 per cent, we don't think present railroad rates are fair, although we realize the difficulty the roads are in. It is simply a question of our not being able to bear the traffic under present freight rates."

Dr. Compton said there has been a slight improvement in the lumber industry. The bottom was touched in the middle of July, with a fair improvement shown in August and September. Recently the usual seasonal decline in orders has set in. Lumbers showing the greatest improvement have been southern pine first and western pine and fir second.

SIR ROBERT HORNE FORECASTS GAINS AFTER ELECTION

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A gradual but steady move forward in America after the election and a similar move in Great Britain was predicted by Sir Robert Horne, former chancellor of the exchequer, in addressing the English Review Luncheon club today.

Sir Robert remarked that one action undertaken by America and Great Britain together, or by Great Britain alone, which would make a quicker change in the prospects for world trade than any other single thing was the placing of silver on a proper basis. He regretted that Great Britain was one place where too little attention is being given to silver, it being the question that affected Great Britain and the eastern trade, on which it depended, more than any other country.

Sir Robert also said he did not regard the fall of sterling with any perturbation at all. "The pound sterling, without any support from the equalization fund, is reaching the level it should naturally attain in relation to the amount of trade being done with the outside world. It's all to the good. One of the great mistakes of the past was keeping the pound at too high a level."

HERCULES POWER.

Company's net profit for the nine months ended Sept. 30 was $538,587 after taxes and charges, as against $1,087,886 in the like 1931 period. September quarter net profit was $238,371, compared with $351,783 in the third quarter of last year.
